No Government Operation.
Meden Agan, and Ederle.
We Will Not Trade.
Comfort From Coolidge.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

IN A LETTER to Congressman Reese, of Tennessee, President Hoover announces his opposition to any government operation of power plants, declaring for private leasing of the nation's power. If the Senate votes for government operation of Muscle Shoals, the President will veto the bill.

THAT SEEMS to settle the farmers' dream of cheap fertilizer from Muscle Shoals. The people built it but will not run it. No private power company will be suspected of producing cheap fertilizer.

On the other hand, the private power companies will make plenty of profit and after all, what helps one group of American citizens, theoretically, helps them all.

Aristotle put it almost as briefly "not too much, not too little."

THIS TIME the "Meden Agan" reminder comes from Gertrude Ederle, who swam the English Channel, amazing the world, four years ago. She had become almost entirely deaf, as the result of the 14 hours spent in the cold English Channel.

SHE HAD A wonderful triumph. The President and Gov. Smith congratulated her. New York gave her wonderful receptions. She refused vaudeville offers that would have made her a fortune. But, says she, "It wasn't worth it."

"Meden Agan."

TWO SHIPS from Archangel loaded with Russian pulpwood were forbidden to land cargoes on our soil yesterday. Anchored near the Statue of Liberty, the ships were reminded that it is our brand of liberty we advertise, not the Russian brand.

There is talk of stopping all imports from Russia. If they undersell American producers, their goods must be produced by "slave labor."

THAT WILL interest, and will not please some of our workmen and manufacturers.

The International Harvester Company in Milwaukee is putting men to work on $7,000,000 worth of orders from Russia, and the Allis-Chalmers plant is working full tilt, thanks largely to Russian orders.

If we won't buy from Russia, Russia probably won't buy from us.

CALVIN COOLIDGE, in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other papers, suggests that those in need of "a little encouragement can look at the condition of the federal treasury."

That seems like advising the hungry to look through the glass window of a restaurant. But figures quoted by Mr. Coolidge are encouraging.

"The national debt has been reduced by ten billion dollars and now stands at a little over sixteen billion dollars. The interest charge has been practically cut in two, but is still over $600,000,000."

MR. COOLIDGE also reminds you that "we have had five reductions of taxes, which gives the people direct relief of about $2,000,000,000—two thousand millions—yearly."

Credit for the draft of tax bills, issuing new securities that cut the average interest rate below 4 per cent, is due to Secretary Mellon, says Mr. Coolidge.

Credit for the policy of economy "belongs to the President," but Mr. Coolidge doesn't say which president.

A LITTLE CREDIT also, although Mr. Coolidge doesn't mention it, belongs to the American citizens who have been taxed to pay off the ten billion in bonds, and are taxed now to meet every foolishness that Congress can invent.

IT IS WISE and interesting after each Sunday to review the sayings of the distinguished clergy, for instance:

The Rev. Dr. Wagner says too many are chained to the wheels of money. That's our trouble.

Canon J. Forbes Mitchell, of Scotland, says youth should live more intensely. His advice is something like that of Dante: "Work as nature works, in fury."

Prof. Haughton, of the School of Theology, says earth's various faiths will merge. That would at least stop religious quarrels.

RABBI MORRIS Lichenstein says too much pleasure is "the foe of our life."

Bishop Abbott of the Kentucky Protestant Episcopal Church says he used to think women ran the United States, but knows now that children run it. He has confidence in the children.

THE SADDEST religious news comes from Charles Stelzle, representing religious and semi-religious organizations. He says, "modern evangelists admit that their work has failed."

Religion even with ardent evangelists to make it interesting cannot compete with "the radio, automobile, sports and commercialism."

Also he finds "men more spiritual minded than women when once they are converted." And "the interest of women in religion is comparatively superficial."

If that is true, women have changed since they were "last at the cross and first at the tomb."

ALBERTA SHAGAS, 4

CHILD MADE ILL BY WINE

Little Alberta Shagas, 4, of 8 Moultrie street, lies in the Children's Hospital today in a serious condition as the result of intoxication from wine alleged to have been given the child by her father, John Shagas.

According to relatives, Alberta arose with her father early yesterday morning and went with him to the cellar of their home, where Shagas had prepared some wine to take to the home of a friend. Police say they were informed that Shagas gave the child a considerable quantity of the liquor. A short time later she became violently ill and a physician who was called sent her to the hospital. The child lapsed into unconsciousness.

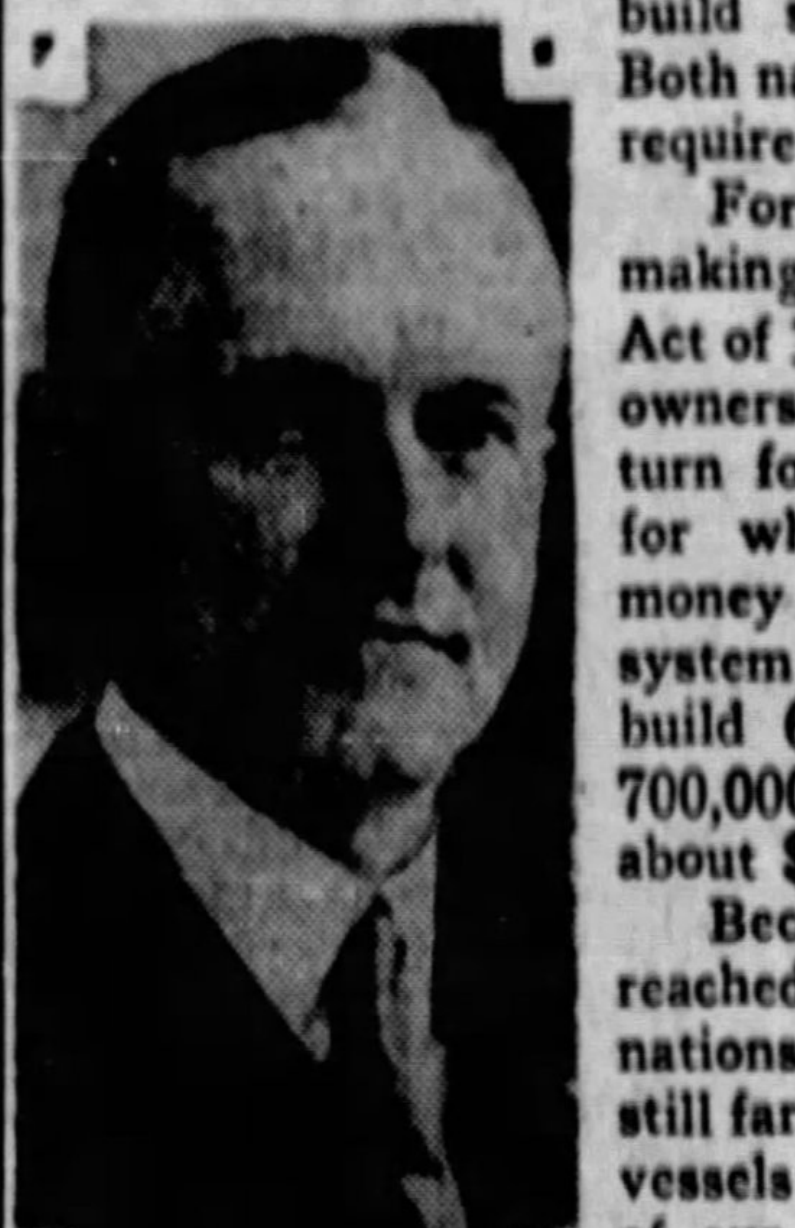
Her condition is serious. Hospital authorities believe she will recover.

Coolidge Says U. S. Needs Merchant Ship Parity

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 29.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Public interest in the Merchant Marine has never been sufficiently strong. We all believe in good roads on land. A merchant ship is the only good road on the water. For the same reason that the government builds highways and leaves them to private operation, it is justified in helping build ships for private operation. Both national defense and commerce require ships.



Calvin Coolidge.

For the first time in years we are making some progress. Since the Act of 1928, good rates are paid ship owners for carrying the mail in return for agreements to build ships for which the government lends money at low interest. Under this system we now have agreements to build 68 ships aggregating about 700,000 gross tons and costing about $275,000,000.

Because of this system we have reached second place among the nations in shipbuilding. But we are still far behind our needs. Our own vessels carry only about 40 per cent of our foreign trade. We are dependent on our competitors to carry 60 per cent of our trade to market. Of course the result is that they help themselves and hamper us. Parity in merchant ships is only less important than parity in warships. We ought to make the necessary sacrifices to secure it.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

15 GO DOWN WITH LAKE BOAT

Six Rescued by Passing Ship After Freighter Founders During Storm

By RALPH HUMBLE,
International News Service.

ERIE, Pa., July 29.—Another tragedy of the Great Lakes and the men who sail them was revealed today when the lumbering freighter Amasa Stone poked her nose into port bearing six survivors of the crew of the freight steamer George J. Whelan, which foundered near Van Buren, N. Y., early this morning with 15 members of her crew, one a woman cook, aboard.

Those rescued and taken to port by the Amasa Stone are believed to be the only members of the Whelan's crew who escaped death.

Small hope was held out that any of the 15 missing would be picked up.

SEARCH FOR SURVIVORS

A score of lake steamers, however, were rushed to the spot where the Whelan rolled over and sank without warning in a mysterious lake disaster.

The six survivors were dazed by their experience. Some were almost incoherent in their expressions of gratitude to W. H. Neill, skipper of the Amasa Stone, who lowered boats and picked up the survivors who were swimming in the icy water.

The survivors, clinging to bits of driftwood and wreckage from the Whelan, attracted the attention of the Amasa Stone's lookout

Done With Tennis, Lenglen Indicates

PARIS, July 29.—(INS.)—A report published by the London Daily Telegraph that she is seeking reinstatement as an amateur was emphatically denied by Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, here today. She declared:

"So far as I can see, the dressmaking business will take up all my time."

DOG RACING TO RESUME; NO BETS

Judge Gardner Quick to Riddle 'Loophole' Found In Injunction by Douglas

The racing dogs will run tonight at the Guyasuta track on the Freeport road.

But if there is any betting, county detectives will be on hand to arrest the operators of the track.

John Douglas, former politician, who yesterday was appointed receiver for the track, announced that the races would be run, but that he hadn't decided whether there would be betting.

SEES LOOPHOLE

Douglas interprets a clause in Judge Samuel H. Gardner's court order naming him receiver as forbidding one and all—even District Attorney Park—from interfering with the track's operation.

But Judge Gardner today riddled this interpretation when he advised Park:

"Andy, don't you be afraid of being held in contempt of court for making any arrests at the track for violation of the law. The court's order had nothing to do with the betting angle."

The order is that no creditor "or others" shall interfere with the receiver's operation of the track.

JUDGE EXPLAINS

But Gardner pointed out that the words "or others" were inserted by Douglas, who asked for the appointment of a receiver, to forestall any attempt of the O'Hara Land Company to repossess the track. The O'Hara company last week brought an amicable action in ejectment against the National Park Amusement Company, on part of whose land the track is located.

Reassured by Gardner's advice, Park announced that he had ordered county detectives to the park tonight.

Meanwhile Douglas was seeking a lawyer's advice.

In asking the receivership, Douglas said that the Guyasuta Kennel Club, operated by Charles Guest and Thomas Weppler, had assets of $75,000 and debts of $35,000. It was Douglas who had the contract to build the track.

Alice Du Pont Gets Air Pilot's License

BOSTON, July 29.—(INS.)—Eighteen-year-old Alice Du Pont, daughter of A. Felix Du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., today was the holder of a private pilot's license, having successfully passed her tests. During one of them her airplane, taxiing on the East Boston air field, crashed into a light monoplane, damaging both "ships," but Miss Du Pont escaped injury.

Endurance Fliers Start on Ninth Day

ST. LOUIS, July 29.—(AP.)—Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine started the ninth day of their endurance flight today when they had been up 192 hours. From now on until they land they must remain over Lambert-St. Louis Field, always within sight of an official observer. Their baragraph was for only eight days and to make the flight official they now must be constantly under observation.

Red Plane Still Flying, Ninth Day

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., July 29.—(INS.)—The red monoplane attempting to break the world's refueling endurance record entered its ninth day in the air today. The plane must stay aloft over 225 more hours to break the record established on July 4 at Chicago by the Hunter brothers.

Prince of Wales Flies to Belgium

LONDON, July 29.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales left the Hendon airdrome this afternoon for Brussels to visit the King and Queen of the Belgians.

The prince's plane was piloted by Squadron Leader Don. It was escorted by two other planes.

HEAT WANES AS ANOTHER DIES

End of the torrid wave which has held Pittsburgh in its grip two weeks, causing many deaths and numerous prostrations was seen today by officials of the weather bureau.

At the weather bureau temperatures ranged about 9 degrees lower than those for corresponding hours yesterday. No rain was in prospect, it was said.

The latest death was that of Frank Stjlando, 54, of 39 Gilmore way. He died in Mercy Hospital shortly after midnight, seven hours after he had been removed to the institution from his home. Heat prostration was given as the cause of his death.

Mooney Quiz Preceded by Bomb Hunt

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—(INS.)—Plainclothes detectives searched every nook and corner of the Supreme Court's room today before the seven justices met for the hearing of John MacDonold, confessed perjurer in the 1916 Mooney-Billings bomb murder trials.

The detectives, while denying any threatening letters or warnings had been received, said they had been instructed to look into waste baskets, behind desks and to search everywhere for any bomb that might have been planted. They found nothing.

The State Building, which houses the courtroom, was surrounded by police and no one allowed within the building who could not give a definite reason for going there.

Italy's King Hailed By Roman Populace

ROME, July 29.—(AP.)—King Victor Emmanuel today received the salute of the Roman populace, on the thirtieth anniversary of his reign. Standing before a multitude in the square in front of Pantheon the monarch hailed his subjects who, Roman fashion, outstretched their arms in the ancient pledge of fealty.

After three days in the earthquake zone the monarch appeared saddened and weary.

Goslin Place Raided, No One There

When four South Side plainclothesmen reached an alleged clearing house lottery shop at 12 South Twenty-seventh street today, they found the place deserted and a hole chopped in the floor, through which somebody—said to be a man and a woman—had escaped.

Officer Louis Foster said the squad had not set out to raid the shop, which has been identified as the headquarters of Thomas (Goose) Goslin, foe of Inspector John J. McArdle, but that they were walking nearby when they saw two-score people running from the place.

A crowd of 200, including Goslin, watched police enter through the basement. They reported finding clearing house pads and four envelopes containing $50.

Two weeks ago Jack Goldstein was arrested at the same place for conducting a lottery. He said he worked for Goslin.

Car of Canadian Ale Seized at Bradford

A tank car containing 1,800 quarts of Canadian ale was seized today at Bradford, Pa., according to a telephone report by agents to prohibition headquarters here.

The agents had gone to Bradford on orders of Deputy Administrator Harold D. Wilson, who had received a tip the liquor was being shipped.

POSTAL LEASES HERE IN QUIZ

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The Senate Postoffice Committee is coming to Pittsburgh, to investigate the leasing of quarters there, it was announced here today by John E. Holland, general counsel for the committee.

The committee, of which Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, is chairman, was declared to be intent on running down all the facts in the so-called leasing scandal, but cannot get what it wants by simply calling witnesses to Washington. Instead, the committee intends to visit every city listed for investigation.

How soon the tour will begin cannot be predicted, Mr. Holland said. The visit, however, will be made some time before the opening of the next Congress. Just now, the committee is occupied with the Chicago situation. When this is disposed of, it will plan an itinerary including Pittsburgh and many other cities.

Yacht to Be Placed At Hoover's Disposal

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 29.—(INS.)—The 85-foot commuting yacht Gem, owned by Jeremiah Milbank, of New York, and under command of Capt. C. P. Eaton, of New London, today was headed for the Potomac River where the vessel will be placed at the disposal of President Hoover for the summer, according to an announcement here today.

King George Taking Two Weeks Afloat

BIG AIRSHIP SOARS FOR AMERICA

BULLETIN.

VALENTIA, Ireland, July 29.—(AP.)—The wireless station here at 4:18 p. m., (12:18 p. m. Pittsburgh time) received the following radio from the British dirigible R-100:

The point of Malin Head is 10 miles northwest of Londonderry, which is on the northern coast of Ireland.

LONDON, July 29.—The British dirigible R-100, bucking adverse winds and forcing her blunt nose through masses of low-hanging clouds, left the British Isles behind and sailed out over a choppy sea on her voyage to Canada shortly before 1 p. m. today (9 a. m. Pittsburgh daylight time).

NEAR HEBRIDES

This position placed the airship in the vicinity of the Hebrides Islands, off the north tip of Scotland. She had then negotiated a distance of approximately 618 miles since hopping off from her hangar at Cardington, at 3:45 a. m. today.

At the time of her last message the ship was making about 48 knots per hour.

An hour earlier she had reported her position as 55.24 degrees north latitude, 07.50 degrees west longitude. The message read:

"We are making 45 knots speed. The weather is cloudy and it is raining, but the sea is visible below us at intervals.

"Hot lunch is now being served. All O. K."

At 2 p. m., Greenwich Meridian time (10 a. m. Pittsburgh time), the big airship reported by wireless that her position was 55.15 degrees north latitude, 09.10 degrees west longitude.

2,800-MILE FLIGHT

International News Service.

CARDINGTON, Wales, July 29.—(INS.)—Shooting northward in its flight to St. Hubert Airfield at Montreal, the British dirigible R-100 today sailed the skies serenely on the first leg of its 2,800-mile trans-Atlantic cruise.

The world's biggest and fastest airliner soared away from its mooring mast at 3:45 a. m. this morning, just as the first pale touch of dawn was graying the horizon. Looming momentarily like a storm cloud above its home base, the 5,000,000 cubic-feet hulk roared in a wide circle around the field, gathered momentum rapidly and like a flying cloud nosed away in the direction of Liverpool.

Commanded by the intrepid and seasoned air veteran squadron leader, R. S. Booth, the take-off was accomplished as gracefully as any ever engineered by Dr. Hugo

Charge of Bigamy Enlivens 'Mixed Baby' Scramble

CHICAGO, July 29.—(INS.)—More trouble loomed over the horizon today for Papa William Watkins, one of the principals in the celebrated Watkins-Bamberger baby scramble.

Watkins was declared by a Philadelphia woman to have married her 13 years ago, and to have deserted her and their child. Watkins admitted the marriage, but denied the desertion, saying he had procured a divorce.

The woman, whose maiden name was Annabelle Van Stan, went to a Philadelphia newspaper and told her story.

While worrying over this latest complication, Papa Watkins instructed his attorney to file suit for $100,000, charging "lost identity," against every doctor and nurse on the staff of the Englewood Hospital, where the Bamberger-Watkins mix-up had its inception.

The plaintiff is one of the confused babies, the one now at the Watkins home, suing under the name of "John Doe."

WHITE HOUSE DENIES ANY EMBARGO

Explains That Only Where Tariff Law Conflicts Will Shipments Be Turned Back

[illegible]

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The Federal government will put no barriers in the way of trade between the United States and Russia, except where Russian imports come into conflict with the American tariff law, it was said at the White House today in denial of loose reports that embargo restrictions were being placed against Soviet products.

One section of the tariff act specifically prohibits the importation of goods manufactured by convict or forced labor. Evidence in the hands of the Treasury indicates that the Russian woodpulp shipments refused at New York yesterday were so manufactured in Russia.

While the White House was disavowing any discrimination against Russia, a large delegation of New Yorkers, representing importers, shippers, shipowners and officials of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, were making an unsuccessful plea at the Treasury for admission of the pulp.

The Amtorg people denied the pulp was manufactured by convict labor, but Treasury officials did not consider their evidence sufficient to reverse the ruling.

Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, and Frank Dow, deputy customs commissioner, took under consideration cablegrams from Russia and affidavits which denied the pulpwood was produced by convict or forced labor.

It was indicated, however, that Russian pulpwood in American ports, or on the high seas, will not be admitted.

BROWN APPEAL LEGAL, AIDES DECLARE

Arguments Must Be Heard, Attorneys Maintain; Faction on Defensive

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Arguments must be held on August 19 on the appeals of Francis Shunk Brown, Sr., in the much-discussed Luzerne County ballot perforation case, attorneys for Brown held today in commenting on the briefs filed in the Supreme Court here yesterday on behalf of Gifford Pinchot.

Before the high court can hear the arguments Brown's attorneys have prepared, the member must, however, hear arguments on the three points raised yesterday by Deputy Attorney General William A. Schnader at Pinchot's instigation.

SCHNADER'S DEMANDS

In the three points raised Schnader demanded the quashing of the appeal of the three Wilkes-Barre residents who took the case to the higher court, quashing of the general appeal of Brown's lawyers, and the setting aside of a ruling of the Supreme Court made on June 21 last, directing the Luzerne County commissioners to certify the official returns of the primary vote to the state election bureau at Harrisburg subject to modification, correction or rejection.

BROWN ON DEFENSIVE

The latest move by the Pinchot faction has placed the Brown faction on the defensive in their efforts to rule Brown and not Pinchot won the recent gubernatorial nomination of the Republican party.

Pressure brought to bear on the Wilkes-Barre appellants has resulted in their trying to withdraw their petitions, but attorneys for the Brown faction assert this cannot be done and arguments must be heard by the higher court on the date set.

FLOG GIRLS AT STATE SCHOOL

Governor Reveals Abuse Of Prisoners; Given Water Cure, Locked in Dungeons

International News Service.

CONCORD, N. H., July 29.—"Water cures," lashing with rubber tubing, confinement in dark, cramped "dungeons" and other "barbaric methods" were employed in the punishment of girl inmates of the State Industrial School, Gov. Charles W. Tobey had revealed today.

Charles S. Emerson, of Milford, removed as chairman of the trustees by the governor, had denied the general charges given by the chief executive and this denial brought the specific charges from the governor.

CITES CHARGES

Gov. Tobey, making public his specific citations, said:

"I leave it to the public to decide whether my statements that such punitive methods savored of barbarism and the dark ages were exaggerated."

The whipping of girls, the governor stated, was done with the rubber piping or tubing, with a wooden handle on one end, to the extent of 100 or 250 strokes while the girls were made to lie across a bed or a large laundry basket. The Governor added:

"In some cases so many strokes were given that one attendant had to relieve another in applying them."

GIVEN "WATER CURE"

"Water cure," said the Governor, was administrated by placing the girl in a shower bath compartment, stripped naked except for bloomers. The cold shower overhead was turned on and a garden hose used to play cold water from a nearby faucet, full force, direct upon the body.

Testimony was given, Gov. Tobey said, that when one girl put up her hands to ward off the force of the water from her face, "a strap was applied to her back to make her take her hands down." The superintendent admitted his ignorance of these two practices, the Governor's statement said.

The attendant who usually applies this punishment played it on the girl's face to "sort of strangle her," the Governor declared.

PUT IN DUNGEON

The "dungeon treatment," the Governor said, was given by confining girls in two compartments which look like henhouses. The "dungeons" were placed in the attic of the boys' building and the only air entering the compartment came indirectly through a space covered by chicken wire at the top. Inside all was dark. There is no furniture, except a blanket and a pail in the corner. The Governor asserted:

"Girls have been kept in these dungeons for as long as two weeks."

In conclusion, the Governor said:

"Punishment ceased on my orders. The matter is closed."

CARROLL TO GET JURY TRIAL

NEW YORK, July 29.—(INS.)—Earl Carroll scored a point today in his efforts to have his "Vanities" adjudged an innocent production.

He will be tried before a jury, Judge Otto A. Rosalsky having granted Carroll's application. Transfer of the case to General Sessions also was allowed.

First, however, the evidence must be presented to the grand jury. If no indictment is found, Carroll may escape further prosecution.

Communism Seen 'As I. W. W. Progeny

CHICAGO, July 29.—(AP.)—Communism was described as the progeny of anarchy and the I. W. W. movements by Lieut. Make Mills, veteran Chicago police officer, who appeared today before the congressional committee investigating Communistic activity. He told of his 34 years' experience with radicals.

Lieut. Mills, head of the Chicago police squad assigned to Communist investigators, said he believed that Communism was a constant menace, but that there was little real danger of it gaining a foothold in America.

Russ Buy $7,000,000 Harvesters in U. S.

CHICAGO, July 29.—(AP.)—An order for approximately $7,000,000 worth of machines has been received from Russia by the International Harvester Company.

As a result of the order, it is planned to double operations at the Milwaukee plant of the company, officials said. The order will keep the plant busy until after Christmas.

Reds Quarantined With Chicken Pox

VAN ETTEN, N. Y., July 29.—(AP.)—Dr. James Cargill, health officer for the village of Van Etten, has placed the so-called Communist camp at West Van Etten under quarantine, following discovery of two cases of chickenpox.

The 100 boy and girl campers are forbidden to leave the grounds.

HUNAN RAVAGED BY 10,000 REDS

PEIPING, July 29.—(INS.)—A ravaging force of 10,000 Communists swept up the Yangste valley today and overran Changsha, Hunan province capital, burning the government buildings and threatening to destroy all foreign property.

All Americans, with the exception of three missionaries, sought safety aboard the American gunboat Palos, with British and Japanese warships taking care of their residents. The trio of missionaries refused to seek safety on the gunboat, preferring to cast their lot with the half million Chinese trapped inside the walls of the ancient city.

With the invaders rapidly gaining in strength and the Nanking government forces overpowered in most places by Reds while attempting to cope with rebels in other sections, the various foreign governments have formally warned their residents in the endangered zones to depart at once.

Three Chinese Die In Typhoon's Sweep

MACAO, Portuguese China, July 29.—(AP.)—Three Chinese were drowned today during a typhoon accompanied by a 70-mile-an-hour hurricane which struck this town.

Huge waves pounded over the waterfront and wrecked several buildings. The gunboat Patria, anchored in the port, was damaged.

Famous Oculist Dies in Germany

FREIBURG, Germany, July 29.—(AP.)—Prof. Theodor Axenfeld, renowned oculist, died today at the age of 63. He was a member of the American Opthalmological Society from which he had received high honors. Dr. Axenfeld represented all Europe in his branch at the recent medical congress in Osaka, Japan.

Carl Hishfield, 71, of 1209 Juniata street, who collapsed in East Park, North Side, was taken to Allegheny General Hospital, where it was said he was suffering from heat prostration.

They were prostrated during yesterday's sweltering hours when the mercury reached a peak of 96 degrees. The lowest temperature reported yesterday was 71 degrees at 7 a. m., while the highest was recorded at 6 p. m. At midnight the temperature hovered around 85 degrees.

96 EQUALS RECORD

It was also thought that Pittsburgh would feel the cool wave predicted for the Middle West.

Yesterday's 96-degree mark equalled the all-time record for July 28, established in 1901. Swimming pools, crowded during the day, were just as crowded last night as the mercury fell slowly, about a degree an hour, bringing little relief to heat sufferers.

Heat Drives Farmer To Commit Suicide

CADIZ, O., July 29.—Samuel Donetrovick, 45, a farmer suffering from the heat, drank a pint of disinfectant last night and died two hours later.

He had been complaining for several days and had threatened to end his life.

Vessel Abandoned To Fire; Crew Saved

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 29.—(AP.)—The Swedish freighter Kronprins Gustaf Adolf, 2,255 tons, bound from Danzig to Santos with a cargo of coal, has been abandoned because of fire in the cargo off Victoria, Brazil.

A message from Capt. Moercy to the ship's agents here said he had decided to abandon ship. The Lamport & Holt liner Vandyck, bound from New York to Rio de Janeiro, picked up the officers and crew, numbering 30.

REST OF SEASON TO BE COOLER

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(INS.)—With the end of successive heat waves in sight for the country generally, Weather Bureau officials today offered cheering news to the suffering millions—that they will not have to endure such an experience again this summer.

There will be hot weather in the "dog days" of August, but, once the winds and the earth have cooled off, it is impossible there will be a recurrence of the record-breaking six weeks of the past before the cooling winds of approaching fall, officials say.

The past six weeks are described by Weather Bureau men as "most unusual." The reports of many individual stations show records of 50 years were broken.

Cashier Tricked, Pair Loots Bank

HILLMAN, Mich., July 29.—(AP.)—Two young men, who induced the cashier to let them in before business hours, robbed the Montmorency County Savings Bank here of $8,000 and an undetermined amount of securities today.

William Hiergarth, the cashier, went to the bank with the young men and admitted them before the usual opening time after they told him they required some money immediately to complete a land deal.

Cuba's Prize Beauty Sails for New York

HAVANA, July 29.—(AP.)—Senorita Mercedes Loynaz, brunet beauty elected to represent Cuba, sailed today for New York, where, after a brief stay, she will go to Rio de Janeiro for the international beauty pageant.

Youth Rejected As Middy, 'Too Big'

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 29.—(AP.)—Uncle Sam dislikes to have his admirals giants. An applicant for admission to the Naval Academy, 6 feet and 4 and 225, has been rejected because he is too big.

Life Guard Saves Knoxville Woman

EATON MAY FILE NEW SUIT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 29.—(INS.)—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier and generalissimo of the forces opposing the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, is making plans to file a suit charging mismanagement of the Youngstown concern, it was reported here today as trial of the injunction suit against the merger progressed.

Eaton could not be located, however, to verify the report and anti-merger counsel declined to comment.

Trial of the billion-dollar injunction suit against the Sheet & Tube-Bethlehem consolidation today centered about the anti-merger attack on the legality of proxies and ballots voted in favor of the merger at the stockholders' meeting April 8.

Anti-merger attorneys stated today that they were ready to launch their attack against 63,000 shares of what is now known as the Otis and Company block. The 53,000 shares are sufficient to either clinch or defeat the merger.

SEA PACT WAITS ROYAL ASSENT

LONDON, July 29.—(AP.)—The London naval treaty passed through all its stages in the House of Lords this afternoon and tonight needed only the royal assent before becoming effective.

The bill already had passed the House of Commons. It gives legal support to the pact entered into at the recent London naval conference. The royal signature will be affixed, it was said by officials, before Parliament is prorogued this week.

Army Balloon Lands Atop Hill in Ohio

PORTSMOUTH, O., July 29.—(AP.)—An Army balloon from Fairfield, O., piloted by Lieut. Randolph Williams, landed on top Sugar Loaf Hill, west of here, last night. Lieut. Frederick G. Lanceburg was flying with Williams as aide. They shipped the balloon back to Fairfield.

16 GO DOWN WITH BOAT

by shouts and fitful flashes from flashlights they had on their persons when they leaped into the lake.

TRAPPED ASLEEP

The Whelan was owned by the Kelly Island Transportation Company, of Cleveland, and was en route from Sandusky, O., to Tonawanda, N. Y., with a load of stone.

The six men, who escaped, leaped over the rail and into the water. Most of those believed to have been drowned were asleep in their bunks and had no chance to save themselves.

SAILING BOAT WRECKED

CLEVELAND, July 29.—(INS.)—Three men who had clung to the breakwater wall of Lake Erie off Edgewater Beach here for several hours, after their sailboat had been dashed to pieces by heavy waves, were rescued by two boatmen today.

Wreckage of the 32-foot sailboat, in which they had attempted to traverse the choppy waves of the lake, was washed ashore a few hours before the cries of the men were heard by motorists who had parked near the shore.

Deposed Army Chief Flees From Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 29.—(AP.)—Newspapers said today Gen. Hans Kundt, the German-born army commander who was unseated in the recent Bolivian revolt, left for Peru yesterday.

Gen. Kundt has been a refugee in the German legation here since the revolutionary movement began. His wife and daughter reached Peru Sunday and said they would sail for Germany at once.

3 Killed as Taxi Crashes Into Train

TAUNTON, Mass., July 29.—(AP.)—Three men were killed and a fourth seriously injured today when a taxicab crashed into a freight train. The dead:

Andrew A. Mozeski, 30, New Bedford; Kam Wong, 31, and his cousin, Tunlun Mong, both of Boston. Chester Wong, 38, Fall River, was critically injured.

Mozeski was driving the Wongs from Boston to New Bedford.

$100,000 Shortage Closes Ohio Bank

They said a shortage of more than $100,000 had been found in the accounts.

CONSERVATIVES SWEEP CANADA

OTTAWA, July 29.—(AP.)—R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader and prime minister-elect of Canada, will face Parliament with a clear working majority—the first premier in nine years to have in the House of Commons enough adherents to outvote the combined opposition.

Tabulations from the Dominion's general election of yesterday show the Conservatives won 136 seats, the Liberals, 85; five other parties, from 2 to 10 each, with five seats in doubt.

Even if all five go to the opposition, Bennett will have a majority of 26.

Fairchance Sailor's Body to be Returned

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(AP.)—The body of David Hoon, 21, of Fairchance, Pa., who died on the flagship Rochester, probably will be taken to Panama and thence by merchant vessel to the United States, the Navy Department announced. In the absence of details, Hoon's death was regarded by Navy Department officials to have been from natural causes.

Hoon was the son of the Rev. C. D. A. Hoon, pastor of the Fairchance Presbyterian Church.

Mexican Officer Kills Foe in Street

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—(AP.)—Jeronimo Olarte, an officer of the homeguard troops of Oaxaca, was shot dead by Maj. Jose Alamo Gonzales, of the regular army, before crowds of people in front of the War Department Building.

After being arrested the major declared Olarte had been responsible for the murder of one of his relatives. When they met in the street he said Olarte gloated over the deed, upon which he killed him.

4 Held as Members Of Counterfeit Ring

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 29.—(AP.)—Four men believed to be members of a counterfeiting ring operating in the state for the past six years were arrested in Cullman, Ala., by Federal agents and brought to jail here.

Those arrested are Feltes [illegible]tes, Jimmie Barres and John W[illegible] and Andrew Ponder, all of Cullma[illegible].

Mexican Police Kill Slayer of American

EL PASO, Tex., July 29.—(AP.)—Manuel Villareal, slayer of the father of W. J. Meers, who is facing murder charges in the death of Antonio Vicsonti in Juarez, across the international border from El Paso, was shot and killed when he tried to escape from Chihuahua police.

In testimony before Penal Judge Firguerca, of Juarez, Meers said he had killed Vicsonti when he mistook him for Villareal. The Elder Meers was slain during a payroll holdup here, six years ago.

President Arrested After Bank Crash

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 29.—(AP.)—Isaac Irwin, president of the California Savings and Trust Bank here, which closed last Wednesday, was arrested yesterday on a charge of theft of $50,000.

Irwin had collapsed and the warrant was served on him in bed. He is alleged to have diverted illegally $200,000 of the bank's funds.

Subtle, Clinging Frocks Decreed by Fashion

PARIS, July 29.—(AP.)—Milady's frocks this winter must be both elegant and subtle if she wishes them to beat the 1931 style stamp.

Mysterious peplums, tiers and tunics, mark the silhouettes displayed this week by half a hundred style establishments, which consider themselves "high style," before buyers searching for the new and beautiful with which to clothe Eve's posterity.

The lines, interrupting, but not distorting, the outlines of the now completely feminized figure, promise complication for the home dressmaker's art.

While the style shows are rapidly approaching a climax, none of the half dozen biggest houses has yet exhibited, and until they do final "style dope" still is subject to upset.

The consensus is, however, that skirts are to be only slightly longer for day wear, while waistlines hug the curve nature designed for them.

Colors to date emphasize a rich brown called "Van Dyke" after the painter, greens in many dark shades, rich reds, some purple—and black and white for morning, noon and night.

Drought Causes Martinsburg to Abandon Fair

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 29.—There will be no Martinsburg fair this year, because of the drought, the management has announced. Fruit, flowers and garden products are so poor as a result of the long dry spell that the usual exhibits would not be justified the sponsors stated. Cattle also are below par due to scant pasturage.

Lottery Office Deserted When Raiders Swoop

They found the store deserted. None too well satisfied, they gathered up a dice table and some clearing house pads before departing.

When Police Lieut. Moore visited an alleged number writing headquarters in Federal street, North Side, this morning, the place was vacant.

More successful were the county sleuths who raided a place in Wylie avenue, a heavy stone's throw from the courthouse. They reported finding lottery pads and arresting Charles Lindsey on the charge of maintaining a lottery.

Marion Dav[illegible]' '90's' Role Amuses, Charms London

LONDON, July 29.—(Universal)—The daily newspaper critics here follow those of the Sunday writers in their paeans of praise for Miss Marion Davies, whose latest film, "The Gay Nineties" ("The Florodora Girl" in America) had its premiere in a midnight show at the Empire Theater.

The Daily Mail critic said today:

"Marion looks more charming in this piece than ever I have seen her. She contrives to give a lovely air to the absurd tight bodices and abundant petticoats, whose reproduction in family portrait albums invariably gives us chuckles. She is the quintessence of pertness on the screen. She affects always an air of exhilarating sprightliness, yet never descends to archness.

"Again her acting makes you think she's on a huge lark. She cheers you and makes you forget your lesser worries."

S. R. Littlewood, writing in the trade paper The Referee, says that in the old days one always was uncertain whether the visual idol would remain the ideal when speech arrived, but:

"Now that we have heard Marion talk both on and off the screen, we really do not need these timid reservations. Homage to Marion Davies has always been everybody's secret. Now that we know she's just as charming with talk as without—if not considerably more so—all that remains is to let the public share in these critical confidences.

"Most important is the fact that Miss Davies is a fine artist, capable of conveying a gentle and wholly agreeable personality through almost any medium. 'The Gay Nineties' is a deliciously ironic idyll; just the kind of picture in which Marion, with her breadth of sympathy and good-humored grace, can express herself."

R-100 STARTS OVER OCEAN

Eckener in his Graf Zeppelin. Forty-four persons went aloft with the airship, 38 of them members of the crew and the others in the capacity of technical observers. Among them is Commander Sir Dennistoun Burney, responsible for the ship's construction and who lavished many years of effort and development upon the construction of the airship.

WILL PASS GREENLAND

While the exact course of the R-100 remains dependent on weather conditions ahead, it was announced immediately before the start that after crossing the English coast at Liverpool and heading northward toward the Hebrides Islands off the west coast of Scotland to skirt a depression, the huge airship would be pointed directly toward Cape Farewell, southernmost tip of Greenland. Continuing from there it will cruise over Labrador to the mouth of the St. Lawrence River, following this to Montreal.

The voyage is expected to be completed inside of three days, although a wide margin on food and fuel was allowed for. The 2,000 pounds of food and 500 gallons of water in the storage tanks of the dirigible will be sufficient for at least five days, it was estimated, and there are 30 tons of gasoline.

Never has an airliner fared forth more comfortably and luxuriously equipped than is the R-100. Product of 10 years of experimenting and built at an approximate cost of $2,500,000, it carries the empire's fond hopes that in the not far distant future Canada and the motherland will become more closely linked through rapid mail and passenger service provided by dirigibles spanning the Atlantic as regularly as steamships.

SEEK SPEED RECORD

The average speed of the British air queen is 81.50 miles per hour, or nearly five miles faster than the best speed of the Graf Zeppelin. In a secondary way, therefore, Great Britain will also seek in the next two days to capture the speed record of the air for long distance voyages by dirigibles.

The flight, regarded largely in the light of an experiment by British air circles, is being made without paying passengers, without mail or freight. It is the second elaborate British venture into trans-Atlantic dirigible flying, the first such trip having been accomplished from Scotland to Mineola in 1919 by the R-35, wrecked during a windstorm in 1921.

The R-100 is 709 feet long, 65 feet shorter than the Graf Zeppelin, but is 133 feet in diameter, or 35 feet greater in thickness than the German air queen. The British ship has six Rolls-Royce condors, two in each of three power gondolas, generating 3,600 horsepower. The British ship's motors are set up in pairs tandem fashion, with the three "pushers" capable of being reversed.

Originally intended for high-speed passenger traffic, the dirigible has accommodations for 100 persons in its 32 cabins, with these cabins on the second and third decks of the three-deck passenger structure. On the lower deck there is a dining salon with 56 chairs and two promenade decks, and there are balcony decks on the upper passenger deck.

FOIL STOWAWAYS

The crew is put up on the No. 1 deck of the ship's great cabin, with the control car only projecting outside the outer hull of the dirigible.

Ordinary gasoline of the current high refining is used by the R-100, with hydrogen and 15 internal lifting tanks available to lift the ship.

While numerous precautions against mishaps have been taken by officers on the first long trip of their craft, the R-100 is designed on lines of luxury and comfort sadly lacking in the great German airship. Smoking is made possible, and there is a comfortable lounge comparing to that of the best hotels. Hot meals are the order of the day, with drinks and food on ice if desired.

Warned by the frequent experiences other dirigibles have had with undesirable stowaways, Squadron Leader Booth posted a detachment of alert guards about his ship before the start to frustrate secret boarding by uninvited persons.

GETS WEATHER REPORTS

When the huge ship sailed forth, it ventured over the water and land route well fortified by detailed information of conditions surrounding it. Elaborate weather charts were provided by the Air Ministry, and the moment the R-100 started it began receiving regular reports issued from the British meteorological center at Cardington. Ships at sea, stations in Greenland and American weather bureaus have been requested to co-operate in furnishing every bit of information of prevailing conditions possible.

Old Farmer Using Ancient Scythe Dies of Heat

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 29.—Greene County's first heat fatality of the year occurred yesterday, when Lewis L. Lemley, 80, Mt. Morris farmer, died while mowing hay with an old-fashioned scythe, according to a coroner's report.

The aged man was found with the scythe in his hands.

DORSEY TRAPS SNAKE DRIVER

Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey, helping in the traffic crusade, was driving in Bigelow Boulevard today when, he reported, he saw a driver speed over the yellow line, cut in sharply on another motorist and force that motorist onto the sidewalk.

Dorsey followed the offender to Seventh avenue, where he notified Traffic Patrolman Alfred Bolivar, who arrested the driver on a reckless driving charge. He said he was S. E. Tillbrook, 42, of Bennett street.

Dorsey said that the driver forced onto the sidewalk only narrowly escaped going over the low retaining wall and down the hill onto the railroad tracks.

WAR MOTHERS SEE NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 29.—(INS.)—The third Pittsburgh contingent of Gold Star Mothers arrived here today at the Hotel Commodore.

They were taken on an automobile tour of Manhattan. Arrangements were in charge of Maj. Joseph Cottrell. The United States liner America, sailing tomorrow, will carry them to visit the graves of their sons in France.

Announce Finding Of Pre-Aztec City

TOLUCA, Mexico, July 29.—(AP.)—One of the richest archeological finds in Mexico for many years was announced today with discovery of the pre-Aztec city of Calixtlahuaca, just north of Toluca.

Rich Town Bans Ride 'Thumbers'

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 29.—(AP.)—There shall be no hitch-hiking or thumbing in one of the richest towns. By decree of town meeting anybody who stands on a road and begs rides from motorists shall be arrested and fined.

2 'Air-Minded' Boys Gone, Sought at Flying Fields

Two high school youths of the Homestead district, with aspirations to become aviators, are missings, their mothers reported to the Missing Persons Bureau today.

They are Robert McVey, 16, of 1716 Maple street, Homestead, known as "Lindy" among his schoolmates because of a resemblance to Col. Charles A. Lind-Stitt, also 16, of 112 Eighteenth avenue, Munhall.

McVey is a senior at Homestead High School, and Stitt is a sophomore at Munhall High School. Their mothers—Mrs. Sophia McVey and Mrs. Margaret Stitt—said the boys disappeared simultaneously July 12. Both often had said they wished to be aviators. Their parents believe they may be found in a flying school.

The mothers have requested United States Army authorities and the Bureau of Aeronautics to aid in seeking them.

McVey is described as 6 feet tall, blond, weighing 135 pounds.

MILLION GIVEN ON RYDER DEBT

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—Recovery of more than a million dollars was assured to creditors of Woody & Co., bankrupt brokerage house, today with the agreement of Frank Bailey, Brooklyn capitalist, to turn over to receivers money he collected from Harold Russell Ryder, the young partner to whose activities in and out of Wall street the collapse was attributed.

The agreement, reached by counsel negotiating a settlement, provides for the return by Bailey of about $600,000 in cash and Ryder's apartment on Park avenue and for Bailey's cancellation of a credit of about $250,000 due him on Woody & Co.'s books.

MT. LEBANON'S NEW HALL USED

Commissioners and officers of Mt. Lebanon Township officially sat in their white-walled council chamber last night for the first time. The new building, costing more than $240,000, will be completed and dedicated late in August. It is one of the most beautiful of Western Pennsylvania structures, and of modern architecture.

By ordinance passed last night, Supt. of Police William Kane was appointed superintendent of police, fire and all other departments; Police Capt. Senn was made chief of police; A. W. Siefert, captain of police; Edward Woods fire chief and David Hasley assistant fire chief.

Free Official Held For Anti-Semitism

BUCHAREST, July 28.—(AP.)—M. Taslauanu, director of the office of the minister of the interior, arrested for alleged complicity with anti-Semitic agitation in Bukowina, today was released provisionally after an examination by a magistrate.

Taslauanu was taken into custody soon after the attempted assassination of Dr. Constantin Angelescu, in the interior department offices.

Dr. Angelescu, acting minister of the interior, today was reported convalescent.

Firemen Halt Riot Of Mill Strikers

ABERDEEN, Wash., July 29.—(AP.)—Strikers at the Saginaw shingle mill here engaged in a free-for-all battle with mill employes last night. Arrival of fire engines, called by the wife of one of the workers, broke up the disturbance before anyone was seriously hurt.

Throat Disinfectant Fluid Kills Girl

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 29.—Swallowing some throat disinfectant accidentally while taking treatment for tonsilitis caused the death of Miss Ruth M. Halferty, 18, of Fairfield Township, according to a report received by the coroner here.

32 Auto Violators To Face Magistrate

Thirty-two persons charged with traffic violations during the last 24 hours, were listed to appear today before Magistrate William J. Soost, in Traffic Court. Held over from yesterday, 28 cases were to be disposed of.

Weather Conditions.

There were only scattered light showers over the country during the last 24 hours, and the skies are clear this morning over much the greater portion of the country. The disturbance that indicated showers for this section yesterday morning, passed over without rain anywhere in this section, and is now centered over the Atlantic Coast states. The Northwest high is advancing eastward and is effectively breaking the intense heat that obtained the past several days.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary. Stage at Franklin is 0.0 feet; Lock No. 7, 10.0; Pittsburgh, 8.3; Dam No. 4, 9.2; Dam No. 6, 7.3; Dam No. 9, 8.3, and Dam No. 12, 4.5. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

The skies are clear or only scattered clouds everywhere east of the Mississippi except along the coast, where the skies are overcast, with ceiling only 800 feet; visibility ranges from three miles to unlimited; wind, mostly northwest moderate breeze.

Good flying weather will continue tonight and Wednesday.

3 Named for Study Of U. S.-Alaska Road

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(AP.)—President Hoover has appointed Ernest Walker Sawyer, of California, Herbert H. Rice, of Michigan, and Maj. Malcolm Elliott, of the Army Engineers Corps, as special commissioners to investigate practicability of a highway from the northwestern part of the United States to Alaska.

The three commissioners are to co-operate with representatives of Canada in the study. The proposed highway would pass through British Columbia and Yukon territory.

Stolen Alcohol Kills One of Jail Trio

DETROIT, July 29.—(AP.)—One prisoner of the Detroit House of Correction is dead, another is near death and a third is recovering after a "wood alcohol party" in the prison warehouse.

The three prisoners, all serving terms because of non-payment of alimony, broke into the warehouse and took the alcohol. Paul Selke, 38, died, and Stanley Budzynski, 38, is expected to die. Ignace Wiskoski, 40, will recover, physicians said.

Commission Backs Rates to Rochester

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(AP.)—Rate charges by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company on empty, unfinished, iron and steel oil tanks, set up, in carloads, from Cleveland, O., to Rochester, Pa., are not unreasonable, the Interstate Commerce Commission held in dismissing a complaint filed by the Fry Equipment Company, of Rochester.

'400' ORGANIZES ANTI-DRY BAND

NEWPORT, R. I., July 29.—(INS.)—Society's "400" will be organized to "reform prohibition," under plans formulated here today.

At a meeting held in Chateau Ver-Sur-Mer, the palatial summer "cottage" of Miss Maude P. Wetmore, daughter of former United States Senator George Peabody Wetmore, arrangements were made for the formation of a national prohibition reform organization.

It was recalled that it was in Marble House, the beautiful summer estate of the late Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, that the first meeting, which resulted in a countrywide drive for woman suffrage, was held early in 1920.

GERMAN FLIERS REACH ICELAND

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 29.—(INS.)—Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, German aviators, attempting a trans-Atlantic flight in a 700-pound sports plane, arrived at Kaldad Aqnesplani, 40 kilometers (25 miles) from Reykjavik, today from Kirkwall, in the Orkney Islands.

The hop to Iceland was approximately 850 miles. Weather conditions were none too promising when they took off.

They had reached Kirkwall Sunday after leaving Berlin July 24. Stops were made at Coblenz, Paris and in England. The average speed of their plane was 81 miles an hour.

Upon their arrival in the United States, the airmen plan to visit various American cities.

Hunt Yields No Sign Of 'Murder Victim'

ROCKVILLE, Md., July 29.—(INS.)—Police today continued their hunt for the body of a woman reported murdered near the Congressional Country Club.

When a possee reached the scene, however, there were no signs of a struggle, nor were there any bloodstains. During the night the Kensington and Rockville fire departments were summoned to play searchlights on the surrounding countryside, but no body was found.

Crew of R-100 Carries Good Luck Tokens

CARDINGTON, England, July 29.—(AP.)—A number of good luck tokens were carried by those on board the British dirigible R-100 as it left this morning for Canada.

Sir Denistoun Burney, the designer, took a small ring which his wife had owned since she was a child.

Lady Burney said:

"I gave it to him because it always brought me luck."

Squadron Leader E. L. Johnston, the navigator, had a photograph of his wife which he had carried for 18 years.

Johnston declared:

"I have had good fortune ever since I met my wife and that same good will be with us on this little trip."

As Sir Denistoun smoked a final cigar before embarking he said he believed the R-100 would come up to his expectations after years of designing. He declared:

"If we can make the outward journey in 60 hours, as we hope to do, and the homeward trip in 50 it will prove that we are getting on top of the job.

"It brings the day appreciably nearer when airships will be commercial propositions. To my mind, the airship of the future will be one of about double the displacement of the R-100, with cruising speed of 85 to 90 miles an hour."

Maj. Scott, who flew the R-34 across the Atlantic and back, shares Sir Denistoun's confidence in the R-100. He said:

"She is very easy to handle and is perfectly steady even when traveling at top speed. I am certain that she will do well. Weather prospects are good and everything points to a pleasant crossing. If all goes well, we should be in Montreal about dawn Friday."

BLAST BUTLER'S HIGH ROMANCE

LONDON, July 29.—(INS.)—A blasted romance was in prospect today with the report that the parents of Miss Gytha Stourton had withheld approval of her projected engagement to Signor Del Agnes, Italian butler of Sir Ronald Lindsay in Washington.

Miss Stourton returned home for the express purpose of securing parental consent to her marital intentions. Her father, M. J. Stourton, grandson of the nineteenth Baron of Stourton, stated he had refused his consent to the marriage. He declared:

"Any engagement between my daughter and Del Agnes is impossible and absurd."

He made it clear that the incident was closed.

The daughter followed Sir Esme and Lady Howard to Washington as social secretary and remained in the employ of Sir Ronald when he became British ambassador. She met Signor Del Agnes in Rome and the two became close friends. The report of their engagement created great surprise in Washington and abroad.

Miss Stourton, it was reported here, will remain in England indefinitely.

Four Small Nations Form 'U.S. of Europe'

COPENHAGEN, July 29.—(AP.)—Denmark, Holland, Sweden and Norway have formed a sort of United States of Europe all their own.

Foreign office delegates of these countries met in Copenhagen today, to discuss the common interests of these small nations, the chief point being the recent German alterations in customs duties—increases materially affecting the welfare of the four.

Fascisti Celebrate Il Duce's Birthday

MILAN, July 29.—(AP.)—The forty-seventh birthday of Benito Mussolini, premier of Italy, today was celebrated in this "Cradle of Fascism" and in every other important center of the country by demonstrations in keeping with the nature of the Fascisti.

LEAGUE COURT FOES GROW

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Prospects of the Senate accepting the League Court on the modified Root terms dwindled today as other Democratic senators indicated they might follow the lead of Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia, who has declared against all entangling alliances with Europe.

The Georgian's declaration against the League of Nations and the League Court is regarded in political circles as the most significant break yet made by the Wilson Democrats against internationalism.

Harris, a personal friend of the war-time President, owed his election to the Senate in 1918 to Wilson's support and stood staunchly behind the Democratic executive's foreign policy up to now.

THIRD TO CHANGE STAND

In turning his back on the League of Nations and its auxiliary court, Harris makes the third Democratic Senator who voted for the League Court to change his attitude. Senator Park Trammell, of Florida, who voted for the court, subsequently offered a rescinding resolution.

Last year Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, another former League Court supporter, came out with a forthright statement against American adherence under the Root-Hurst formula.

While other Democratic senators were chary of comment for publication, they have given private indication of tiring of internationalism as a political issue, and most are expected to fall in line behind Harris, Trammell and Copeland.

FORCED TO TURN ABOUT

Harris was forced to take his stand against the court in his campaign for re-election as a result of the attitude of former Gov. John Slaton, his rival candidate for the senatorship. Slaton, in making his announcement for the Senate, declared against the League of Nations and all its works.

Since the Hoover administration is counting on ratifying the League Court protocol with Democratic votes, the Harris declaration was a blow to that program. It has been reported on Capitol Hill that the President intended to call a special session of the Senate, next spring, for the specific purpose of jamming through the League Court. But with support failing away, it is probable that the plan will be abandoned.

Coast Guards Seize Canadian Rum Boat

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—(AP.)—Carrying nearly 1,500 cases of liquor, the Canadian motorboat Ray Roberts was seized by a United States Coast Guard patrol boat yesterday off Pigeon Point, about 30 miles south of Golden Gate.

Coast Guard officials said the patrol boat caught the motorboat inside the legal limit.

Pittsburgher Views Western Jail Plan

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 29.—Attorney J. I. Simon, of Pittsburgh, connected with the Jail Removal Association of Allegheny County, inspected the Hall of Justice here and said he is advocating a similar plan for a detention jail in his home city.

R-100 Flight Presages Atlantic Air Line

By COMMANDER SIR CHARLES D. BURNEY.

Designer of the British Dirigible R-100, which has started on its voyage from England to Montreal

(This article was written shortly before the departure of the R-100.)

LONDON, July ——Exceptional interest attaches to the flight of the airship R-100 from England to Montreal, as this will be the first attempt of a British airship to make the Atlantic crossing since R134 flew to the United States and back in 1919.

In the intervening decade immense strides have been made in airship development. Since the days of R134, airships have trebled their size, have greatly increased in range and speed, and are incomparably more stable and airworthy.

What the modern airship is capable of doing was exemplified by the round-the-world flight of the Graf Zeppelin last year. And now that the latest product of British airship design and manufacture is about to make its first oceanic flight, it is natural that the event should arouse keen public interest on both sides of the Atlantic.

But the approaching flight of the R-100 is also of especial importance from a technical point of view, as it will put to the test an entirely new theory of airship design and construction.

For R-100, like her sister ship, R-101, has broken away completely from the Zeppelin in tradition. An entirely original type of structure has been evolved independently for both the British ships, which is basically different from that of the normal Zeppelin in type. Without going into technical details we may sum up the difference by saying that the structures differ greatly in their length and diameter ratios; the British ships are shorter and fatter than the Graf Zeppelin.

This change of form was decided on by the designers of the R-100 as it was felt that as airships increase in size, a stumpier shape would ensure greater stability and make the structure generally more airworthy.

Greater Stability

The test flights have shown this theory to be correct. In fact, both at the mooring mast and in their trial flights around the British Isles, R-100 and R-101 have had to meet gales and storms of the severest description and have withstood them with admirable composure.

It is satisfactry, too, to learn that Dr. Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, has been greatly impressed by some of the new design features of the R-100 and intends to incorporate them in his next Zeppelin.

I will now give a brief description of the structure and chief characteristics of R-100.

The ship was built by a company I formed in conjunction with Messrs. Vickers, Ltd., called the Airship Guarantee Company, at its works at Howden, in Yorkshire, and took three years to complete. She is one-third larger than the Graf Zeppelin and has also a cubic capacity slightly in excess of the state ship R-101, and she is faster than either. Thus, she can claim to be both the largest and fastest airship yet built. During her trial flights she achieved a speed of 81 miles per hour in still air, which constitutes a world's record for any airship.

Dimensions Given

Length, 719 feet.

Actual displacement, 156 tons.

Maximum speed, 81 miles per hour.

Range, 3,600 miles at 71.5 miles per hour, with full load.

The ship is powered by six Rolls-Royce Condor engines, developing a maximum of about 4,200-horse power. These engines are arranged in three engine cars, each car containing two engines, driving pusher and tractor propellers. The aft engine in each car drives its propeller through a reverse gear box, so that astern power is provided on three engines out of six.

A considerable amount of electric power is required for lighting heating and cooking and this is provided by two A. C. motor car engines, which drive the dynamos, the engines being governed to run continuously at 3,000 revolutions per minute.

Turning now to the structural arrangements and commencing at the bow, we have first of all the attachment fittings for the mooring mast, and an observation station, with windows for the use of the crew.

3-Floor Compartments

Passing down the ship by an enclosed corridor designed for the use of the passengers, we come to the passenger coach, about 190 feet from the bow. This structure is slung inside the hull of the ship, and consists of three floors, the lowest of which is allocated to the crew and the two upper ones to the passengers.

This coach is surrounded entirely by double walls, through which air is circulated to obviate the danger of any inflammable gas or vapor penetrating the living quarters.

The passenger accommodation is intermediate in comfort between a Pullman train and an ocean liner. The sleeping quarters are arranged in two and three-berth cabins very similar to those on board ship.

There is a spacious restaurant to seat 50 persons at the same time, and meals are supplied from an electrically operated kitchen of the most up-to-date type.

Comfortable Lounge

A comfortable lounge equipped with chairs and card tables is provided for passengers to while away the journey. Special arrangements have been made to strengthen the decks so that dancing may take place in the evenings. Windows in the side of the ship provide light and the view, and an even temperature is maintained by means of electric radiators.

Altogether, then, R-100 provides a high standard of comfort, and fairly merits a description of an Atlantic liner of the air. Of course, it does not pretend to equal the largest ocean liners in the luxury and spaciousness of its accommodation. No airship could do that at present. But it has compensating advantages which must not be overlooked.

No ocean liner can compare with the modern airship for smoothness of motion. There is no tossing or rolling in airship travel. Passengers in R-100 will experience no vibration. Even in the stormiest weather the motion of the ship is almost imperceptible. Hence in airship travel, the great bane of so many ocean voyagers, sea-sickness, will be practically eliminated.

Smooth Travel

Also, passengers in R-100 will not be troubled by noise and smell of the engines. during her recent 53-hour flight, the ship was driven by two after engines only at a speed of approximately 50 miles an hour. With only these engines running, it was impossible to tell in the passenger saloon whether any engines were running at all.

The experimental flight which R-100 is about to make to Canada, forms part of the contract arranged between the Airship Guarantee Company, which built her, and the British government. According to the original terms of the contract the ship was to have flown to India.

In changing her destination to Montreal, the Air Ministry has, I think, made a wise move. In none of our Dominions is air development so advanced as in Canada, and the building of the new British airships has been followed with great interest by the Canadian public.

It is fitting, therefore, that R-100 should make her maiden voyage to Canada, and so give the Canadian people an early opportunity of seeing her.

Test Mooring Mast

In this way, too, the new mooring mast that has been erected at St. Hubert's Field, Montreal, can be put to an immediate test. As the flight is purely an official experimental flight, no ordinary passengers or freight will be carried.

The question now arises as to the prospects of a regular commercial airship service being established between Great Britain and Canada. That such a service will be established in the not-too-distant future I have not the slightest doubt; but how soon the project will become practicable will largely depend upon how soon international co-operation becomes an accomplished fact.

Then there is the all-important question of climate to consider. It must be remembered that the northern latitude of Canada is unfavorable for all-the-year-round airship flying. Snow is the airship's greatest bugbear, and until we have much more experience of operating airships in cold climates I do not think a winter service to Canada is feasible.

An airship making the North Atlantic crossing during the snow season would have to take a southern route and direct her course, say, to Baltimore, and passengers for Canada would have to make the rest of the journey by train.

Of course, as airship development proceeds and improved handling methods are devised, this difficulty may be overcome. At present, however, snow and ice are the most serious dangers an airship has to contend with.

In this connection it may be pointed out that the major danger centers around the problem of making the ship fast to the mooring mast in storm weather, and leaving her at the mast when snow is about. For example, consider the position of a ship "floating at the mast" in Canada in winter. Clearly she must be prepared to suffer heavy snowfall.

Snow Danger

In the case of the R-100, the area of the ship upon which snow may lie deeply is some 46,000 square feet. Seven and a half inches of snow upon this area imposes a load of 63 tons and would depress the ship to the ground, whatever pains were taken to keep her air-borne.

In any case, the establishing of an Atlantic airship service will have to be a question of international co-operation, as bases would be required in the United States and in Europe. It would seem, therefore, that the best means of approach to such a development would be the formation of an international company in which Great Britain, the United States, Canada and Germany were equally interested.

The general lines upon which the scheme could be developed would be for each country to form its own building and constructional company, and for the ships, when built, to be operated by the international company. Shares would be held in equal parts by the four countries concerned.

Mail Contracts

In an organization of this character each national company could obtain its mail contract direct from its own government and then arrange for it to be carried out by the international company, just as the ships built by the various companies would be operated by the international company.

I am hopeful that my visit to Canada and the United States in the R-100 may result in the preliminary steps being taken in such a direction.

Already the Zeppelin Company of Germany and the Goodyear Zeppelin Company of the United States are working for the cooperation of German and American interests, and a four-party international arrangement could be consummated, I have little doubt that we should soon see the establishment of an alternate day service between the North American continent and Europe.

It is probable that for climatic reasons that the service will run to the United States rather than to Canada. But Canada would suffer little in such an arrangement. She would benefit practically as much if the service were to run to New York or Baltimore, as if it were run to Montreal or Toronto, as with a train extension to these latter places, the time lost would not amount to much, and the whole journey would still represent a great saving as compared with the ordinary sea voyage.

DRUGGIST GONE, STORE SEIZED

Because Joseph Rosen, of Brackenridge, proprietor of the Height Pharmacy, Natrona Heights, has disappeared while owing $975 on a judgement note, Judge Samuel H. Gardner this morning appointed the Tarentum Savings and Trust Company temporary receiver of the business.

Suit against Rosen was brought by David Silverman, also of Brackenridge. Silverman testified he was the endorser of the note but, owing to Rosen's disappearance, feared he would have to suffer the loss. The note is due September 23. Silverman declared that the drug store is being operated by a registered druggist and a clerk.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—(AP.)—George Luft, Jr., 26, a member of the Undine Barge Club, fell into the Schuylkill River and drowned last night when an oarlock of his shell broke. He was a brother of Roy Luft, a member of the Undine club's national championship light eight-oared crew.

2 HELD IN DEATH OF ROAD GUARD

A coroner's jury investigating the death of William K. Irvin, 57, night watchman on a closed section of Saw Mill Run boulevard, recommended today that James R. McCarthy, of Greenleaf street, be held on a charge of manslaughter, and that Frank Staub, of Woodruff street, be held as an accessory.

There was testimony that Staub, riding in McCarthy's auto, had removed the barrier to allow the auto to pass over a closed section of the road, where Irvin was struck.

The jury was told that McCarthy did not stop after the accident, and was arrested later in Youngstown, O.

The complaint said Deming flew close to the beach last Sunday, causing Ernest Lubitsch, director; the two children of Gloria Swanson, and others to flee.

QUIZ TOLD REDS TINGE SCHOOLS

CHICAGO, July 29.—(INS.)—Additional teachers were asked to testify today before the congressional committee headed by Hamilton Fish, Jr., which yesterday heard testimony that Chicago high schools harbor a number of Communists.

The committee, appointed to investigate Communist activities in the United States, was told the red flag once was flung over the University of Chicago during a meeting of radicals there.

N. E. Hewitt, of the American Intelligence Vigilants, informed the committee that the red organization is spreading its doctrines among the Negroes here and that there are 738 active Negro Communists in Chicago.

WATER WASTE PERILS SUPPLY

J. H. Kennon, managing engineer of the Bureau of Water, today warned that drastic action may be necessary unless residents of the Squirrel Hill and Greenfield avenue heights districts obey the mandate against excessive use of sprinklers.

He said:

"Residents of these districts generally are disregarding our request to be sparing in the use of water. Police have notified the residents, but few of them seem to have taken heed. Some decisive step may be necessary if the present drought continues.

"Employes at the pumping stations are sending 25 per cent more water through the mains than ordinarily as a result of the hot spell, and excessive use of lawn sprinklers only adds to their burden."

Robinson Urges Aid For Drought Victims

PIGGOTT, Ark., July 29.—(AP.)—United States Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, believes the state and federal governments should co-operate in measures to aid farmers whose crops have been damaged by drought. He proposes a moratorium, to avert wholesale foreclosures of mortgages.

The senator expressed his views in a campaign speech.

Chicago's 94 Heat Warmer Than Egypt's 128

CHICAGO, July 29.—(AP.)—Dr James Henry Breasted, noted Egyptologist, mopped a beaded brow as he laid the cornerstone of the $1,500,000 Oriental Institute at the University of Chicago. He remarked:

"Egypt was never like this. I've seen it 128 in the shade there, but it was cool compared with Chicago."

The municipal thermometers read 94.

The new institute will be in the Egyptian style and will house Oriental exhibits in addition to furnishing class rooms for the study of Egyptology, anthropology and related subjects.

2 Altoona Youths Drowned in Lake

ALTOONA, Pa., July 29.—Two Altoonans were reported drowned late last night at Eagles Mere, according to word received by their parents today. QUAKE DISTRICT ROADS OPENED

ROME, July 29.—(INS.)—South Central Italy was rapidly approaching normal conditions today, although jagged ruins in the earthquake-torn areas remained as a graphic reminder of the catastrophe that last Wednesday snuffed out more than 2,200 lives and robbed 100,000 of house and home.

Concentrated relief efforts today had disposed of all injured, with the danger of water famine averted by rebuilding of damaged aqueducts.

In even the worst-stricken provinces roads have been opened to traffic; food is being distributed regularly; electric, telephones, telegraph and mail services have been re-established, and hundreds of persons have returned to homes that escaped ruin.

Sixty thousand homeless still encamped in the surrounding fields and hillsides have been well provided with immediate needs. Troops will remain in the devastated section until complete order has been restored.

Reconstruction workers are still finding bodies in the ruins. The principal work now is razing faltering structures, which have remained a menace.

Two Stage Gun Duel Over Dog; One Dead

BREMERTON, Wash., July 29.—(AP.)—A gun fight over a dog resulted in the death of Louie Marsh, 48, and the wounding of Samuel J. Pyree, Fernwood rancher. Pyree, slightly wounded by birdshot, was taken into custody after the duel.

Three weeks ago Pyree's dog was shot and he accused Marsh of the deed. Yesterday's encounter followed.

GIRL DIES, 7 PERSONS HURT BY AUTOS

Parnassus Victim Succumbs To Injuries; Edgeworth Wreck Ties up Traffic

One girl was dead, and seven persons were suffering from injuries today as a result of automobile accidents in Pittsburgh and the vicinity, police reports said.

The dead girl, Daisy Jackson, of Parnassus, died in the Mercy Hospital of injuries suffered May 19, when a parked car n ar which she was standing was struck by another car on the New Kensington bridge. She was caught in the wreckage.

W. S. Shinn, also of Parnassus, told police he had parked his car to repair a tire, and it was struck by a machine driven by D. J. Coyle, of New Kensington.

2 HURT IN PLUNGE

George Diehl, 24, of Riverview avenue, Coraopolis, and James Davis, of Ferry street, Leetsdale, were thrown out of their car when it plunged off Beaver road in Edgeworth last night. They were taken to the Sewickley Hospital.

Mary Grech, 14, of 306 Chestnut street, was in Allegheny General Hospital with injuries to both legs. Police said she was struck by a machine driven by D. G. Jones, 51, of 3340 Allendale street, near her home.

Daniel Sowers, 35, of 61 Wall street, was in the South Side Hospital with scalp injuries received, police said, when a taxicab in which he was riding was brought to a sudden stop by Phillip Levi, of 6 Forest street, the driver.

WOMAN BADLY HURT

Mrs. Janet Rufle, 25, of 343 Negley avenue, Turtle Creek, is in a critical condition at her home as a result of injuries sustained when an automobile in which she was riding crashed in the Monroeville road. She suffered fractures of the skull and collarbone and bruises of the legs. Mrs. Rufle and Anthony Clise, 21, of 1934 Stanton avenue, Arnold, said by police to have been the driver of the car, received treatment at the Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington.

H. Stanley Monesky, 22, of 812 Duss avenue, Ambridge, was reported recovering from injuries sustained when thrown from a car after it sideswiped two other machines and plunged down an embankment near Walrose.

CUDAHY VICTIM OF POISON RUM

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—(AP.)—Michael Cudahy, scion of the Chicago packing family, was confined to a hospital suffering from what "doctors diagnose as poison liquor," his mother, Mrs. J. P. Cudahy, said today.

"Michael and his wife returned a week ago from Europe," Mrs. Cudahy said, "and I never saw him looking better. Then suddenly his lower limbs became paralyzed from what the doctors diagnosed as poison liquor. He is recovering now and I hope will be out of the hospital soon."

A year ago following a collision with an automobile Cudahy was arrested for driving while intoxicated and fined $5,000. Shortly afterward, he and his bride, the former Muriel Evansen, actress, departed for Europe.

Holds up N. Y. Store During Rush Hour

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—A lone robber entered a cigar store at Forty-second street and Seventh avenue, held up the three clerks and 10 customers and escaped with $600. Hundreds of persons were passing along the sidewalks and four policemen were directing rush hour traffic on the corner outside.

Daughter of Soviet Diplomat Divorced

PARIS, July 29.—(AP.)—A divorce was granted today to Mme. Lubov Krassine Bergery, daughter of the late Soviet ambassador to Great Britain, from Gaston Frank Bergery, member of the Chamber of Deputies and formerly chief of the French section of the reparations commission. They were married in Paris, August 27, 1927.

Amateur Pilot Dies Following Air Crash

VENTURA, Cal., July 29.—(AP.)—Payeton Burke, 37, amateur airplane pilot, died last night from injuries received Thursday when his plane crashed from a low altitude with a stalled motor. Harry Hastings, 40, who was flying with Burke, died the day after the accident.

30-Foot Fall Kills Pilot Famous For Caution

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 29.—(AP.)—William D. Smith, known through 13 years of flying as "Safe and Sane Smith," was killed here last night when the airplane in which he was a passenger, with a student at the controls, stalled and dived 30 feet.

Boy Bicycle Riders Close to 350th Hour in Grind

NEW YORK, July 29.—(INS.)—Endurance contests are on the wane, a check-up showed today, but in New York and New Jersey, more than a dozen bicycle-riding marathons continued. In New Brunswick, N. J., several boys riding in relays today were close to their three hundred and fiftieth hour.

Polecats drove down tree-sitters in Camden, N. J.

In Atlantic City, Jack Evans began a new stunt—a coffin-sleeping attempt. He reclines in a ventilated casket.

$2,000 to Buy Candy Provided in Will

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—(AP.)—A $2,000 trust fund to purchase Christmas candy for the children of St. Michael's Lutheran Church, Sellersville, Pa., is among the charitable provisions in the will of Maurice Clark, admitted to probate today. He died July 12.

Second Woman Dies Of Hurts in Crash

ALTOONA, Pa., July 29.—(AP.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Blackstone, 79, Altoona, died yesterday in a hospital, the second victim of an automobile collision here Saturday. Mrs. Elizabeth Gladden, 78, Duncannon, died a few hours after the accident.

SUICIDE BLAMED ON LOSSES

HIBBING, Minn., July 29.—(INS.)—An inquest was begun today over the body of Soren J. Heiberg, wealthy Chicago manufacturer, believed to have shot himself to death in his lodge on an island in Wasson Lake, 45 miles northwest of here.

Army Rites for Last Of Custer Command

MARTINS FERRY, O., July 29.—Military services will be held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bessie Oliver, here Wednesday for Alex Mack, 83, last survivor of the Gen. Custer command, from which he was on a furlough at the time of the massacre by Sitting Bull.

SHADY SIDE, O., July 29.—Mrs. William Crowe, 75, fell from a porch here last night, breaking her neck and causing instant death.

BANDIT KILLED BY POLICEMAN

CHICAGO, July 29.—(INS.)—An unidentified robber who attempted to hold up his victim without a gun was shot and killed today by a police sergeant.

Driving up beside their intended victim, one of two bandits leaped from an automobile and thrust his hand into his pocket to make it appear that he had a gun.

Sergt. Joseph Kelly, witnessing the holdup, rushed at the bandit and shot him dead when he tried to wrest the policeman's gun from him.

28,000 on Strike Over Pension Fund

LILLE, France, July 29.—(AP.)—Twenty-eight thousand workers in the textile, iron and steel industries went on strike in the Roubaix-Tourcoing district, in protest against the retention of 5 per cent from their salaries toward the old age pension fund recently established by Parliament.

2 BANK ROBBERS SHOT DEAD

GLENCROSS, S. D., July 29.—(AP.)—A trio of holdup men who sought to rob the Glencross Savings Bank walked into a police trap and were shot down.

Two of the men, George A. Anderson, of Timberlake, near here, and George Decosset, were killed. A third, Melvin Scranton, also of Timberlake, was wounded.

Sheriff Henry A. Johnson had received information of the projected holdup and, after informing the bank cashier, H. J. Schriber, secreted himself near the entrance.

The robbers entered the bank, flourishing pistols, shortly after noon, and were handed over the contents of the money drawers, about $1,300, by Schriber. As the trio ran toward the door with the loot, Sheriff Johnson and Schriber, who had armed himself, opened fire. The robbers were cut down without being able to return a shot.

SHIFT DATES SO JEWS CAN VOTE

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 29.—(AP.)—Maryland's General Assembly convenes here today in its first special session in 10 years to change Baltimore registration dates so 25,000 Jews may vote in the September primaries and the November general elections.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie called the session after Jewish leaders had protested that the registration dates of September 23 and 24 and October 7 and 8 conflicted with Rosh Hoshana and the Feast of the Tabernacles.

The Maryland constitution calls for a complete new registration in gubernatorial election years, and the Jewish leaders estimated between 25,000 and 30,000 voters of Baltimore would lose their votes if the original dates stood.

Devout Jews are forbidden even to sign their names on the two holidays concerned.

Two New Castle Slayers Sentenced

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 29.—After refusing the new trial petitions of Huston Johnson, Negro, convicted of first degree murder with life imprisonment for the killing of Charles McMurray, and Bertha Abernathy, convicted with life imprisonment for the killing of John Henry King, Judge James A. Chambers passed sentence on both.

Johnson was sentenced to the Western Penitentiary and the woman to the State Industrial home at Muncy.

"The best
Insurance against Tube Troubles
. . . RCA Radiotrons"

JOHN S. GORMAN
Vice-President and General Manager
GULBRANSEN COMPANY

"WE strongly recommend that every Gulbransen Radio owner use RCA Radiotrons. Our engineers use RCA Radiotrons in laboratory work and for testing, as they are of uniformly high quality and give the best results. We find that RCA Radiotrons not only safeguard sensitivity and selectivity and insure Gulbransen realism, but act as the best insurance against vacuum tube troubles. It's good common sense to demand RCA Radiotron quality for both first equipment and replacement."

RADIO ENGINEERS ADVISE:

Replace all the vacuum tubes in your radio set with RCA Radiotrons at least once a year. This is the only sure way to maintain good performance and minimize disagreeable noises and other troubles caused by inferior tubes. RCA Radiotrons will give you the maximum in selectivity, sensitivity and tone quality.

Old tubes may impair the performance of the new

More Homes Than Ever Will Profit by This

August Furniture Sale

The August Sale this year meets the needs of every type of home more completely than it has at any time in the past. Stocks have been expanded. In its own section is grouped all the furniture in its price classification.

The opening of the Stylthrift Furniture Section brings this sale closer to the hearts and pocketbooks of many more people than ever before. For here, removed from all furniture for more pretentious homes, are wide assortments of suites and occasional pieces at popular prices.

For example, there are 4-pc. bedroom suites as low as $150—10-pc. dining room suites as low as $165—lounge chairs as low as $48.50—davenports for $87.50—and love seats for $67.50. All designed in good taste and built to Horne standards.

If your requirements run to the other extreme, our decorative studios have been enlarged and more space provided for new stocks of finer furniture. In between are the extensive assortments of those suites and single pieces to meet the needs of homes that are neither small nor very spacious. All of this furniture is surrounded by the proper floor coverings, lamps, mirrors and hangings, selected at prices proportionate to the cost of the furniture. So that the same good taste may be shown in furnishing the most aristocratic or the most democratic of homes.

Our convenient plan of payment may be used in any division of our furniture department. Reservations may be made now, during these days of Advance Selling, for delivery August first.

Slip-on and Mousquetaire Styles in White Fabric Gloves

$1.00 Pair

It seems that every woman wants at least one pair of white gloves this season . . . judging from the demands we've had lately for this type of glove. Here are two new models . . . a slip-on length of double woven suede cloth. The other model is a long mousquetaire glove of a lighter weight fabric. And, of course, they are washable.

Other White Fabric gloves . . . in slip-on and mousquetaire styles, are priced $1.50, $1.65 and $1.95.

$250,000 LOSS IN PLANT FIRE

BALTIMORE, July 29.—(AP.)—Fire in one of the main buildings of the United States Industrial Chemical Company plant at Fairfield, near here, caused loss estimated at $250,000 and explosions of gasoline and chemicals for a time threatened the 36-acre plant and nearby establishments.

A worker was overcome by alcohol fumes while fighting the flames and two others were injured.

Steel girders, white hot, toppled on tanks of aviation gasoline, causing explosions that sent columns of flame high in the air. All available fire apparatus was summoned and 76 lines of hose were used to confine the flames to one concrete building.

The explosions shook nearby homes of workers and residents prepared to evacuate as flames from gasoline, alcohol, paint solvents and other chemicals ignited dry grass nearby.

COUNTY HOME 100 YEARS OLD

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 29.—Washington County will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of its County Home August 1 with the public opening of two new additions, a men's dormitory and a sun porch for women.

The home stands on land purchased in 1830 for $16 an acre. In 1865 six more acres were added to the original 172, and in 1867 28 acres were purchased at $100 an acre.

The home now has more than 300 inmates. The average this year has been 330—245 males and 85 females.

The first building served for 42 years, and in 1872 a more modern building was added, which is the present administration building. In 1916 a part of the original building was razed and a hospital building erected with space for 90 beds. Six years later the east and west wings of the old building were overhauled and modernized.

SUSPECT RIVAL IN FIRE DEATH

CLYDE, O., July 29.—(AP.)—Officials were investigating the finding of the body of Russell Gibbs, 22, near here, in his automobile which had been destroyed by fire. Gibbs was to have been married yesterday to Miss Doris Kuns, 21, a childhood sweetheart.

Identification of the body, which was burned beyond recognition, was made through a Masonic ring. Gibbs, officials said, after leaving the Kuns home last night, took five gallons of gasoline to a stranded motorist. They are investigating the possibility he might have been lured to his death. They believe he might have been the victim of a rival of Miss Kuns or a highwayman.

Relatives Find Aged Woman Dead

SHARON, Pa., July 29.—Mrs. Joseph Clarke, 75, was found dead at her farm home, near here, by her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tropasso, when they went to visit her. She had been ill several months.

10 Hurt in New York Bus-Car Collision

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—Eight women and two men were injured in a collision between a city transportation bus and a street car in the Bronx. The street car was derailed. Each vehicle carried about 25 passengers.

4 RUM PATROL BOATS ADDED

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(INS.)—Four additional naval destroyers to replace those docked because of deterioration, will be put into service by the Coast Guard in the North Atlantic law enforcement fleet within the next nine months, it was learned today.

A board headed by Commander G. W. Davis, of New London, engineering officer of the destroyer fleet, has been chosen by Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant, to select the new destroyers from the naval fleet laid up at the Philadelphia Naval Yard.

The vessels must be reconditioned before being placed in service. In 1925, when the Coast Guard was assigned the task of breaking up "Rum Row," 25 naval destroyers were taken over. Since that time seven have become obsolete.

With the commissioning of the four new boats, the North Atlantic fleet will consist of 53 vessels.

LINGLE JURY TO CALL PROBERS

CHICAGO, July 29.—(INS.)—Seeking a report on progress made toward solving the gangland murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, racketeering reporter, the July grand jury announced today it would summon the board of strategy, to which the investigation was assigned.

The jury reached its decision after the appearance of Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson, Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, who was Lingel's employer, and William Stuart, political editor of the Evening American.

Philadelphia Fears Tong War Outbreak

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—(INS.)—Fears of a new tong war outbreak here were expressed by high police officials today as extra patrolmen were assigned to the Chinatown district.

The arrest of Wong Sing, alias Charlie Wong, of the On Leong tong, in New York for the murder of Hang Wa Hung, on July 10, gave police their first intimation of an impending tong war and police of all the large cities of the country were notified. An investigation revealed the unrest had spread to this city.

County Home Inmate Killed by Automobile

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., July 29.—Danied Welder, 75, an inmate of the County Home, was killed by an automobile police said was driven by Charles H. Guthrie, of Ford City. The man, blind and partially deaf, was crossing the road at Troutville. He ran directly into the side of the car.

HEARING HELD ON DAM, LOCKS

CHARLEROI, Pa., July 29.—Jockeying with issues involving necessary industrial, public utilities and municipal changes of more than $1,000,000 in the construction of the new Lock No. 4 in the Monongahela River, at Donora, 2¼ miles below the present dam, a public hearing was given yesterday in the Donora Borough Building on the proposed $2,000,000 construction.

Thirteen major industries, the city of Monessen, river pilots and utilities companies outlined their cases before Col. Jarvis J. Bain United States district engineer, who was in charge of the hearing.

The many-sided case of transferring the lock "for betterment of Monongahela River transportation," held three major issues which were considered—location of the proposed dam, selection of side of the river for the locks, and the height of the dam.

Blame Time Bomb For Factory Blast

SOUTH RIVER, N. J., July 29.—(AP.)—An explosion believed by police to have been caused by a time bomb, demolished the home and embroidery factory of Leo Wladyke today. The damage was estimated at $100,000. Wladyke, his wife and their three children were in the building, but escaped injury.

Brubaker, State Farm Chief, Resigns

HARRISBURG, July 29.—(AP.)—J. C. Brubaker, of Lititz, has resigned as president of the Pennsylvania State Farm Bureau Federation, which office he has held since the federation was organized almost a decade ago.

Ill health and other duties prompted his withdrawal, Brubaker told a meeting of the board of directors. Pending election of a president, Clarence Dewalt, Northampton County, vice president, takes over the executive duties.

Flywheel Kills Man As Father Watches

PITTSBURGH HISTORY, SEA SONGS AND FILM STARS DOT TONIGHT'S RADIO BILL

We Now Present

By ROY JANSEN
Until Darrell V. Martin Returns

Two centuries of vivid history will be narrated in music and verbal description when the Westinghouse Salute to the city of Baltimore is broadcast tonight from the studios of KDKA, beginning at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Ann Woesthoff, Pittsburgh contralto, will be a guest soloist and will include in her program the song "O Promise Me." She is a soloist at the East Liberty Presbyterian Church. The musical arrangement will be presented by the ensemble consisting of the KDKA Little Symphony Orchestra, the band, and a double male quartet. Frederick G. Rodgers, announcer, will relate the descriptive matter.

Ann Woesthoff

John Goss, English concert singer of sea chanties, will be guest artist tonight of the Eveready program broadcast at 9 o'clock over WCAE. Many delightful sea songs will be included.

Bebe Daniels, Dorothy Lee, Bert Wheeler, Ramon Maurell and other screen stars are scheduled to be heard tonight during the RKO program, broadcast through station WCAE at 10:30 o'clock. Selections from the show "Dixiana" will be presented.

A Russian christening ceremony, abundantly colored and typical, will be broadcast at 8 o'clock tonight through station WCAE. Genia Fenariova, soprano, will sing much of the program.

It was not surprising that Allen Thrasher should have chickenpox. He's the junior announcer at station KDKA, and just a lad. He is being complimented for his complete recovery after 10 days' illness.

It happened out in Omaha.

Lloyd C. Thomas, commercial manager of Westinghouse stations, was on a business trip through the Middle West, and the thermometer kept climbing and climbing until one day last week it got to 107 in the shade. Thomas said no one could do good business with that heat so he found a good shady tree along the river and did a little quiet fishing.

* * *

There will be some good old songs sung tonight during the Happy Wonder Baker's program, when a group of Harry Von Tilzer's popular old numbers will be heard. Such songs as "A Bird in a Gilded Cage," "When the Flowers Bloom in the Springtime," "Down Where the Cotton Blossoms Grow" and "Summer Time" are familiar to most people.

Five Hurt as Bus Goes Into Ditch

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 29.—Five persons were injured when a bus operated by the Nevin line, en route from Pittsburgh to Cleveland, went into a ditch between New Springfield and East Palestine. Fifteen other passengers were shaken.

Those hurt are William Ritenour, Youngstown; William Turnbull, Struthers; Maud Neal, Struthers; Josephine Potash, Cleveland, and Marvin Rosenblum, Sharon.

-and Sleep Like a Baby

If you "haven't slept well in years," take a glass of Welch's just before retiring. It will help you sleep like a baby and wake up feeling like a million dollars. It's just the pure juice of luscious Concord grapes and wonderfully good for you!

Try it as a breakfast fruit... six liberal portions to the pint... more if diluted, and many prefer it so. Most temptingly delicious breakfast fruit juice in America, at less than 5c a glass.

THE BOY BEHIND THE BISCUIT

Ever see a boy behind a Shredded Wheat Biscuit? You will have to look quick before the biscuit disappears—but wait and you will see him take another biscuit—and more milk. The more he chews the crisp shreds of baked whole wheat, the more he likes it—and that's the reason he is a real boy, full of bounding energy and radiant health. Just as good for grown-ups. Delicious with prunes, baked apples, sliced bananas or any fruit.

Fifteen Dollars Per Day Usual Price for King In Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.

Several friends of Jack Oakie's witnessed a touching bit of sentiment when they congregated at the railroad station to welcome the comedian back from New York.

As Jack swung down the steps a young fellow ran toward him uttering strange, weird little cries and embraced the actor. The boy was reluctant to let go, and Jack, with moist eyes, explained that he was his pal and that the two were buddies.

Jack Oakie

The incident also held a heart-throb for everyone who recognized the boy, as he is known as the "dummy" around Hollywood.

"Dummy" is a deaf-mute, who sells papers in front of a boulevard restaurant that Jack frequents. He had left his stand in order to be one of the first to welcome his friend home.

Jack has had no time for vacationing since his arrival, as he immediately went into rehearsals for his forthcoming picture, as yet untitled. It's a story of a sailor, and will be directed by Victor Heerman. Lillian Roth will play opposite.

PRODUCTION VALUE

A "quickie" company was recently engaged in filming a mythical kingdom story. The king was being paid $15 a day, which is about the usual price for a monarch in this town. But his throne was the expensive item and cost the company a rental price of $25. While the first scene was being rehearsed a passing executive stopped to caution the actor:

"When you sit down, king, don't lean back. If you do you'll cover up a lot of production value in that chair," he warned.

FEMALE SANTA CLAUS

When Marie Dressler arrived on the M. G. M. lot following her vacation in Europe the first thing she did was deliver a gift to Harry Rapf. A story conference was under way when Marie burst into the room carrying a paper bag. She emptied the contents, consisting of about 40 pieces of hammered silver, on the supervisor's desk and left. When the gang had finally assembled the various gadgets the present was found to be a complete cocktail service in the shape of a miniature Zeppelin. For the feminine players on the lot she brought various pieces of costume jewelery, and to the men cigaret boxes and holders.

NEW DEPARTURE

The best wishes of Hollywood friends accompany Julanne Johnston and her dancing partner, Danny Dowling, who are opening an engagement in a popular San Francisco hotel tomorrow night. This is a departure for Miss Johnston, who has been a leading lady in films for several years.

The team has been practicing their ballroom and specialty routines at Colleen Moore's home for the past few months using her theater for a dance floor. Following the completion of the northern engagement, the team will apear in New York and then have booking abroad.

JEANETTE AT FOX

Since Paramount has canceled "Her Wedding Night" as a starring vehicle for Jeanette MacDonald, and have nothing to substitute in its place, they have loaned her to Fox for one picture.

She will play opposite J. Harold Murray in "Stolen Thunder." The story by Mary F. Watkins, deals with the adventures of an opera singer. Sidney Lanfield, husband of Shirley Mason, will direct.

In the meantime, Paramount has snatched the "Her Wedding Night" title from the shelved story and pinned it on one of Avery Hopwood's farces for a Clara Bow vehicle. Ralph Forbes will be seen opposite, and Charles Ruggles heads the supporting cast.

MOVIE CLOCK

Hours at which feature photoplays begin in first run houses are in accordance with the following time schedule:

Excursion Boat Going to Chester

The steamer Greater Pittsburgh will leave tomorrow for a one-day trip to Chester, W. Va. The excursion boat will be back in town for an outing of the South Side Business Men's Association Thursday and of the Chartiers Council of the DeMolay Friday.

Second Time

WERMUTH GETS THEATER POST

Announcement was made here today of the appointment of Donn Wermuth as acting manager of the Shubert Pitt and Alvin theaters, succeeding the late John B. Reynolds. Wermuth, a local newspaperman, has been active in theatrical circles for some time. He was associated with Reynolds as exploitation agent for the Alvin and later he was press agent for George Sharp. His last position was manager of the Sharp Stock Theater in Philadelphia.

Wellsburg Starts Blue Law Drive

WELLSBURG, W. Va., July 29.—The arrest of E. L. Hill and J. H. Herron, proprietors of a miniature golf course, was taken as the opening of a fight to repeal local blue laws. Both men announced that petitions would be circulated for a modified ordinance.

SEMI-ANNUAL DEPARTMENT BUYERS' SALE BEGINS THURSDAY

The Event Pittsburgh Waits Six Months For!

Each year at this time we place in the hands of our Department Buyers the full responsibility for GETTING THE BUSINESS. The result of this policy has been that THE PUBLIC GETS EXTRA VALUES and WE GET EXTRA BUSINESS

Here Are the Instructions Given to Our Department Buyers:

1—Remember, the only way you can get a big volume of business is to bring your prices down to a level that will induce the public to buy.

2—Stock-taking is finished, and you can afford to forget cost and profit, in pricing all your remaining summer goods for drastic clearance.

3—Due to the most favorable market conditions in the past ten years you have been able to make new purchases of fall merchandise at extraordinary savings.

4—We urge you not only to give the public the benefit of every dollar you saved on your purchases, but in addition, to sacrifice a portion of your normal low profit, to encourage our customers to anticipate their fall needs.

5—Remember, Mr. Department Buyer, if you are to do a good job, you must give the customer the maximum value at the minimum cost, consistent with good store keeping.

Never in all the history of these famous semi-annual events have our Department Buyers responded so enthusiastically and with such a determination to break all records for August business. They have no statement to make to the public except to say:

Beginning Thursday, July 31st

Watch the Frank & Seder Ads Every Day for The Greatest Values Offered in Ten Years

All merchandise purchased on Thursday, July 31st, will be delivered and charged in August.

Master Mysteries

By ARTHUR HOERL

The Hemp Rope

THEY CROSSED TO THE WINDOW AND LOOKED THRU THE DUSTY PANE. A CAR HAD DRAWN UP OUTSIDE THE HOUSE AND A TALL WELL BUILT MAN, AT LEAST SIX FEET, WEARING EYE-GLASSES AND WITH A SMALL LEATHER CASE IN HIS RIGHT HAND WAS MOUNTING THE STEPS OF THE PORCH.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Jonathan Hubbard, last of an old New York family, is found hanged in the attic of his house. The house, an out-of-date mansion, is suspected of being haunted by the ghost of Darrell, a gambler who was reported to have won the estate from a Hubbard early in the nineteenth century.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER II.

While the police photographer obtained the photographic evidence of the deed Capt. Blake and Jardin conversed in low tones with Dr. Wattles and Phelps made a survey of the situation for fingerprints.

There was no evidence in the room of any struggle and it would have been difficult to have visioned any because of the lack of furnishings. Robin Dale was making a careful, minute inspection of his own during the initial lull which follows the visual facts of a crime. The point which struck him most forcibly was the fact that the floor of the attic was perfectly clean while the walls, windows and window-frames and the slanting ceilings were dust-laden.

There were four windows giving light to the room, one in the center of each wall. In each case they were double windows hinged at the sides and swinging inward. A swival latch held them shut. Dale inspected each of these windows carefully. At the east window he paused to peer intently through the dusty panes, looking toward the north.

To the two large wooden pillars, upon which the beam that held the body of Jonathan Hubbard rested, two cast-iron candelholders were attached. A candle was in each of them; one had been unburned while the other showed a blackened wick.

In the center of the room, near the overturned chair, Dale bent over and picked a tiny object out of the crevice between two of the floor boards.

"Well?" He heard Capt. Blake's voice raised for the first time.

"Doesn't look as if there is a trace of a finger print up here, Captain," he heard Phelps reply. "I'll take a look around the house and may find something where the rumpus started."

"All right, Phelps, and tell the housekeeper to stand by. I'll want to question her after we finish here."

"Looks like we'll have about one clue to go on, Captain," suggested Jardin, "and that's the hemp rope. It's new and probably was bought for just this purpose."

"There's lots more to go on than that, Sarge," said Robin Dale with a smile.

"Found something, Dale?" Capt. Blake asked quickly. He was always interested when the reporter had a statement to make.

"I think I can describe your murderer with fair accuracy, captain," Dale replied.

Immediately there was intense interest on the part of the police officials.

"Go ahead, Dale," urged Blake.

"Your culprit is about 6 feet tall, quite robust, intelligent and methodical, dresses well and is an educated person, is left-handed, wears glasses and probably carries a cigaret lighter. I think you'll find he's pretty fond of the water."

"That's almost enough to lay our hands on him, Dale, if it can be substantiated."

"Well, it's merely the matter of a little observation and mental arithmetic, captain."

"Are you holding out on us for a little suspense, Dale?" queried Sergt. Jardin with a grin. He had long since lost whatever antipathy he felt toward the reporter which he had permitted to develop during Dale's early co-operative efforts with the police.

"Give me a cigaret, sarge, and I'll relieve the suspense as far as I can." Jardin held one out without his usual hesitation. Dale lit it before he proceeded.

"Captain, if you'll stand on that chair and reach for the hook in the beam you'll immediately understand why it took a man nearly six feet tall to drive it, especially as there isn't another thing in the attic on which to stand. He must be quite robust to carry a man of Jonathan Hubbard's weight to this floor and raise him sufficiently to put the noose about his neck, for certainly Jonathan couldn't be accused of assisting him at the work.

"Of course, that raises one question Dr. Wattles must answer. There are no signs of a blow sufficient to render the old gentleman unconscious and yet he must have been."

"May be chloroform . . . that would keep him out at least 10 minutes. The autopsy will tell," spoke Dr. Wattles.

"Your murderer must be intelligent and methodical, demonstrated by the fact that he figured the entire affair out in advance and proceeded without haste, giving himself sufficient time even to sweep up the entire floor so that no footprints would be left in the dust." Dale had his audience listening carefully to every word.

"I assume he dresses well," continued the reporter, "for the reason that he carries a cigaret lighter and does his sweeping job as only a very careful, tidy person would do it. He is educated because he even goes so far as to study the direction of the wind. This also explains his probable fondness for the water. What city man knows whether the wind is blowing north, east, south or west? That is unless it is a habit and the water is about the only place the necessity for cultivating the habit arises.

"Your man knew exactly which way the wind was blowing last night. He went to the east window, and no other, and threw out the dust he swept from the floor. He knew that last night the wind was blowing from the south, so that it would carry the dust away from the house. At either of the north or south windows it would have been blown back into the attic. And he did not have to go to the west window to ascertain his information, either.

"You will find on the east window that only the left latch has been disturbed. This was done by the left hand, as he was carrying the dust in a pan or paper in his right, proving also that he did the sweeping with his left hand.

The roof of the bay-window on the second floor, to the right of the window he opened, will show signs of the dust he threw out. He wore eyeglasses because they dropped from their place and were broken. In sweeping up the bits one of them lodged in the crevice between two boards. He probably carries a cigarette lighter because there was no sign of a match stub where he lit one of the two candles in this room to work by. The wick is bent over where he forced it down to meet the lighter, unnecessary if he had had a match."

Capt. Blake had walked to the east window; as he gazed at it he suddenly stiffened, beckoned those in the room.

They crossed to the window and looked through the dusty pane. A car had drawn up outside the house and a well-built man, as least six feet tall, wearing eyeglasses and with a small leather case in his right hand was mounting the steps of the porch. He was very well dressed.

SAMSON BOWED BEFORE CATARRH

Strongest of Men Are Overcome By Its Insidious Approach.

"I was so strong two years ago that my buddies in the mill nicknamed me 'Samson,'" said a big-framed man to the World's Tonic druggist in McKeesport, Pa. "I had lived outdoors until I was full grown, and had used my muscles until I had a reputation as a strong man. When I went to work in the mill I found that strength an asset that brought me money, and I gloried in it. Like most strong men, I did not take any particular care of myself, and that eventually brought me down to where any water boy in the mill was stronger than me. I suppose it came about from going indoors to a hot job and then coming out in the smoky, foggy air without taking any precautions. I began to snuffle a good deal, my food began to taste wrong and then I became worse. My head was full all the time, and I had to be mighty careful what I ate, or I could not keep it down, even water tasted flat and stale.

"This thing went on for a few months. I did not know what to do about it, although my work nearly killed me and I could not rest at night. My wife tempted me with every dish she could think of, but they all rather disgusted me, and I wanted nothing. I treated my stomach, because we all thought that was where the trouble was, but nothing I did for it helped me any.

"One night I heard a man tell a crowd of people that most of the stomach troubles were due to catarrh; that no matter what symptoms showed no one with catarrh was ever going to get well until that catarrh was overcome. It seemed sensible, and I got to wondering if that was what ailed me. It took me about a month to make up my mind. But all other treatments had failed, and in desperation I asked a druggist what was good for catarrh. He said there was nothing better than World's Tonic. I bought a bottle, and I had not taken much more than half of it until I knew I was on the right track. One by one my symptoms disappeared, and first thing I knew I was getting strength and weight. Well, sir, I gained forty pounds in the fall, and the old strength came back to me like it did to my namesake, Samson.

"A year of catarrh well nigh finished me, but six weeks of World's Tonic put things to rights. You can tell anybody for me it is one great medicine." World's Tonic can be purchased of Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, or any other first class drug store. (A-24)

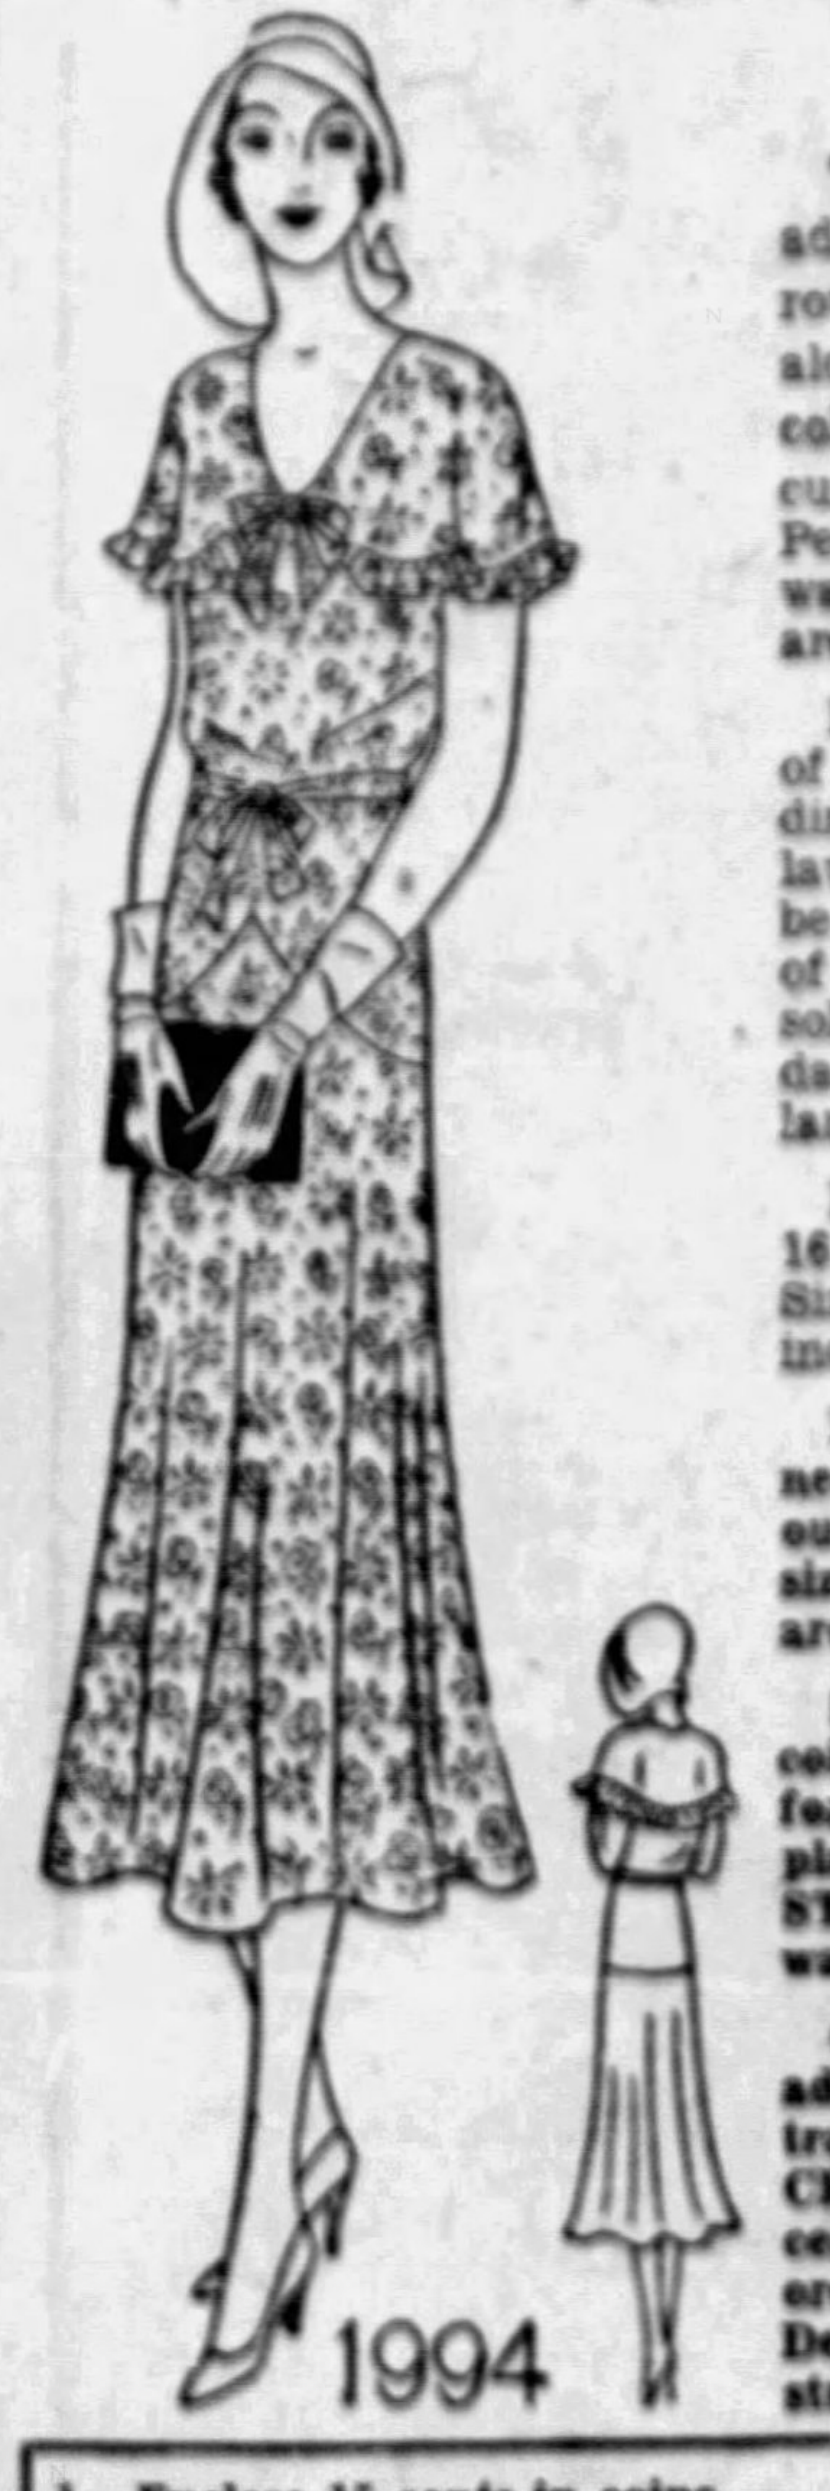
Refreshing and Demurely Smart
Pattern 1994
Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS



The ever popular cape collar adds grace and chic with a narrow ruffling of the fabric gathered along the edge. The cut of the collar in front is repeated in the curved joining of the skirt flare. Pert bows finish the neck and waistline in dainty manner. There are sleeves with the pattern.

Pattern 1994 may be fashioned of silk or cotton fabric . . . voile, dimity, georgette, chiffon, batiste, lawn, etc. These materials may be bought in many combinations of colors cleverly blended or in solid pastel tones. Both light and dark grounds are extremely popular this summer.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4¾ yards of 39-inch material.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our BOOK of PATTERNS for adults and children including transfer patterns, is FIFTEEN CENTS. Book with pattern, 25 cents. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.

MEXICO TO PAY, SAYS EX-CHIEF

NEW ORLEANS, July 29.—(AP.)—Former President Portes Gil, of Mexico, has arrived in New Orleans from Havana with his wife and 3-year-old daughter, Rosa Alva.

He was met at the dock by the Mexican consul general and his staff and escorted to a hotel, where he planned to remain two days. Then he will go to San Antonio, Tex., and later to Rochester, Minn., where the daughter will receive medical attention.

The former president said in an interview:

"The message I would like to give to the people of America is that Mexico will pay every dollar of her international debt. We have got, of course, to make such funding arrangements as will permit us to pay our debt out of our yearly income.

Brakeman Killed By Fall from Car

High School Lack Sends Students Far and Near

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 29.—Because no high school is maintained in the township limits, students in Dunkard Township are forced to attend eight different high schools in two states and four different counties.

Schools attended by students from the township are Morgantown and West Virginia University high schools, in Marion County, W. Va.; Point Marion and South Brownsville high schools, in Fayette County, and Carmichaels, Mapletown, Point Marion and Waynesburg high schools, in Greene County.

4 Mercer County Hunters Under Ban

MERCER, Pa., July 29.—The hunting licenses of four Mercer County men have been revoked, following their conviction for game law violations, last year. They are: Carl B. Hersch, Farrell, two years; L. D. Stull, Mercer, one year; George Staunch, Farrell, one year; Benjamin Watson, Sharon, two years.

GOVERNOR SEES TRADE REVIVAL

SALEM, Ill., July 29.—(AP.)—Soundness of the American government and the fighting spirit of the American people are factors which assure an upturn in business conditions before long, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson said in an address.

The present business depression, the executive said, is more mental than real, as the real buying power of the people has not decreased. He predicted business will show decided progress within the next few months. He continued:

"We let speculators who gambled on margins and lost, mould public opinion into the belief that the country is on the down grade, but we know it isn't.

"A nation of people who fought the Revolutionary War, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and the World War will not long be held back in its progress by the collapse of fictitious values in the stock market."

Postoffice Sale Called by Sheriff

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 29.—On August 22 the postoffice building at Canonsburg is to be sold by the sheriff to satisfy a mortgage lien. The building, a substantial brick structure designed for postoffice use, was erected a little more than a year ago and is leased to the government by the owner, Clare B. McDermott.

CARBONA
POWDER
REMOVES GREASE SPOTS WITHOUT LEAVING A "RING"

Most silks are now "weighted" or "loaded" with foreign substances to make them appear of better quality. Liquid cleaners dissolve this "weighting" or "loading," and this causes "rings" on Silks. We have therefore created Carbona Grease Absorbent Powder for use on Silks only. This Powder will not affect "weighting" or "loading" in any way—it absorbs Grease Spots instead of dissolving them, and no "rings" can result from its use on Silks.

SUNKEN TANKER FOUND BY DIVER

SCITUATE, Mass., July 29.—(AP.)—The watery grave of the oil tanker Pinthis, which sank off here June 10 after a collision with the steamship Fairfax, in which 49 lives were lost, has been found.

The ship was found lying on a sandy bottom and had not exploded, Hubert Grove, diver for an insurance company, which had been conducting search for the craft, reported.

The Pinthis was lying on its port side—the side that was struck by the Fairfax during a heavy fog.

The speed indicator on the tanker was set at half speed, Grove said. All the windows were broken, the foremast was split and the ship was in about 96 feet of water.

Two ghastly figures met his gaze, Grove said, as he was lowered to the Pinthis. He believed them to be the bodies of two of the crew.

CAPTIVE FLEES, ESCAPES SHOTS

TITUSVILLE, Pa., July 29.—(AP.)—Raymond Kroah, 22, of Johnsonburg, who was being brought back here to answer a charge, escaped from Chief of Police Daniel Connell, of Titusville, at Mayville, N. Y. The youth asked the chief to take off his handcuffs, which he said were hurting him, and at Mayville, the first station reached after the officer had complied with his request, Kroah dashed from the train.

Connell shot at the fleeing figure and Kroah fell under the train. As Connell reached for the prostrate form, Kroah crawled out from under the train on the opposite side and ran away. The officer fired again, but the shot did not stop the man.

Fall from Rocker Kills Aged Farmer

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 29.—John H. Davisson, 80, retired farmer, lies dead at his home at McWhorter as the result of falling from a rocking chair when it upset.

SCIENCE ENDS ACID STOMACH

New Formula Relieves Stomach Torture, Belching, Bloat, Gas, Heartburn and Sourness.

"I was in a terrible state for years with acid indigestion," writes Mrs. Nellie Crouse, of 2803 Quincey Street, Kansas City, Mo. "After eating I had such terrible pains in my stomach, I thought I'd die. I would get nervous and numb and my heart would nearly stop beating. Nothing helped until I tried Acidine. Now I can eat, sleep and enjoy life again."

That's what millions think of this new formula Acidine which is a splendid combination of quick acting, long lasting antacids plus effective starch and protein digestants which promptly stop burning acid, gas formation, that awful lumpy feeling after meals, nausea and the colds, nervousness, sleepless nights caused often by the resulting acidity.

If you use Acidine you can eat, drink and smoke without fear of the acidity which depresses you and results in more serious troubles. A well known physician says: "I am convinced Acidine is an antacid of the first rank. For those who are troubled with gas, heaviness after eating, heartburn, belching, bloating, usually due to excess acidity, I generally prescribe Acidine."

Thousands have found it the only real relief from acid indigestion and dyspepsia, gas pain, heartburn, coated tongue, bad taste, dizziness, fullness, short breath, and other troubles from acid stomach. So it is rapidly taking the place of other stomach remedies. No formula for over acidity surpasses Acidine, the household standby of millions. Your druggist has Acidine.

POLITICAL MEET ENDS IN FIGHT

WORCESTER, Mass., July 29.—(AP.)—A "harmony" meeting of Massachusetts Democratic leaders, called to select a slate for the state primary, failed to accomplish its business after a fist fight developed between two delegates.

An effort to prevent the conference from sponsoring any certain candidates was led by Congressman W. M. Connery, of Lynn. He introduced a resolution to prevent such action and it was during the speeches that the disorder developed.

Connery's resolution was passed, 268 to 255, but the vote was doubted. During a roll call the disorder reached its height. The chairman had little or no control over the meeting, the stage became overcrowded with delegates and the fist fight in the back of the hall started. With the women delegates frightened, John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston, led in the singing of "Sweet Adeline," while policemen dragged one of the battlers out.

United States Senator David I. Walsh opened the meeting. He said the unemployment situation was a political condition and it needed the best thought and leadership of the administration in Washington.

Real Estate

The contract for a new dormitory to be erected by the Shady Side Academy in its group of buildings in the Fox Chapel road has been awarded to the Golden & Crick Company, 3512 Fifth avenue. The new building will be an important unit in the plan laid out several years ago for the extension of the academy's facilities for the accommodation of all-year students. E. P. Mellon is the architect.

In the same district rapid progress is being made on the new building for the Fox Chapel Golf Club. Edward A. Wehr, of the Highland Building, who has the general contract, this week announced the ward of sub-contracts for the building.

The Horner Real Estate Company announces that the Autenreith Company, a chain store concern, has recently acquired a lease on a storeroom in East Eighth avenue, Homestead. The premises are 40x110 feet together with a basement of the same size. After extensive alterations the Autenreith Company will take possession before September 1.

C. B. Gray has applied for a building permit for the erection of a $35,000 brick dwelling and garage at 1019 Devonshire street, Fourteenth Ward. Unkefer Bros. Construction Company have the contract.

Adam C. Davis, for a consideration of $1,600, has deeded a property 30x125 feet in Freeport road, East Deer Township, to Reuben Rosen.

John M. Phillips has sold a lot 35x141 feet in East Agnew avenue, Carrick. The consideration was $1,400.

The County of Allegheny paid $24,000 for a tract 41x76 feet in Olivia street, McKees Rocks. The former owner was Roman Szewczux.

2 HELD IN DRIVE ON DOPE RING

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(AP.)—The breaking up of a dope ring said to be operating in many parts of the United States was forecast today by Treasury officials following the arraignment yesterday before a United States commissioner of two men secretly arrested Saturday.

Harry J. Ainslinger, acting director of the Narcotic Bureau, said the dope smuggling organization under investigation operated not only in New York and throughout many parts of the East and South, but also on the Pacific Coast.

Anslinger said arrests had been made in other cities. He would disclose no details. Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the Treasury, said a drive against several rings had been in progress for the past two months, and that other arrests were expected.

The two men arraigned gave the names of Pete D. Agistone and Joe Anzellone, both of New Jersey. Each was held under $20,000 bond.

Autoist Accused In Fatal Collision

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 29.—George Young, of Zediker Station, driver of an automobile which struck and fatally injured Harry W. Clutter, 19, of Pleasant Grove, was held for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by the coroner's jury at an inquest here. The jury found the accident due to Young's reckless driving.

Beaver County Road Link to Open Soon

BEAVER, Pa., July 29.—The road between Georgetown and Hookstown, a distance of three miles, will be completed this week and opened to traffic within 10 days. The cost of the improvement was $300,000.

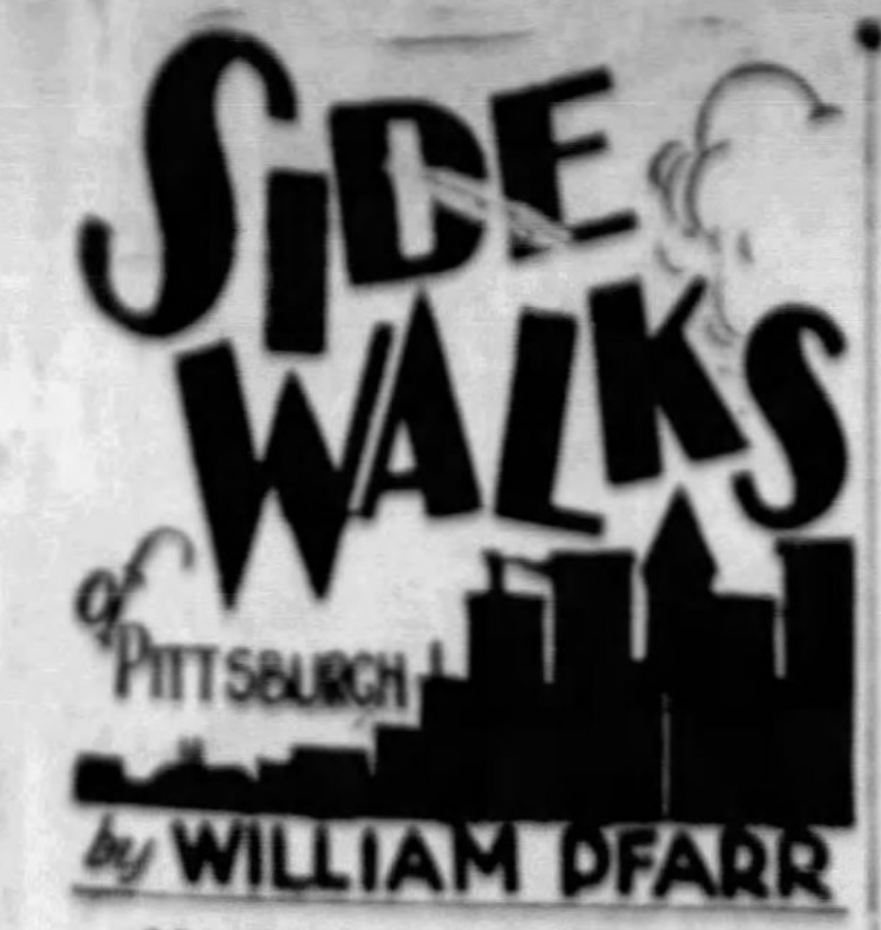
VOTE MIX-UP IGNORED, REES CHARGES



SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

Mr. Mencken probably could translate the incident into terms of scorn, but we think it was funny. To get to the luncheon of Rotary Club in the Fort Pitt Hotel, Rotarian Jim Hoeveler drove his Austin car over the Penn avenue sidewalk, through the open door, turned a sharp corner in the lobby, speeded back to the English room at the end of the hallway, parked the car, ate his lunch and drove away.

* * *

Not enough, if anything, has been said of the contribution which the employers of this country have made to beauty. Most employers see to it that the young women on their payrolls paint their faces with becoming conservatism. Nurses, school teachers, department store clerks wield delicate fingers when they are applying rouge during working hours. But once the whistle blows the fairer sex may slap on the red with the enthusiasm of a house painter. The results are disastrous. Beauty flies out the window and its place is taken by a distorted mask, if you care for nice, mixed figures of speech. It is an exhausting task trying to teach the young woman of today what she should be taught, and we, for one, for two, for three, don't know what this good old world is coming to.

In the preceding sentence we said that we didn't know what this good old world was coming to, and we really meant just that. Not so long ago we invited the town's multimillionaires to set up what might be called the William Pfarr Endowment, paced at a half-million dollars. This endowment was to enable William Pfarr to travel to his heart's content, rewarding his benefactor with a monthly, literary report on his travels.

And what happened? Nothing happened. Not one multimillionaire responded. No more scathing indictment of Pittsburgh's multimillionaires could be made. They are all willing to allow the impression to be broadcast that Pittsburgh's multimillionaires' hearts are as cold as the ices of the South Pole. And if the multimillionaires of this town think there are any ices colder than those, they had better revise their thoughts right away. Little wonder that this world is coming to whatever it is coming to.

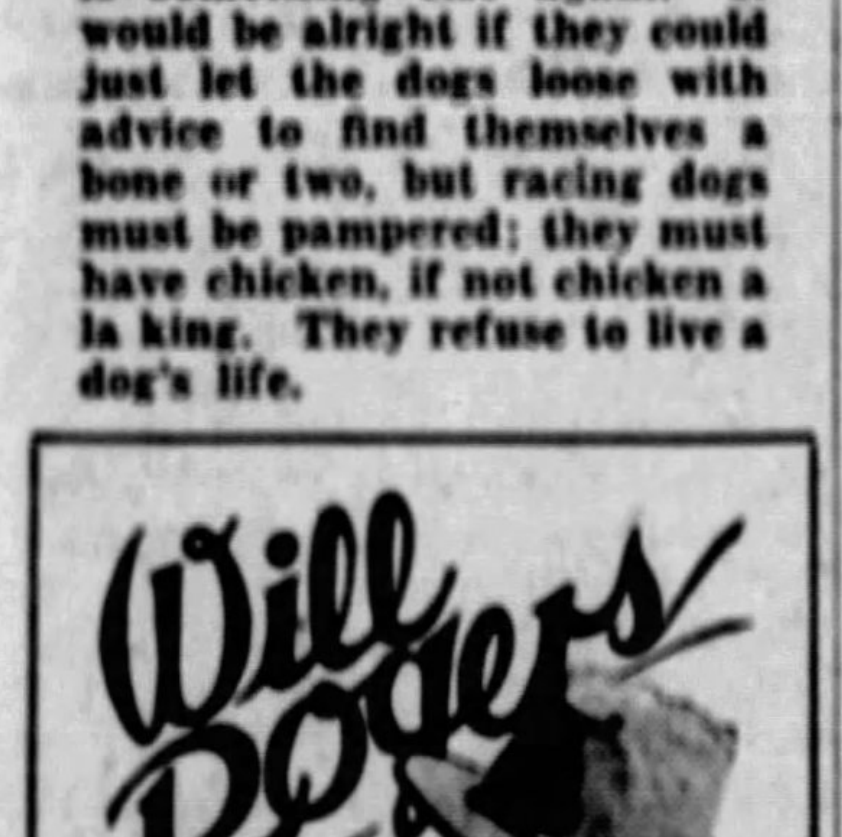
The dog races are no longer with us, but we still have the dogs. At the Guyasuta track some 200 racers are taking it very easy these days, doing nothing but sleeping and eating. The owners of the track are discovering that the food bill for these expensive dogs is something else again. It would be alright if they could just let the dogs loose with advice to find themselves a bone or two, but racing dogs must be pampered; they must have chicken, if not chicken a la king. They refuse to live a dog's life.

ALL THEY'LL EAT IS CHICKEN !
HIGH HAT EH ?



Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, July 29.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Say, what do you know about "Ma" Ferguson down in Texas. I know "Ma" and I like her. She pulled her husband out of trouble one time, and that has always hit the old timers as just about what a real old Western wife should do. They over-estimate this governor thing anyhow. States have good ones, bad ones and every kind, and yet they drag along about the same. Things in our country run in spite of government, and by the aid of it. Did you ever see the like of candidates everywhere? Every male white child over the age of 21 is running for something. You can always tell a poor business year by the number of candidates. When nobody else will give you employment you feel like the state should.

Yours,
WILL.

Store Gives Playground to City

Site Firm Offers For Playground

E. NORTH SIDE SITE OFFERED FOR PLAY

May-Stern & Co. to Lease And Equip Plot Where No Recreation Spot Exists

East North Side will be given a needed playground, it was revealed today by Leo Lehman, president of the May-Stern & Co., 914 Penn avenue, who today offered a site to the city for recreational uses.

Accepting the offer on behalf of the city, President of Council John S. Herron declared work of preparation will start immediately.

The proposed play center is an acre of ground adjoining the May-Stern warehouse at East Lacock and Hope streets. It extends from Lacock street to River avenue. The site was inspected today by President Herron; W. C. Batchelor, director, Bureau of Recreation, Director Edward S. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, Councilman Harry A. Little and Leo Lehman.

OFFERS EQUIPMENT

Negotiations are now pending between the May-Stern concern and the Pennsylvania Railroad, owners of the property. The ground is expected to be placed in use shortly, according to Mr. Lehman, who stated his firm will equip the site in accordance with whatever recommendations are made by Mr. Batchelor.

Describing the civic interest being taken by his concern, Mr. Lehman stated:

"We are well acquainted with the congested condition of this district through the operation of a warehouse at the site. While larger and more imposing parks are fine, it is our belief the recreation center should be taken to the people. This district has no provision for recreational purposes without journeying to another part of the city.

WADING POOL, SLIDES

"When negotiations are completed with the railroad, we will equip the playgrounds in whatever manner is recommended to make it complete. Mr. Batchelor has not yet made any suggestions, but I believe among other features will be a wading pool, slides and the usual accessories. The project is merely in line with our firm's civic interest as expressed last year in landscaping a hillside in Soho and presenting it to the city."

Yancey, in Plane, Talks 14,000 Miles

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—Advices received here from Buenos Aires describe a radiophone conversation between Capt. Lewis Yancey in an airplane and Sydney, Australia.

The connection which was made from the plane 5,000 feet above the Buenos Aires airport, established a distance record for telephoning from an airplane in flight. It spanned 14,000 miles.

4 ON TROLLEY HURT IN CRASH

Four women, injured when a Mt. Washington street car struck a Mt. Lebanon car in the Mt. Washington railways tunnel, were being held at the Mercy Hospital today for observation. None was seriously hurt, it was said.

They were Mrs. A. P. White, of 164 Virginia avenue; Mildred Grimm, of 118 Bingham street, and Mrs. Mary Rectenwald and Ruth Barry, both of 411 Plymouth street.

Railway Company officials said the accident occurred when Motorman K. K. Hall failed to judge the distance between his car and the one in front. Passengers in the second car were hurled from their seats.

Russian Inspects Railroad Work Here

M. M. Stogoff, assistant section superintendent of the October Railroad, Leningrad, Russia, was in Pittsburgh on an inspection trip yesterday, studying American methods of railroading. He is representing the Russian Soviet government. He left last night for Philadelphia. He came here June 1. Yesterday he visited the Pennsylvania Railroad shops at Pitcairn to watch the method of handling freight and passenger traffic and to inspect the car retarders and the transfer at that yard.

Essay Winners to Get Free Plane Flights

Do you like to fly? Are you interested in receiving a complete ground school course free? Would you like to make an extended flight over the city absolutely without charge?

Warner Brothers, as part of the program for "Aviation Week," which is being celebrated in all Warner Brothers' theaters locally starting Thursday in conjunction with the presentation of Richard Barthelmess in "The Dawn Patrol" at the Stanley, will give six complete ground school courses and 12 long flights over Pittsburgh and the vicinity for the best essay on "Why I Like to Fly." A mammoth air parade will take place over Pittsburgh at noon on Thursday with the best available planes and pilots of Western Pennsylvania participating in the event.

The first six winners in the contest will receive the ground school training, while the 12 runners-up will be awarded the flights.

Essays should bel imited to 200 words and should be sent in to Department D, Warner Brothers' Theaters, 209 Clark Building, Pittsburgh, not later than midnight of next Sunday. Announcements of the winning essays will be made in next Tuesday's Sun-Telegraph.

Raquel Runs Away From Annoying Host

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Raquel Rojos, daughter of a Spanish father and an American mother, has fled from her home in Hermosa, on the Mexican border, and come to New York. She puts up at the hotel Brixton and starts to see the town. One night at the theater a strange woman speaks to her and invites her to a night-club party after the show. They are escorted by Benny Barnes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII.

The Club Divine occupied the top story of an antiquated three-story building on the fringe of the theatrical district going north from Times Square.

On the left it jogged elbows with a towering stone apartment house. On the right it nudged a dilapidated brick structure of the early eighties that was being demolished to make way for what the signs posted on its disintegrating skeleton announced would be "positively the most gigantic moving picture palace on earth."

The name, Club Divine, picked out in violet and blue lights, was the only outward evidence of the club's profitable existence.

As she stepped from Mr. Barnes' car under the violet and blue lights, Raquel thought the aspect of the Club Divine forbidding.

A look-out, in the form of a six-foot-two tower of brawn in Cossack uniform, bowed stiffly from the waist as he recognized the man of the party.

"Good evening, Mr. Barnes," he said, unctuously.

Upward in a violet and gilt candy-box elevator.

"Ah, Mr. Barnes." Another unctuous gentleman in faultless evening clothes met them. "I have for you a table. Ringside, is it not?"

Raquel found herself sitting at the edge of a mirrored floor in a room of crimson and purple draperies to which clung clouds of hazy blue smoke.

Raquel Annoyed

Does Not Like Ben's Manners

Glasses were placed in front of the three at the table. Long-stemmed glasses into which the one addressed as Charley poured a froth of pale amber from a bottle that he replaced in a bucket of ice under the table.

"She does not like champagne, eh?" Mr. Barnes twitted. "She has not the taste." His paternal attitude rasped Raquel.

"I don't care for drinks," Raquel said with a touch of hauteur. Benny was "put-putting" his lips in a most annoying manner.

"No, she doesn't like drinks."

Benny's pudgy hand with the thick black fuzz on it closed over Raquel's where it lay on the table. She jerked her hand away, unceremoniously.

Injures Ben

Raquel Becomes Angered At Him

"Another Cordon Rouge, Charley," he ordered. His voice penetrated. People at the next table turned to look at them. "Make it a magnum. I'm thirsty."

A blare of music. Saxaphones wailing their primitive lament. Banjos that strummed with every heart-beat. The incredibly sweet tremble of a violin. Trap-drums snaring. Cymbals ringing out clarion calls.

Now they were dancing. A pond of figures, swirling, eddying in rhythmic motion to the music. The rainbow of pleasure reflected itself in the mirrored floor.

"It it—why, it must be like heaven," breathed Raquel. Then revised the notion mentally to, "It could be heaven." Benny pretty much spoiled the view of heaven; his tongue played little tricks on him when he tried to talk. The wine thickened it. He reached again for Raquel's hand. Tipped over his glass of wine.

"Spilled it," he laughed foolishly. "Whatsh diff'rensh? Rub behind lil shtranger's earsh. F' luck."

SEEK MISSING PERSONS HERE

The Bureau of Missing Persons today was asked to hunt for Frank M. Davis, formerly of Columbus, being sought by Mrs. Tillie Clark, of 4081 East Seventy-fourth street, Cleveland.

Annie Anderson and her brother, Sigfried, of Motala, Sweden, relatives of the late Herman O. Anderson, of Berkeley, Cal., are wanted by Mrs. Blenda Anderson, of 1630 Derley street, Berkeley, who requested aid in finding them.

Others sought are August Lindhurst, by his son, William Lindhurst, of 1248 East Sixty-first street, Cleveland, and Joseph De Phillips, by his son, Tony De Phillips, of Newport, Ky.

NEW AIR LINE OPENS FRIDAY

Officials of the Pittsburgh and Buffalo chambers of Commerce inaugurated aviation service between Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, when they flew from Buffalo to Pittsburgh on the test trip of the Skyview Airlines Company. The service is to begin Friday. Bettis Field is the local terminal.

Thomas C. Foley, manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, was one of those making the trip, representing the local body.

AUTO CRASHES INTO HOUSE

Damage to the extent of $500 was done to the front porch and foundation of the home of J. C. Drexler, of 2336 Wurzell street, North Side, early today when an automobile ran wild and hit another car, which was sent crashing into the Drexler home.

Police said a car owned by C. M. Morgan, and parked in front of his home at 429 Burgess street, ran driverless down the street.

DRUG VIOLATOR SENTENCED

Israel Cohen, 42, of Mellon street, described by federal officers as the most persistent violator of the drug act in Pittsburgh, today was sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., by Judge R. M. Gibson, who revoked his parole.

Twice in the last five days Cohen had been arrested by city police for possessing narcotics. In May, when he pleaded guilty to sale and possession of narcotics, he was paroled by Judge Schoonmaker.

His attorney, Albert D. Martin, told the court today that Cohen had been a drug addict for 25 years. Records show that since 1916 he has been arrested 20 times in Pittsburgh, Youngstown and Detroit, that he has served 10 sentences.

Driver Arrested For Periling Child

Louis Hadovsky, 22, driver for the Red Star Bakery of Homestead, was arrested charged with reckless driving when his truck barely missed Jean Kuhn, 3, of Monongahela street, in Chatsworth street, Hazelwood, this afternoon. The child fell to the street, uninjured, as Hadovsky brought the machine to a stop. Although police arrested him, they said that he did not appear to be at fault.

Claims Wife Cruel, Sues for Divorce

Dennis F. K. Triem, 133 Marshall avenue, charges his wife with cruelty in suit for divorce he has brought in Common Pleas Court against Mrs. Ada Triem, now living in Atlantic City. They were married July 4, 1925, and separated September 13, 1927.

PINCHOT AIDE CRITICIZES BOARD

Irregularities in 6th Ward Passed Up, He Declares; 'Repeating' Intimated

The Recount Board, checking alleged fraud in the recent primary election, failed to call attention to irregularities found in the ballot box of the Fourth District of the Sixth Ward, it was charged today by Attorney Ralph H. Frank and Maj. W. T. Rees, who represent Gifford Pinchot before the board.

They stated that the box contained two lists of voters, on which 10 per cent of the names were recorded in alphabetical order. One of those names appears twice, Pinchot's observers said.

'REPEATING' CHARGED

In other parts of the list, four persons appear to have voted twice. They were Barbara Dupper, whose address on the registration books is given as 3604 Melville street; Frank Tarnapowicz, of 3617 Butler street; Frank Damahowski, of 3548 Butler street, and John Wright, of 3505 Leech street.

Frank and Rees stated:

"All of these facts ought to have been perfectly obvious to the members of the recount board upon an inspection of the numbered list of voters and we are unable to understand for what reason the recount board did not mention them in its report to the court.

"The registration books of this district show that 205 persons were registered and that 201 voted, although there were 203 ballots in the box. The registration books also show that several persons voted whose names do not appear on any of the numbered lists of voters.

EXTRA COPY

"The extra copy of the numbered list of voters found in the ballot box is the one which election officers of the district ought to have posted on the outside of the polling place when the polls closed and their failure to do so is doubtless due to the fact that they knew it would not bear public scrutiny.

"In view of the developments so far as to the boxes from the Sixth Ward, we are at a loss to understand why the recount board has passed over 12 boxes from that ward which have been ready for a report in order to concentrate on the very last boxes impounded, those of Wilkinsburg."

RAIL HEARING DATE SET

It was announced today by Chamber of Commerce officials that the hearing of Pittsburgh railroads before the Interstate Commerce Commission on the proposal to abolish certain circuitous routes in this district will be held September 16. The hearing had been postponed from June 17, according to Donald O. Moore, traffic manager of the chamber.

Virtually every carrier in this district would be affected and the shippers put to delay and expense if the proposal to discontinue the routes, which have long been established, is granted in a commission order. Moore will attend the hearing, representing the chamber.

Man Hurt in Fall Down Stairs Dies

A fall down the stairs in his home June 24 today was blamed for the death of Joseph Bolling, 41, Negro, of 722 Chianti street, in the Pittsburgh Hospital, in a report to the coroner.

Gets Divorce From Wife 21 Years His Senior

Despite a stubborn fight put up by his wife, 21 years his senior, Judge Frank P. Patterson has granted a divorce to City Fireman Walter W. Ruben, 1109 Ridge avenue, from Mrs. Ada Ruben, 3242 Slope street, Sheraden, on grounds of cruelty.

In his opinion Judge Patterson points out that when the couple married in 1914 Ruben was 27 and his bride 48. She had been married twice before and had a married son. At that time Ruben was a deckhand on a river steamboat while his bride was a cook on another steamboat. Six years ago Ruben became a city firemen and has held the position since. The couple have no children.

Ruben charged his wife attacked him with a butcher knife and on another occasion tore his shirt off. His testimony was corroborated by Fire Captain Daniel Jones. The wife admitted cutting Ruben, but said it was while she was defending herself, and said the shirt incident occurred during a quarrel over his paying attentions to another woman.

EAST PITTSBURGH SCHOOL CONTRACT HELD ILLEGAL

COURT DECIDES LETTING TO BE ILLEGAL

Award Not Made to Low Bidder, Successful One Given Extension of Time

Holding that the contract is unlawful, Judge James H. Gray, in Common Pleas Court, has granted an injunction against the School District of East Pittsburgh, restraining it from carrying out any part of the contract awarded the Hodder Construction Company for erection of a new high school building. The judge decrees that bids will have to be advertised for again and a new contract let.

Suit to restrain the Hodder company from getting the work was filed last June by Frank Kelly and John D. Egloff, taxpayers of East Pittsburgh. They set forth that the Hodder bid was $41,475 while G. H. Chilb had bid $39,712 for the entire job and other bidders had bid on parts of the work for amounts less than the Hodder bid. It had been stipulated that the work was to have been completed by August 15, but the plaintiffs said that Hodder was granted to September 30 to finish the work. This alone is sufficient to make the contract illegal, Judge Gray held.

EAST LIBERTY HOLDS PICNIC

Highland Park today was the scene of the annual old-fashioned basket picnic of the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce. Plans have been completed to accommodate the largest crowd yet to attend the affair known as the "largest non-commercial picnic in Western Pennsylvania." Last year's picnic attracted 30,000 persons.

A. M. Shaner

The slogan of the picnic is "Everybody Welcome. Everything Free," and numerous stands will purvey hot dogs, peanuts, cold drinks and everything else that goes to make a picnic a picnic, without any charge whatsoever.

There is a prize list of 240 awards, which includes automatic refrigerators and automobiles in the drawing contests, and a huge list of awards for picnickers who take part in the various athletic and aquatic events.

P. E. Taylor

On the athletic program in addition to the staple fat and thin, married and single races are numerous novelty races, and a long prize list for them. The races will be staged at 2:30 o'clock.

An aquatic meet under the auspices of the American Athletic Union to be staged at 6:30 in the Highland Park lak includes swimming, diving and canoe tipping events.

HEAT DISTURBS TREE-SITTERS

Pittsburgh's tree-sitting champions droned into their fourteenth day aloft. Early today the boys had passed the 325-hour mark and were still going strong.

Robert, James and Lawrence Gravely, with their cousin, Sam King, seemed destined today to cop the championship when excessive heat was having a telling effect upon one pair of Homestead's sitters, the champions' nearest rivals. The Homestead boys, however, did not descend but called for more ice water and a fan.

The contest has spread to all parts of the city and suburbs, with sitters in scores of trees.

GIRL ACCUSED OF WILD DRIVE

Jean Walsh, 26, of Logan street, was held for court in Traffic Court today on a charge of violating the auto laws.

Police testified that a city physician had declared her intoxicated after she had been arrested in her home last Saturday. She was arrested, accused of hitting a parked auto in Clark street, after which she abandoned her own car, police reported.

WRECK BLOCKS P. R. R. TRACKS

Both tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Cheswick were blocked by a freight wreck last night. Four empty freight cars on a southbound train were derailed, the cars plunging onto the northbound track and blocking all traffic. The four derailed cars were part of a string of 100 empties being brought into the city. The tracks were blocked for three hours.

RUM FOR PARTY TRAPS PAIR

Maurice Leff, 25, of Chislett street, and Samuel Zahn, 22, of Dinwiddie street, were held for Federal Court, charged with violating the liquor laws before a United States commissioner, today.

Prohibition agents testified they had driven two automobiles across the path of a car occupied by the two defendants soon after it left a pharmacy early today. In the car, they found 24 pints of whisky, the agents testified.

The whisky was to be used for a party at Harmarville, Leff and Zahn told the agents, they said. The latter testified the pharmacy had been under observation. Records of the prohibition office showed that whisky seized April 5, in a raid in East Ohio street, had come from the same place, the agents asserted.

HIT-RUN DEATH INQUEST AUG. 6

Inquest into the death of 5-year-old William Harris, of 310 Lawn street, killed by an alleged hit-and-run driver, will be held August 6, Coroner McGregor announced today.

Held for the child's death on murder charges are Frank Kubiszewski, 30, the driver, and Frank Novak, 31, of Niagara street.

The child was killed and four of his playmates were injured in Lawn street Friday. Police have quoted the prisoners, steel workers, as saying they had been celebrating an idle day by drinking.

Best Outfit of Group, Army Officer Says, as Soldiers Face Latest Test

CAMP TOBYHANNA, Pa., July 29.—Col. I. C. Jenks, coordinator of all national guard units of the Third Corps Area, a visitor at camp, announced that the One Hundred Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, Col. W. R. Dunlap commanding, led all other units in the Third Corp area, which includes Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, in the annual federal inspection held last winter in Gen. Logan Armory, Pittsburgh.

INSPECTION THOROUGH

The federal inspection which is conducted annually by regular army officers, covers all phases of training that can be accomplished at the armory.

Gen. F. D. Beary, adjutant general of Pennsylvania, inspected camp kitchens and tents. He reviewed the troops and expressed his gratification at the progress of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery.

CAVALRY IN FIELD

MOUNT GRETNA, Pa., July 29.—(AP.)—The One Hundred and Fourth Cavalry of the Pennsylvania National Guard, ready for the last big maneuver of its summer training, today was to take the field for a combat with an imaginary army. After two days of defending mountain passes and in drawing out the enemy van, the two hostile forces will meet Thursday afternoon. The cavalry probably will not return to the Colebrook reservation before Friday noon.

15-MILE HIKE

In a 15-mile mounted hike yesterday the cavalry covered the same route taken by the officers last week in competing for the Riley Cup. The leading of men, the study of maps and the care of horses were problems involved in the ride.

While the One Hundred and Twelfth Infantry again went to the rifle ranges, the One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry received instructions in chemical warfare. Both regiments were given the afternoon to prepare for the track and field meet to be held Wednesday.

Bridgeville Man Hurt in Fall Dies

Daniel Quinn, 54, of Bridgeville, was dead today from injuries sustained Friday when he fell through a skylight in the General Electric Company office at Bridgeville, where he was employed. He was taken to the Mercy Hospital where death occurred, the coroner's report said.

P. R. R. FORCES HOLD 3 PICNICS

First outing of three picnic days of the Central Region, Mutual Beneficial Association of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was being held today at Conneaut Lake Park.

Four 12-car trains carried employes, their families and friends from the following districts: Canton, Cleveland, Akron, Ashtabula, Youngstown, Mahoningtown, Sharon, Wellsville, Scully, South Pittsburgh and Shire Oaks.

Due to thousands of picnickers attending these annual outings the committee had divided the region into three districts, each to picnic on consecutive days. Five trains will carry the second outing crowd tomorrow from Pittsburgh, Sharpsburg, Allegheny shops, North Side, Pittsburgh, Conway and Erie.

The third outing on Thursday will be jointly staged by the Pittsburgh Division Shop Craft Association and the Mutual Association. It will be held at Idlewild Park, Ligonier, with nine trains carrying the pleasure seekers from Cresson, Conemaugh, Blairsville, Derry, Youngwood, Uniontown, Bellaire, Mingo Junction, Oil City, Pittsburgh and Pitcairn.

Sympathetic strike of 22 hoisting engineers entered its second day today on three projects of the Booth and Flinn Construction Company in the Pittsburgh district.

Alleging the firm violated an agreement with engineers on a project at Rochester, N. Y., P. J. Bagnall, secretary of the local union, called the strike at the Gulf Refining Co. building, Grant street; Ohio River boulevard and the new East Pittsburgh Bridge. Construction operations were being continued, though the union leader declared the derricks and steam shovels were idle.

Brush Fire Gives Firemen Battle

Firemen from Duquesne and Homeville fought a stubborn brush fire yesterday afternoon at Duquesne Annex, a new development near Kennywood Park. Homeville firemen were summoned first and when the volunteers discovered the blaze beyond their control a department from Duquesne was summoned. The blaze was in Texas avenue, out of reach of the hose lines. Firemen used sacks and brooms to beat out the flames.

WOMAN AND SON FLEE; OFFICER OVERCOME

Blaze Damages Eighth Ave. Buildings $28,500; Film Biasts Hamper Firemen

A policeman was overcome and a mother and small son were forced to flee when fire damaged three homes and five business houses in Eighth avenue, Homestead, last night. Damage was estimated at $28,500.

Patrolman Rolland Calvin, 38, of Eighth avenue, collapsed and fell while helping firemen to fight the flames on the second floor at 330 Eighth avenue. He was carried to the street and taken to the Homestead Hospital. His condition is not serious.

The fire originated in the apartment of Max Adlersberg on the second floor of 330 Eighth avenue. Mrs. Adlersberg and her son, Max, were driven out.

BLAZE SPREADS

Flames spread to the first floor, occupied by the Homestead Bargain House, to 330½ Eighth avenue, occupied on the first floor by Alex's meat market and on the second floor by the photographic studio of H. N. Leland; to 332, occupied on the first floor by Anderson's hat shop and on the second floor by H. L. Anderson, proprietor, and his family, and to the building at 328, occupied by the apartment of Edward Preiss and family and the florist shop of Elecker & Strong.

Adlersberg estimated the loss to his building at $5,000 and to his furniture at $4,000. Loss to stock of the first floor store was set at $5,000. Loss to the Leland studio was set at $3,500 and to the meat market $1,000. Anderson set his loss at $3,000 for the store and $1,500 for the building, which he owns. The Preiss home was damaged to the extent of $5,000 and the florist shop about $1,000, firemen estimated.

FILMS EXPLODE

The flames reached a large quantity of films stored in the studio and several small explosions occurred. The heat from the burning films forced firemen to return to the street several times, virtually overcome.

The Anderson family and the Preiss family were absent and the only occupants of the four structures were Mrs. Adlersberg and her son.

PAIR ARRESTED ON RUM LOAD

Sam Manfredo, 32, of 34 Fullerton street, and Peter Ross, 27, of 38 Fullerton street, were held by police of Center Avenue Station as suspicious persons today, following their arrest at Webster and Fullerton avenues.

Police who arrested them said they were on a truck loaded with a 100-gallon still, seven five-gallon cans of moonshine and a quantity of materials for making liquor.

FOUR MEN PULL BIG LOCOMOTIVE

Four men, whose combined weight was less than 700 pounds, yesterday tugged lightly at a rope attached to a 710,000 pound roller bearing locomotive in the Pennsylvania Station here, and pulled the monster down the tracks with little effort.

The demonstration was to show the roadability and smoothness of operation of the new Timken roller-bearing locomotive, the only one of its kind in the world. Built by the American Locomotive Works, at Schenectady, N. Y., for the Timken Tapered Roller Bearing Company, of Canton, O., the "Iron Horse" pulled into Pittsburgh on a test run from Harrisburg to Columbus, O.

The larger railroads, according to T. V. Buckwelter, designer, will have ample opportunity of trying the engine out on both freight and passenger runs within the next two years. Fifty-two manufacturers of railroad equipment co-operated in the construction activities. A day less than a year was required on the project.

Under exhaustivve tests a sustained speed of 70 miles per hour has been developed.

A maximum of 85 miles is possible, it was said.

Also included in important money-saving facilities are those believed possible by long operation with minimum repairs to the driver and journal bearings. Friction in starting is reduced 95 per cent over the plain bearing. As a result 670,000 pounds can be added to the train without exceeding the permissible starting resistance of the engine and cars.

ATTACK VICTIM FOUND IN ROAD

Police today were continuing their investigation into the attack on Lee Young, 47, of Fair Oaks, who was found unconscious in Maplewood avenue, Ambridge. He was taken to the Sewickley Valley Hospital, where it was said he had sustained a fractured skull.

Ambridge police said Young had been struck from behind with a sharp missile, probably a stone, and believe he was robbed.

Suspect Identified 'As Slayer of Wife

Police questioning a Negro shot early yesterday when, it was alleged, he was caught robbing a tailor shop at 510 North Jackson street, North Side, said today that the name of Harry Jackson, given by the man at the time, was fictitious. His real name, the police announced, is Sidney Moore, 32, of Pittsburgh, released a year ago from the Western Penitentiary, where he served 10 years for murdering his wife.

Pair Arrested Here Taken to Danville

ERIE, Pa., July 29.—(AP.)—Roy Harold Perry, 35, Erie, and George Alva, alias Frank Bernard Callahan, Erie, were taken to Danville, N. Y., to face charges of robbing Freeman E. Bowen of $1,000. They were arrested in Pittsburgh while riding in a car which police said was stolen.

FINAL DRAFTING OF ORDINANCE FINISHED

Measure Groups Existing Regulations and Hits At Tag Fixing Practice

Frank L. Duggan, chairman of the Better Traffic Committee, today announced that final drafting of the Pittsburgh traffic code to make it agree with the "Hoover model" codified municipal traffic ordinance published this week, had been completed. The model traffic code was adopted by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety this year.

Five members of the local committee attended the conference and checked the proposed Pittsburgh code with the national standard at each step. Duggan said the completed traffic code is now uniform with the traffic regulations being adopted in many other cities.

The codified ordinance was first presented to Council last December. It has been re-submitted three other times this year, the last time early this month. The new ordinancee differs from the ones on the city's books in only one important respect, otherwise it serves merely to codify the more than 100 traffic laws on record.

In its "anti-tag fixing" provision, the code changes the former regulations on this subject. The new provisions would make all records of the traffic law enforcement machinery public property, and every tag, and all revenue would have to be accounted for to the city controller. These records at all time would be open to public inspection.

'ABLE YOUTHS' CLUB GUESTS

Ninety "able youths," young men and women who during the last 10 years have received awards from the Civic Club of Allegheny County for possessing exceptional ability, were guests of the club in its rooms in the William Penn Hotel last night. Mrs. Harry B. Wassell was hostess. Among those present were M. R. Scharff, president, and Miss Marie Dermit, secretary of the club; Dr. A. N. Goldberger, Walter E. Jones and R. E. Jeffert, of the students' aid committee.

Scharff read resolutions on the death of Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of city schools and chairman of the students' committee, who died Sunday.

The purpose of selecting exceptionally able youths is to aid them in attaining educations. In this the Civic Club is assisted by the Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Delta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternities, and the Buhl Foundation.

Soldier Faces Trial In Taxi Man's Death

LEWISBURG, W. Va., July 29.—(AP.)—Glenn Tyree, appearing in court in an army uniform, was placed on trial charged with the slaying of Ote Winebrenner, a taxicab driver, whose body was found along a road about six miles from Lewisburg, in August, 1928. Tyree pleaded not guilty.

Prosecuting Attorney James H. White asked the death penalty for the soldier, declaring he killed and robbed the taxi man, then joined the Army.

HELD IN THEFTS AFTER CHASE

Captured after a running gun battle with Mt. Lebanon police, Frank Lawson, 45, of 280 Shady avenue, was held for court on 15 charges following default of $25,000 bail when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ira H. Edmundson in the Mt. Lebanon Municipal Building yesterday. Lawson, whose activities, police say, netted him over $7,000 in stolen jewelry and which included robberies in Homestead Park, Mt. Lebanon, East End and the North Side, was confronted by his alleged victims in court who identified their property.

PATRICIA PITT'S PRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburghers Enjoy Brief Visits While On Vacation

Now that one can manage to get a delightful ghost of a chill, life's a gayer thing than it was yesterday, isn't it. And much more interesting. With apathy gone we discover there are really lots of interesting things going on right here at home and more at the resorts.

This year have you noticed that many Pittsburgh folks, although they are spending the greater part of the time at one resort, are flitting about on brief visits. From Watch Hill they go by yacht or plane to Newport, Saratoga Springs, or Southampton, to visit friends, to attend the races, or to see a horse show.

Mrs. Elisabeth M. Horne, of New York and Pittsburgh, gave a luncheon for her at her home Saturday and for the Alexander Laughlin Robinsons, Mary's brother and sister-in-law. There were 24 guests.

Show Boat

Last night a group of folks who have summer homes near Pittsburgh, or who live in the suburbs, was seen at the Golden Rod show boat, anchored at the Hotel Montrose landing. And among them were the Lee DeWitt Hemingways, of Kings Highway, Rosslyn Farms, Pa.

Many folks are attracted to Montauk, L. I., by the horse show to be held there August 13 and 14, and by the water carnival planned for August 2.

Among the arrivals are the junior Thomas Hitchcocks, who came on the Mellon yacht Vagabondia. Mrs. Hitchcock was formerly Margaret Mellon.

Margaret McCready, daughter of the R. T. M. McCready's, is in Cherry Valley, N. Y., where she's the guest of Mary Mellon McClung, daughter of the Samuel Alfred McClungs, of Murrayhill avenue.

Newport Debut

Helen Louise Tunnell, daughter of the Paul Tunnells, of Aylesboro avenue, who is to make her bow to Pittsburgh society in the fall, will be presented to Newport society at a dinner and dance on Saturday, August 9, to be given by Miss Lillian Washburn Newlin, of New York, her aunt.

And the dinner will also mark the opening of Miss Newlin's new summer home, the Play House, in Ocean avenue. It will interest you to know that this was formerly the barn on the estate of the late A. Holmstead. It now has been made into one of the most attractive of the smaller summer homes that face the ocean front.

Helen is planning to make her formal bow at the Bachelors' cotillion, December 1, in Baltimore, her former home. And later her mother will give the informal party in Pittsburgh to present her daughter.

Georgia Wedding

Of interest to Pittsburgh folks is the announcement of the wedding to take place on August 18 in Athens, Ga., when Mathilde Lumpkin Upson, daughter of the Stephens Cummins Upsons, of Athens, will marry Paul De Forest Hicks, of Pittsburgh, son of the Harry Wade Hickses, of the Lake Placid Club, N. Y. The ceremony will be a home affair at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Mathilde has chosen Mrs. Ralph W. Goss, of Athens, her aunt, to be her matron of honor, and her sister Louise, will be her maid of honor. For her bridesmaids she has named Marie Upson, another sister, and Mrs. Harriet Hicks Smith, of Pittsburgh, Mr. Hicks' sister.

And Mr. Hicks has chosen Livingston T. Merchant, of New York, to be his best man. The ushers will include George H. Flynn, Jr., and Charles Lockhart, of Pittsburgh, and the bride-elect's brother, Stephen L. Upson, of Athens.

After the wedding Mr. Hicks and his bride will leave for their honeymoon and will reside in Pittsburgh later.

Mr. Hicks and his sister, Mrs. Smith, accompanied by Mr. Flynn, Mr. Lockhart and Mr. Merchant, will leave August 14 for Athens.

Ogelbay, were bequeathed $10,000 each in the will of Sarita Ogelbay Russell, the only child of Col. Ogelbay, who died at Cleveland about two weeks ago. Mr. Ogelbay was interested in the steel and iron business and also in Great Lakes shipping.

PARK SITE LEFT CLARKSBURG

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 29.—The city of Clarksburg receives a 10-acre tract of land overlooking the city for a public park; his widow receives a life income from local business properties, and other relatives, mostly of Maryland, receive the residue in seven equal installments, by the will of Richard T. Lowndes, millionaire merchant and banker, who died last week. The instrument was filed for probate yesterday.

Those sharing equally in the residue are children of Lloyd Lowndes, Tasker G. Lowndes and Elizabeth L. Lowndes, all of Cumberland, Md.; W. Bladen Lowndes, of Baltimore; children of Charles T. Lowndes, who died at Colorado Springs, Col.; Richard T. Lowndes III, of Danville, Ky., and Miss S. Scollay Page, of Clarksburg, city librarian and cousin.

SHALER MAKES SCHOOL CHANGE

The school board of Shaler Township has given notice that to conform with an order of the state department of public instruction, against housing pupils in basement rooms, pupils of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades of the Braun school will be assigned to the Glenshaw school at the opening of the fall term. The children will be transported by bus. An increase of three mills in the school tax was necessary to purchase land for a new school building. Last year tuition to outside districts cost $15,622.50 the board reported.

FASHIONABLE PARISIANS SPONSOR HOMESPUN SUITS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 29.—Homespun is again called upon to spin the yarn of the new suits intended for late summer and early autumn wear. The sort of suit that is as good looking and appropriate in town as in the country is becoming increasingly popular and so is finding a place in every well-stocked wardrobe, as it soon proves itself a profitable investment. For real homespun is not cheap, but the original outlay is soon overlooked in favor of the service which a homespun suit gives. The suits shown in the mid-season collections are trigly cut, the majority of them with short jackets and an utter absence of any but essential detail, with the resultant effect of good taste and perfect lines. Skirts are of moderate length and comfortable fullness for walking, the fullness generally obtained by cleverly grouped pleats. Blouses are in most cases of crepe or heavy crepe de chine and monotone effects are to be noted. The fussy blouse has no right to go out with a trim homespun suit, for they are totally unfitted for one another, although we do not by any means advocate the strictly tailored skirt for this or any other type of suit except, perhaps a riding habit.

WE ARE ABLE to send you a sketch of one of the most successful suits in the Schiaparelli mid-season collection, and even a cursory glance at it will reveal all kinds of desirable features. The blouse is of light gray crepe de chine of very heavy quality, and although you cannot see it, is so long, that after tucking itself into the skirt, it extends down to the knees where it buttons rather in the manner of the envelope chemise of former days. This practical note has been evolved by Mme. Schiaparelli, after listening to prayerful pleas from her clients for a tuck-in blouse guaranteed not to ride above the belt. A fine black and white wool homespun makes the suit which has a short jacket with a brown leather belt placed at rather a high waistline and crossing the front only. The skirt has a yoke fastening with brown leather buttons, and, for the rest of it, is pleated in flaring sunburst pleats.

THE AFTERNOON FROCK, from Marie Bordes, is of pastel blue crepe de chine. The bodice is sleeveless, but there is a bolero with elbow length sleeves, which is detachable. The flat collar and the bib-like jabot, also the cuffs, are of white organdie. Empiecements in the skirt terminate in box-pleats at the front and sides.

FUNERAL RITES FOR DAVIDSON

Civic and educational leaders paid final homage to Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of Pittsburgh public schools, today at funeral services in the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Davidson died Sunday at his home, 6814 Thomas boulevard. He had been in ill health for the past year and his condition became serious a month ago.

The Rev. Dr. Frank J. Bryson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, North Side, officiated at the services at 2:30 o'clock. The Board of Education and members of the administration staff attended in a body.

More than 60 honorary pallbearers had been named while the active pallbearers, associate superintendents of the schools, were Benjamin G. Graham, J. Freeman Guy, W. F. Kennedy, Frank M. Leavitt, R. M. Sherrard and S. E. Weber.

Summer high schools closed at 10:30 a. m., the administration building at noon and all swimming pools and recreation centers during the hours of the funeral services.

Flags on all school buildings were to be at half-staff for 30 days.

Associate Supt. Graham has been named acting superintendent by the Board of Education.

TEXANS LINE UP FOR RUN-OFF

DALLAS, Tex., July 29.—(INS)—Political alignments in the Democratic party were in order throughout Texas today as preparations were made for the run-off primary Saturday, August 23, when either Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson or Ross Sterling, Houston publisher, will be chosen as the gubernatorial nominee.

In Saturday's primary Mrs. Ferguson, former Governor, and wife of a two-term Governor, piled up a lead of 55,441 votes over her closest competitor, Sterling.

Gov. Dan Moody was among those who asserted they would support Sterling. He had declined to run for a third term. Another Sterling supporter is Thomas B. Love, State Senator.

Two notable supporters of the Ferguson cause are Frank Putnam, of Houston, a Liberal candidate, and Dr. C. Walker.

Another Hoovercrat has gone down to defeat in the rather rapid process of proving the South is solidly Democratic, after all.

It was Love, assistant secretary of the treasury in the Wilson administration and something of a figure in the Democratic party for a generation until he bolted Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 campaign.

Woman Finds Lost Brother Perched In Tree

ASHLAND, Pa., July 29.—(AP)—Tree-sitting, here at least, has some merits.

Mrs. Catherine Berhle, of Reading, visiting here, went to see John Snyder, 18, sitting aloft, and found him to be her brother, from whom she had been separated for eight years.

The family was scattered when their mother lost her life in a fire. Catherine was adopted into a Reading family and John into an Ashland home.

SLEUTH SLAIN IN GUN BATTLE

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—Thomas E. Hill, a detective, was shot and killed in a battle between four gunmen and police in the Bronx.

The gunmen opened fire from their automobile when ordered to halt at Macombs Dam Bridge, where a police squad was watching for stolen automobiles. Four suspects were captured after a chase along the Harlem River viaduct.

STORES' SALES DECLINE HERE

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(AP.)—Sales in 12 Philadelphia department stores during June were 12 per cent below June, 1929, the Federal Reserve Board announced today, while seven Pittsburgh department stores reported their sales to be 10 per cent under June, 1929.

Department stores in both cities registered a 5 per cent drop in sales between January 1 and June 30, compared with the corresponding 1929 period. Throughout the country, June department store sales were 10 per cent smaller than a year ago.

The Cleveland reserve district, which embraces Pittsburgh, reported from 64 departments in 18 stores. The more pronounced drops in purchases were found to be in woolen dress goods. Sales of which were 31 per cent under June 1929; women's coats, off 27 per cent; misses' coats and Oriental rugs, down 23 per cent each; domestic floor coverings and cotton wash goods, off 22 per cent each, and draperies 21 per cent below June, 1929.

POLICE QUELL CHURCH FIGHT

LIVERPOOL, England, July 29.—(AP.)—A new outbreak in the sectarian quarrel between Protestants and Catholics here occurred last night after police had quelled fighting at the law courts during the day.

The police dispersed the crowd, arresting three persons.

The trouble at the courts arose over the arrest of several other persons in connection with fighting between rival adherents of the two faiths, after it had been rumored that Dr. Richard Downey, Roman Catholic archbishop of Liverpool, would visit a new presbytery near Netherfield road.

That Nice Husband of Yours
He's very clothes-conscious and not a bit color-blind

By DOROTHY DIX

A talk with women of PITTSBURGH

CLOTHES-CONSCIOUS? Of course he is—that nice John, Richard, Harry, you've taken for better or worse.

Don't you believe he doesn't notice the FROCK you have on. He may not be able to describe the exact style, but he knows whether YOU look well in it and he knows, too, what COLOR it is. He's not the least bit color-blind.

Men Love Color

Don't think you must wear the very latest thing the moment it comes out. There is all the ALLURE in the world in a simple little blouse or dress if its COLOR is becoming to you—and if it has lost none of its original freshness and charm. For it's COLOR that takes a man's eye!

Clever wives invariably follow two very simple rules—

FIRST: they are careful to select colors that are becoming.
SECOND: they keep the colors unfaded, undiminished in their alluring, vital charm.

"But how can we keep colors as alluring as new?" women ask me. "Washing so soon leaves them faded, lifeless."

It is true that just ordinary "good" soaps take some of the color out along with the dirt, but the famous Lux is especially made to keep colors appealing—fresh—vital. It cleanses without disturbing the most delicate flower-like tint, any more than plain water will.

In Your Home, Too

Not only your clothes—but your home, everything associated with YOU—should seem charming to your husband.

Perfect!

Disappointing!
(Right, above) Sample washed 12 times with ordinary "good" soap—undeniably faded. Not actually ruined, but the color has lost its original lovely appeal.

If it's Safe in Water,
It's just as Safe in LUX!

Ring's Significance

In Spain the gift of a ring by a man to a girl is looked upon as equivalent to a promise of marriage, and is a good foundation for an action for breach of promise.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Can a Normal Woman Be Uninterested in Babies?

Do you find yourself despising human nature? Thinking it's 99 per cent selfishness and cowardice? Wishing you could believe in people as you once did back before you got wise to em?

Then run a column like this. And if you don't puff up with pride at being part of a species that can produce letters like the one we're printing below, your batteries are certainly low, stranger.

A female by the name of Mildred started it. At least she said she was a female but the proof wasn't abundant. For Mildred announced with a lot of noise that she wasn't going to waste her time and talents on small-interest hobbies like children. What she wanted was something worth while like a career. And she was on her way to get it. Nor did we try to stop her. It didn't take much figuring to conclude that the babies were lucky who did not get Mildred for a mamma.

After which we had one of our spells of being Off the Whole Race. Then came:

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I read that strange letter from Mildred and I'm wondering if there are many women in the world like that. Children or a career? How can any woman hesitate?

"I made my choice long long ago. And even though in a way I lost out I would do it all over again, if I could.

"My little boy and girl would be 14 and 13 years old if they had lived. When I lost my first baby, I was such a child myself that I felt really as if a toy were being snatched from me. I loved it so terribly . . . my little doll. And I prayed so hard for another baby.

"My prayer was answered. My baby came. Mine to have and to hold but only for 10 days. Then she too went. And there have been no others. And how my heart has ached for them! God alone knows how I've cherished those 10 days when she was mine during all these past 13 years. Yes, it cost terribly in both physical pain and heartbreak—but I'd gladly go through it all again just to hold her in my arms 10 more days. The greatest thrill that life can give to a real honest-to-goodness woman is the feel of that tiny, helpless head on her breast.

"Career? I tried that, too. I needed something to fill the awful lonely hours. But I almost lost everything I had by doing it. I don't think a woman can make a home, a real home for a man and have a career, too. What does marriage hold for a man if it means just restaurant meals and a wife who is always too tired to notice him? My home had to go on the rocks though before I realized all that.

"But now, after two years, we're together again. Building a new life and a new companionship together. And even if we can't have our own babies, that doesn't stop love from going on. So we have taken a motherless boy of 11 and given him a home. And he has brought us much happiness. More than we ever dreamed possible. It is always so wonderful to feel that you are helping a child into life whether it is your own child or not.

Mrs. A. V. B.

CHANCE TO WIN WINGS

Does that seem a very common sort of a letter to you? It is common, thank God! And so long as commonness like that persists we humans have a chance of winning wings!

But what of Sybil? Sybil agrees with Mildred. Babies, she frankly admits, leave her cold. And she resents being considered queer because they do.

"I think it's perfectly possible," she cries, "for a normal healthy woman to be just not interested in babies."

What do you think about it? Is she right? Or is she "unnatural?" Here's her story:

"I was a lot interested in the letter from Mildred. And I'm glad to know that there's at least one other perfectly normal and healthy woman in the world who feels the same way I do. People have always tried to tell me that I was abnormal because I didn't care for children, but that isn't true. I'm just not interested in them.

"I like my work. It means a great deal to me. A sense of creation and accomplishment. Satisfaction. And I can't for the life of me see any reason why a woman, just because she is a woman, should be supposed to concentrate on children. I don't think you can just sort people into cubbyholes like that. Why not let them 'be themselves' and not brand them as queer or unhealthy because they happen to be different?

"I agree with Mildred. And I'm glad she spoke up for some of the rest of us who are like her.

"SYBIL."

And there you have the other side of the shield, partner, what do you think of it? Can a woman be a complete woman . . . a normal woman . . . and not thrill over holding her own child in her arms?

Let's hear what you think?

MISS HARD-BOILED

By JANE DIXON

She caught the finger, bent it cruelly backward. Her teeth, gleaming blue in the half-light, were bared at him. Her black eyes stung him.

"Don't be a baby," she said. Coolly, with the crackle of ice.

Mr. Barnes fell back limply in his chair. Beads of perspiration speckled his bald forehead. He rubbed the offended finger.

"Holy mak'rel," he muttered. "Little strangersh hard-boiled!" The sight of Raquel's bared teeth awakened an answering snarl in him.

"Look here, you gal," he went on loweringly, "you schtop 'at, see? I brought you here, did'n' I? I bought you wine, did'n' I? Who do you think I am, Sanna Claws?"

"Cut it, Benny!" she commanded. "Your work is crude."

Raquel gave Mr. Barnes the benefit of a cold shoulder. Two dancers had come upon the cleared floor. Spanish. Senorita. Caballero. Had they been caught up and carried here from a fiesta in some sequestered village of old Mexico? Raquel wondered.

The room went dark. Only the Spanish dancers remained in a pool of yellow light on the floor. A hand was sliding, cautiously, along Raquel's arm. Slowly upward . . . Benny's hand with the thick black fuzz on it. She must get away. Get out of this place. Benny didn't mean to stop. With his thick arms. Away—but how?

Tango. It was what the senorita and caballero were trying to dance. Raquel moved free of Benny's hand. That was better. Now she could watch the dance. Such a silly tango. The dancers were against the back of her chair.

"No, no," she said to them in Spanish. "You do not make it good, as it should be. Click the heel! Click!"

Raquel did not know, but she had played directly into the hands of the dancers. The Club Divine encouraged camaraderie on the part of its patrons. Spontaneity. It was a policy that paid well. Famous stage stars declaimed, when their spirits ran high for patrons of the Club Divine. A great prima donna, who sang for not less than four figures a performance, had even warbled an aria there on one memorable night.

The caballero motioned to the orchestra to stop. He turned to Raquel.

"You dance the tango, Senorita?" His set smile was wreathed in doubt. Glimpsing her more closely, it changed to one of radiant invitation. A challenge.

"Come!" he said.

She put her hat with the yellow rose on the table. She did not stop to ask herself why she accepted this stranger's challenge. She only knew that she was dipping and swirling, rippling her body, now fiercely, now languourously, to music that stole away her senses. She was gliding along a lake on a crimson and purple velvet barge with flowers and incense and white swimming faces that turned to drink in her grace, her beauty. Her black hair, loosened by the vigor of the dance, billowed about her like a sable scarf.

If only there were no Bennies in this heaven!—The music was far away now, sobbing to a close.

"This room—it chokes," she murmured to the caballero. "We shall finish there, by the door. I must breathe, Senor—"

The music ceased. It was followed by tumultuous applause. Palm against palm. High-pitched voices calling to her. The caballero's arm guiding her back and back.

Another step backward, and, slipping from her partner, she was through the door. In the hall of the candy box elevator.

"Down. Quick, down. You hear?"

Out in the street, sable scarf flying. People staring. Slower now. They would think she was loco, stop her. A man in a blue suit with brass buttons at the corner. He would tell her where she was.

"Will you show we, please, the way to the Hotel Brixton?" she asked, ignoring the stern question in his eyes. "I've lost my way." She was as casual as though she had stepped out of the street car then rounding the corner, and was, for the moment, a trifle confused by the diverging streets.

Five o'Clock Girl Parade of Laughter and Tears Interest Fay King

By FAY KING

From great office buildings, tiny shops and big department stores they pour forth—the girls who work.

Some wearily and reluctantly walk toward the lonely room they call "home" and tiresome tasks that evening brings, so they may look neat tomorrow.

Others fairly rush from the routine of office and counter. They snatch a bite at the drug store and hurry to the movie, where the romance of their dreams will be unfurled upon the screen.

Others go to meet their own real romances. Their Tom or Dick or Harry is waiting. Arm in arm they stroll away to dine and plan that happy future together.

Five o'clock parade!

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

A Heavily Insured Package Arrives at Farmhouse

Lillian's face in its absolute composure was a striking contrast to Katie's excited one, and there was hint of agitation in her voice as she answered my little maid's message.

"Thank you, Katie," she said. "Will you please tell Mr. Underwood that I will come down at once?"

"Yah! I tell heem," Katie answered, and sped back downstairs. But Lillian did not follow her immediately. Instead she shut the door and slumped into the nearest chair, patently much disturbed. Katherine's eyebrows lifted inquiringly at me across our friend's bent head, but I could only shake my own head helplessly, for I could not see why the announcement of a box addressed to Lillian should upset her. Frequently she received consignments of art materials and of books.

Unless—a sudden flash of memory quickened my pulse—could it be possible?—my eyes traveled away from Katherine's face to Lillian's, and at the same instant she raised her head and looked at me.

"Will you come downstairs with me?" she asked, "both of you," she amended the next instant. "I have an idea what this box is, and—Harry——"

"Look here, old dear!" Katherine put an affectionate hand on her shoulder. "You know you don't need to do the inclusive courtesy stunt to me. I don't know what this is all about and I don't want to guess. Besides I have some things I must attend to up here. Lastly, I don't know Harry as well as Madge does. So take her with you—and my blessing."

She laughed lightly, pulled Lillian to her feet and gave her a friendly little shove toward the door, nodding to me as she did so. I stepped to Lillian's side but she had turned toward Katherine.

"They may make 'em more thoughtful than you, Katrinka," she said, "but I don't know where. Come on Madge! I may as well face the orchestra now as later."

But when we were out of the room, she said no word of explanation, and of course I made no comment. But when we reached the side hall where Harry Underwood stood beside a big wooden box, I heard a catch of her breath, and knew that she had noted with me a certain hint of disquietude in the big man's manner.

To one who knew Harry Underwood, there was food for thought in the palpable restraint of his big booming voice.

"What do you want done with this?" he asked. "It's addressed to you, from the Catskills."

His eyes, their blackness intensified, their brilliance still undimmed, were fixed upon her face, so I had not noticed the involuntary start I had made when Katie had brought the message concerning the box. With an instinctive urge upon me to interpose some defense between Lillian and those brilliant, searching eyes, I gave a hasty little exclamation of delight, in as childish a manner as I could manage.

"Oh! Lillian!" I exclaimed. "I know what this is. I've been expecting its arrival every day. It's the ground pine Mrs. Cosgrove always sends me every year for my Christmas decorations. It's wonderful up there in the mountains near them, and she's always so dear about gathering it. How they ever manage to get such long strands, I don't know, they must take infinite pains —and—"

"Not quite good enough, old dear!" There was an edge in Harry Underwood's voice, although he was grinning broadly as he turned to me. "The box happens to be addressed to Lil."

"It is, half the time," I retorted quickly, hoping that my invention would hold out, although, indeed, there was truth enough in what I was saying to absolve me from anything but "white lies." "Mrs. Cosgrove is the most conscientious soul I know, and in her desire to be strictly impartial to her former boarders, she addresses the box to me one year and to Lillian the next year. Last year it came to me. This year it's Lillian's turn, but I warn you I shall claim most of the greens for the farmhouse. If you want a little for the apartment—"

"It would only wither in the heat there," Lillian struck in, and I saw that she had seized the opportunity to pull herself together. "But what say, old dear? Do you want it opened now, or is it better left this way until you are ready to decorate?"

I caught her cue and responded instantly, with a hint of housewifely irritation in my voice.

"Oh! I can't have the stuff cluttering up the house yet," I said. "I'll call Jim and have him take the box out to the barn where it will be cold enough for the greens until I want to use them. Time enough to unpack it then."

Harry Underwood looked steadily at me with something in his eyes which made me suddenly uneasy.

"Far be it from me to offer advice," he drawled, "but I think you would better look at this express receipt before you have the box taken to the barn. I signed it for Lil as a matter of form, and discovered later that this thing"—he gave a derisive kick toward the box—"is insured for two thousand dollars."

Household Hints

Jelly glasses having a smooth rim make fine drinking glasses for the children, thus saving the better ones.

A coat of wagon varnish will not only improve the appearance of the straw suitcase, but will make it as waterproof as the leather ones.

Poultry and meats should never be washed and then put in the refrigerator for a day or so before using. If you like to wash them, wait until just before cooking. If washed so long in advance there is danger of spoilage.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND,

Lovers—and Others

To be christened, vaccinated and married—that was the old-fashioned man's idea of all that "Life" should mean to a woman.

After 20 years of blissful single-blessedness, a man is apt to acquire rheumatism of the emotions, fatty degeneration of the heart, and paralysis of the conscience.

Perhaps a man can love more than one woman at a time. But love is like the tide: when it flows in one direction, it is sure to ebb from the other.

There must be something morbidly fascinating about marriage, when you reflect that most women marry against their better judgment and most men against their will.

* * *

In mother's day, a man's notion of the perfect woman was one with an eighteen-inch waist, a two-inch brain and a half-inch conscience. And, alas, men don't appear to have changed much!

* * *

Love may have its limitations; but there is no limit to the ennui that attacks the one who happens to get over it first.

Judging from the way in which our Reno-graduates rush

from the courtroom straight to the altar, apparently a burnt child just loves the fire!

There are only three things which the scientists and psychologists won't even TRY to explain, in this age of miracles—hay-fever, infantile paralysis, and a happy marriage.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Refusing an Invitation to a Dance

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When refusing to dance is it proper to say, "No, thank you?" I am not sure about the "thank you."

2. What can you say to get out of dancing with a man whom you dislike? C. S.

1. Yes, you should add the "thank you" to acknowledge the invitation.

2. This is one of the most difficult problems in the world of etiquette. As a matter of fact, a girl is supposed to accept a dance with a man unless he is intoxicated or otherwise objectional. The fact that she dislikes him (that is, if he is a gentleman) does not constitute a reason for her refusing to dance with him.

The important point is that, if a girl refuses to dance with a man, she must give some conventional reason — the old, moth-eaten excuse of being "too tired to dance" or "going to sit out this dance," or "I must see Mrs. Brown (the chaperon) to give her a message," or something used "from time immemorial." And then—having given some reason for refusing to dance—she must not dance that dance: she must go to sit with her chaperon or with the party of which she is a member, or she must go to the rest room and stay there during the dance. Naturally, she must do this, so that her excuse will look as legitimate as possible.

A Gentleman's Wedding Ring

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be married soon—this is my second marriage—and wish to have the double ring service. My fiance is giving me a platinum ring with diamonds and I would like to know what type of ring is proper for me to give him?

I. J.

Consult with him as to the kind of ring he prefers. But usually a man prefers a rather narrow gold ring.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, July 30

Under the conflicting aspects, both lunar and mutual, ruling the affairs of this day, the final issues must be determined by persistency, patience and acumen personally applied to the domination of hostile and obstructing situations. There will be felt a strong urge to this, with much initiative, with courage and stamina under fine planetary stimulus. All the forces and faculties must be brought to bear to overcome opposition, delay and resist abrupt change of unfavorable nature. With caution, conserved funds and sagacity, affairs may carry over. Employment is well fortified.

Those whose birthday it is may be called on to demonstrate all their courage, resolution, stamina and good judgment to overcome opposition, delays and adversity. But these qualities will be strong, with enterprise and resourceful under fine stimulus. There may be abrupt change, but employment is under encouraging sway. Be careful with all moneys.

A child born on this day should be energetic, resourceful and brave.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Assure Safe Food for Baby

A smiling, happy, well baby is a joy to see. It wrings the heart to see a sick, helpless little baby.

DR. COPELAND

It is in the summertime that little babies suffer most from colic. This is because hot weather is favorable for the growth of germs, and so the baby's milk must be closely watched.

Those minute plants, called germs or bacteria, are like all other plants, they thrive on warmth and moisture. Germs grow and multiply in enormous numbers in a bottle of milk unless the milk is clean and is kept in a cool place. You cannot be sure that bottled milk is safe unless it remains in a temperature below 50 degrees F., which is the usual temperature of a good refrigerator.

The breast-fed baby is a lucky baby, especially in the summertime. A mother's milk is pure milk, and it also has peculiar properties most advantageous to her child, more so than any cow's milk could possibly have.

Cow's milk, no matter how carefully it is handled and distributed, is sure to contain some of the souring germs, even though it is free from the more dangerous germs. If kept in a warm place, it takes only a few hours before the milk is teeming with bacteria capable of producing great discomfort, if not actual illness.

When contaminated milk is fed to a baby, colic is near at hand. Gas forms in the intestines and violent, twisting pains are sure to follow.

The first thing to do in an attack is to stop the baby's milk feedings. Give nothing but cooled, boiled water in frequent small doses. Warm water alone may quiet the symptoms, but if it does not, give a small dose of milk of magnesia, or a little bit of bicarbonate of soda in warm water in order to neutralize the acidity and stop the pain.

Every mother should know how to give an enema. It requires some skill and knowledge. Giving an enema will shorten the baby's illness.

In a severe attack it is wise not to return to the milk feedings for a day or two. Barley water may be given instead.

Barley water is made by adding a cupful of barley, purchased at the grocery, to a quart of water. Cook this in a double boiler for three hours, then strain through a sieve and thin with water. It should be prepared exactly as the formula for a bottle feeding of milk is prepared. Give it to the baby at the same times as you would the regular feedings of milk.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. M. H. Q.—What do you advise for falling hair? My hair is white and curly, but is coming out.

A.—I would suggest shampooing regularly with a good pure soap and warm water, and the use of a stimulating ointment.

A. R. Q.—What will eradicate wrinkles under the eyes?

2—How can I increase the height?

3—What should a girl of 15, 5 feet 1 inch tall, weigh?

A.—Gentle massage, using a good cold cream, may be helpful. This should be done systematically every night to be of any benefit.

2—You will continue to grow and develop generally until you reach the age of 21. After this age it is practically impossible to add to the height.

3—You should weight about 112 pounds.

Mrs. E. C. Q.—What would cause constant sneezing every morning upon awakening? I do not have a cold.

2.—How can I gain? I seem to be in good health, have plenty of rest, wholesome food, etc., but cannot put on weight.

A.—Have your nose examined—there may be some obstruction causing an irritation. Your doctor will advise you.

2.—You may be of a naturally slender, wiry type. However, improving the health in general should also tend to add to the weight.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

Is Louise a "clever concoction" to make my column more interesting? The question comes from Chicago.

NEVER! I never use names or letters that are not actually received and I do not change the wording of them. If you saw the stacks of as yet unanswered mail piled on my desk, you would know that I don't have to resort to trickery. I couldn't possibly be as interesting as my correspondents. Sorry I can't print all the letters.

From a Marine hospital in Maine, I get a letter questioning my stand as to father being the family dishwasher. A 12-year-old youngster wrote and asked me what a wife was for, if daddy had to work at the office all day and then come home and get supper and wash the dishes. I thought daddy had done enough to be helped with the supper, at least. And I'll tell you why I thought so. Children are very observing, and pretty fair. If that boy thought his father was being imposed upon, I'll bet he was. You can bet the boy should roll up his sleeves and wash the dishes. The mother was probably protecting the boy against any such unpleasant duties. Sometimes that "happens" to the boy's delight and disadvantage.

Knoxville, Tenn. "Many so-called old maids have more mother love than th sands of modern mothers harbor in their small, hard hearts." You are right, they have, Miss Teacher, and I think the spanking you do, in your school, won't hurt the children. They are, more than likely, little love pats. You sound like a grand person.

Look here, R. O., Michigan, don't talk to me about love when you are out scouting for a widow who has saved her money. What has that to do with companionship or love? What you want is a business deal. Why don't you say so? I hope you don't find a bit of luck.

Louise, Pennsylvania: He doesn't love you. If he does he has found someone he thinks he likes better, and perhaps he may come back and tell you about it. Take. But don't chase him around. Let him alone. You're right, it's bad to let them be too sure of you. I'd go gadding around with someone else if I were you, and don't, whatever you do, ask him why he didn't write. There's only one reason. He didn't want to. Ignore him.

MILWAUKEE RUMOR NOT GROUNDLESS

NO DOUBT A series of denials will follow the report that the St. Louis Browns may be transferred to Milwaukee and the latter city made a part of the American League circuit next year, but it will not be surprising if the rumor eventually proves to have been well-founded. It is clear that St. Louis will not support two major league clubs, and that one of them will have to be shifted sooner or later.

Florence Killilea

A plan to move the Cardinals to Detroit was favored by the National League but is understood to have been blocked by the Tiger owners, and another suggestion that the Cards or Browns be transferred to Montreal was rejected on the ground that Montreal is too far away. The Milwaukee story sounds plausible, however, for though the Milwaukee franchise in the American Association is supposed to be controlled by Miss Florence Killilea, baseball's only woman magnate, the real owner is known to be Phil Ball, who also owns the Browns, so that there are no obstacles in the way of the proposed change. Ball is in a position to make the transfer, and there is no doubt that the other magnates in the two big leagues would readily give their consent.

IT IS KNOWN that the Brown-Milwaukee proposition has been under consideration. Ball, who was in Pittsburgh on two occasions recently in connection with a contract for the building of a refrigerating plant for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, is said to have admtted as much to friends, and today President Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pirates, said that news of the plan had reached him some time ago, though not fron. any official source.

The only part of the yarn that sounds improbable is that the Milwaukee team may be moved to Chicago. Baseball men contend that a minor league club will not pay in a big league city. However, it will be an easy matter to find another city to round out the American Association. As for the major league side of it, there is no doubt that the big show would fare better with one team in Milwauker and one in St. Louis, than with two in the latter city, a condition that prevents either club from making any money. Milwaukee has been a member of both of the present big leagues. That city was in the National League in 1878, and in thhe American in 1900 and 1901.

ONCE AGAIN A Western trip has proved disastrous to the pennant prospects of the Washington club in the American League, bearing out earlier indications that Walter Johnson's men are not strong enough on the road to be real flag contenders.

Walter Johnson

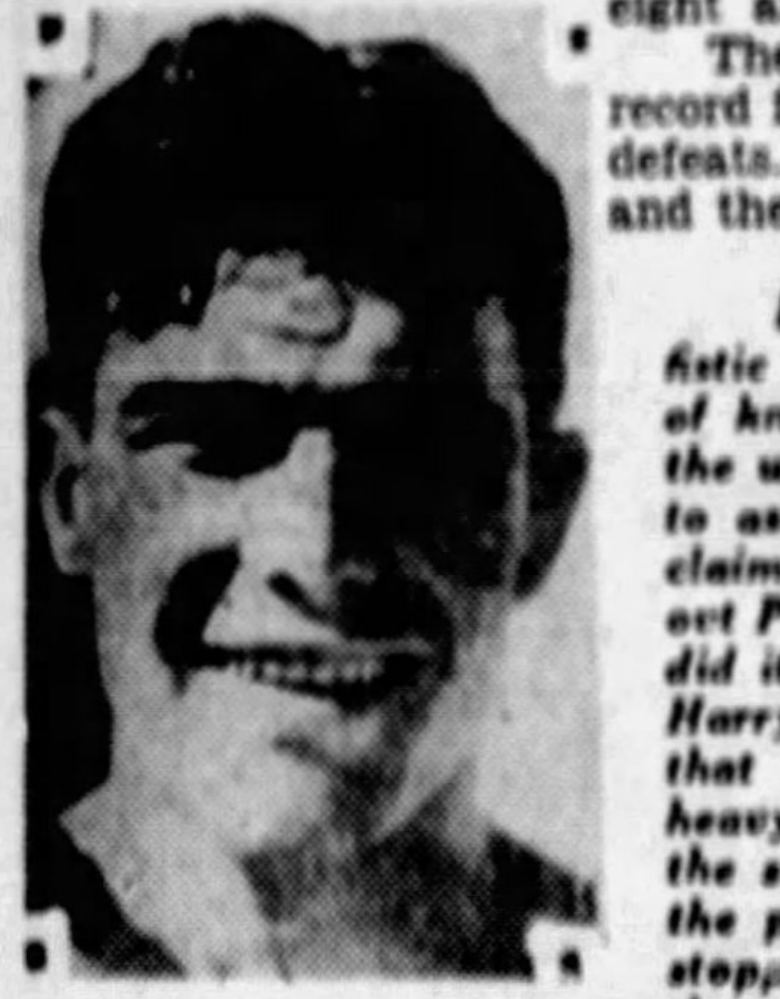
On their first invasion of the West, the Senators won only five games while losing seven. On the trip just ended they fared even worse, winning only seven and losing 12. That makes their record for the two tours, 12 victories and 19 defeats.

LITTLE EVIDENCE OF championship stuff there. A club that cannot even hold its own away from home does not figure to be a very serious pennant threat, and even if the Senators take another big brace during their coming home stay the fact that they have another Western trip to make will serve to keep them from looking very dangerous. While Washington was slumping on the recent trip, the Athletics piled up a comfortable lead by winning 12 games against only four defeats. It won't be easy for any rival to overtake the Mackmen between now and the finish.

THE EASTERN TEAMS were worsted, 38 games to 34, in the American League's intersectional series. Aside from the A's, only the Yankees among the traveling teams won more games than they lost. The New Yorkers finished with 10 victories and nine defeats. The Red Sox won five and lost 13.

The Tigers made the best showing among the Western clubs in point of percentage, winning 10 games and losing seven. The Indians won one game more than the Jungaleers, but also lost one more, their record being 11 wins and eight reverses. The White Sox won nine and lost 10, and the Browns won eight and lost nine.

THOUGH PLAYING ON the road, the West also won the National League's intersectional series, 39 games to 30. The Cubs led with 11 victories and only six defeats, the Tigers won 11 and lost seven, the Pirates won nine and lost eight, and the Cardinals won eight and lost nine.



Young Stribling

The Robins and Giants made the same record for the East, nine victories and eight defeats. The Braves won eight and lost 11, and the Phillies won four and lost 12.

POSSIBLY ONE OR two harder fistic jobs might be imagined than that of knocking out Phil Scott, even though the work has got to be hurried in order to assure its completion before he can claim a foul. Knute Hansen knoched out Phainting Phil in one round, Pauline did it in six, Albert Lloyd in three, and Harry Drake in five. So it will be seen that a kayo victory over the British heavyweight does not necessarily stamp the successful fighter a champion. Yet the performance of Young Stribling in stopping Scott in the second round at the Wimbledon Stadium yesterday causes the Georgian to loom large again in the heavyweight championship picture.

WEIGHED ALONE, STRIBLING'S victory over Scott might not count for a great deal, but in view of the fact that in his preceding bout in Chicago, Stribling knocked out Otto Von Porat in the first round, the outcome of yesterday's affair puts the Macon product back in the front rank of the heavyweight class, if there are any front ranks in that unsatisfactory division.

As measured by present-day heavyweight standards, which admittedly are not very high, Stribling has done an impressive bit of work in disposing of Von Porat and Scott in less than three rounds. A punch and the right fighting spirit were all that he ever appeared to lack, and he has shown both in these latest exhibitions.

THOUGH HE TOOK the final count on one knee, there is no question that Scott was very thoroughly and decisively laced, and the aggressiveness and punching power that Stribling displayed in knocking him down five times attest an improvement in the Georgan that makes the latter look like a real title candidate.

Stribling has done a lot of faking in his time, has committed many Queensberry sins, and has fallen down in a manner of opportunities to prove hmself worthy of championship consideration. But to give him his due, he shapes up right now as being unmistakably headed for the title. It is easy to see a Stribling-Sharkey match in the making, with Max Schmelng being forced to meet the winner.

WHAT WILL PROBABLY be Primo Carnera's final American ring appearance prior to his return to Italy at the order of the immigration authorities, following a military call from his own country, is scheduled for Cleveland tonight, when the man mountain will meet another pushover in the person of George Cook. Unless some funny business is attempted from a new angle to take

K. O. OF SCOTT BRINGS BACK PRESTIGE

LONDON, July 29.—(AP.)—Whatever hopes England had for a world heavyweight champion were blasted last night by the sledging fists of William L. (Young) Stribling, pride of Georgia. The Macon youngster knocked out Phil Scott, gangling British titleholder, in two rounds and did it so thoroughly that as far as England is concerned the career of their champion is closed.

A record crowd of 35,000 saw Stribling belt Falling Phil to the floor four times in the first round and polish him off in the second with a smashing left hook to the ribs. Stribling completely outclassed the Briton in the engagement that was billed for the "championship of the old world." And as a crowning anti-climax to England's pugilistic hopes, stout old Joe Beckett clambered through the ropes after the knockout and challenged the winner to battle with a bet of 500 pounds sterling on the side.

STRIB IN LIMELIGHT

Stribling's victory, coming on the heels of his sensational one-round knockout of Otto Von Porat in Chicago several weeks ago, shot the young Georgian back into the limelight he shared with the outstanding heavyweights when he fought and lost to Jack Sharkey at Miami Beach two years ago. The Macon mauler now is in position to demand a return duel with Sharkey, who won from Scott on a technical knockout, but under questionable circumstances that involved a cry of foul at Miami last winter.

Max Schmeling, who won the heavyweight championship on a foul from Sharkey in New York, was invited to attend the match and receive the challenge of the winner, but he was not at the ringside. The Stribling forces are expected to challenge Schmeling to a title match immediately.

SCOTT COUNTED OUT

Scott at least had the satisfaction of not being counted out on his back. The American's final smash, tearing through Philip's loose defense, caught him full in the ribs with terrific force and sent the Englishman twisting to the canvass. He quickly raised himself to a position on one knee but there was an agonized expression on his face as he took the ful count of 10.

At nine Scott made a supreme effort, as if to rise, and Stribling, who had fought with tigerisn ferocity, had a righthand punch ready for him. Scott waved his arms in a frantic, hopeless gesture of defense and slipped back on his haunches. He never did get to his feet.

There was no cry of foul to mar the knockout. Stribling left the ring unscarred and cheers greeted his struggle in the passage up the jammed aisle to the dressing room while boos almost as loud followed Scott, who had failed Britain and himself in his last chance for glory. But last night's affair, Scott's ring career may be considered closed in this country, while Stribling is regarded as the logical opponent for a world title battle with Max Schmeling.

VICTOR TOO STRONG

The Macon Mauler wasted no time with Scott in the opening round. They had hardly come together before the Georgian ripped

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THERE ARE MORE THAN 396,000,000 WAYS TO SPELL "CIRCUMFERENCE"—The English language has a much larger number of sounds than there are signs to express it. There are 17 ways to spell the sound S; 10 ways to spell the sound K; 21 ways to spell the sound IR; 30 ways to spell the sound U; 8 ways to spell the sound M; 5 ways to spell the sound F; 33 ways to spell the sound E.

These are the distinctive sounds in the word "circumference." On this basis, and, considering the repetitions, it is a question of simple mathematics to arrive at the enormous total of ways to spell the word phonetically. Figuring at the rate of one spelling of the word each minute, it would take 753 years to spell it in all possible ways. (Reference: Dr. Ernest Horn, of the University of Iowa, who presented these figures at a conference of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Most of the justifiable ways of spelling the sounds may be found in Alexander Ellis' "Plea For Spelling Reform.") JAMES HINSON MADE 16 CONSECUTIVE HITS—In 1923, Hinson was a member of the Monroe (N. C.) semi-professional baseball club. He was not used as a regular player because he worked as a telegraph operator, and could not take full time off to remain on the ball field. During the 1923 season he was used as a pinch-hitter and secured 16 clean hits in 16 consecutive times at bat.

A. L. FRANCHISE SHIFT DENIED

CHICAGO, July 29.—E. S. Barnard, president of the American League, declared that the story printed yesterday in the Detroit Times, which stated that St. Louis was to lose its American League franchise to Milwaukee, was news to him and that such a thing had never been mentioned either formally or informally in sessions of the league.

The gist of the copyrighted story appearing in the Times, follows:

It will be the first break in the ranks of the major leagues since the signing of the National agreement, 27 years ago, and will occur before next year's pennant races get under way.

Milwaukee, recognized as the "best paying" city in the Association, would be certain to patronize big league baseball better than the fans do in St. Louis, where they were fed up on their two teams, and particularly the Browns. Incidentally, the Milwaukee clubs is reputed to be owned by the Browns, and this may be merely a solution of the owner's financial problems.

It is said in the Times story that the Milwaukee club likely will be shifted to Chicago's West Side to make room for the Browns.

Reports that the St. Louis club was to be shifted to Milwaukee because it was losing money here were denied by L. Caril McEvoy, vice president of the Browns.

Game starts at 3:30.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Back from their second Eastern jaunt, the Pirates will sport themselves in their beloved Oakland Orchard on three succeeding afternoons. The Ensmen will take on the Cardinals today in the first contest of a three-game series. Thursday called for an open date when the playing chart was drawn up, but it has been utilized as a result of an early postponement.

The Cardinals, like the Freebooters, wound up their Eastern trip with a double success. Gabby Street and his travelers took the measure of the Braves in Boston before heading for Pittsburgh.

STILL IN FIGHT

The Redbirds still believe they are very much in the flag fight. They probably will admit they are not so hot on foreign fields, but they soon will stage a long series of games in the home park and there they always are glad to take on all comers. The Streetmen really are tough hombres to challenge in St. Louis.

The invaders this morning were only one full game better than the .500 mark, but on the other hand they were only nine games below the pace-setting Robins. And Uncle Robbie must take his team over the mountains again. Perhaps they will not fly so high when they come into the West for their final excursion. In any event the trip will provide a very severe test for them.

Our boys, meantime, are three games beneath the Redbirds. Needless to say the Buccos will show a lot of fight in this series. The fact that they are only three games removed from a money position is an incentive in itself. Each of the spots in the first division shares in the world series pie, and the fourth place coin is a prize which any player is glad to achieve. It's been many, many years since the Buccos have been out of the money and they don't wish to see the spell broken.

KREMER TO PITCH

Boss Ens stated this morning that Remy Kremer probably would work the opener against the Redbirds. Larry French also is ready, but the veteran righthander is slated to work ahead of the young lefthander.

Kremer experienced a terrible run of luck while the Pirates invaded the seacoast. Three times the star went to the mound only to see Lady Luck give him the sour sign. A thrown ball striking Fred Maguire on the head lost Frenchy a battle in Boston; he saw one go by the boards in Philly on a handle hit against the short fence, and in

SAINTS FACE FINTEX NINE

By TOM BIRKS.

Two outstanding games feature the sandlot card this evening and both of them have considerable bearing on the Central League chase. Fintex, present leader of the loop, will have St. John's nine visiting it at Warrington Park, and seeing that this is the first time that the Lawrenceville outfit has been on the Hill for many years, a banner crowd should be on hand. Fintex is drawing the largest crowds in the city.

The other game in the league will find the Lincoln Civics meeting Allegheny Collegians at Dean Field. The Civics are also going at a sensational clip and expect to win the second half race. Tom Carson wants his Collegians to cop this second half to prevent a playoff, and then get into the post season series with the winner in the West Penn League.

B. & O.-DRAVO CLASH

One game will be played in the Commercial and Industrial League. B. & O., playing at Burgwin Park, will have the Dravo Contracting nine for its opposition. The Railroaders are going at a great clip.

DeMor swings into action this evening in the Steel City League. The first half champions will entertain Dom Mazzie. In the Eastern section of the loop, the Hale Club, which upset the dope by beating the East Liberty Crimsons, will meet the Doelfels at Magee Field. The Turtle Creek boys are playing a snappy brand of baseball and will give the Hazelwood aggregation a battle.

In the City League, Dormont visits Homewood. This game should pack in the fans. The South Hills club has beaten the East Enders twice, so Heinie Boll and his mates will be out to even

ROBIN HURLER GETS SECOND SHUTOUT

Associated Press.

Back up to the majors for his second trial, Hollis Thurston, age 31, has strengthened the National League pennant hopes of Manager Wilbert Robinson and his Brooklyn Robins.

With Dazzy Vance pitching only mediocre ball and the Robins badly in need of a good right-hander, Thurston apparently has relieved Uncle Robby of one less worry as the Robins continue to show the way in the hectic senior circuit race. After waiting until June 29 to start his first game the former White Sox hurler has suddenly rounded into sensational form.

Thurston lost that first game to the Cubs but Manager Robinson, master of pitchers, had faith in his big right-hander who went back to the Pacific Coast after spending the years from 1923 to 1926 with the White Sox and Washington. July 22 Hollis started against the Cards and held them to three hits and no runs.

BLANKS BRAVES

Yesterday he pitched his third game of the season against the Braves and turned in an even more brilliant exhibition, yielding only two hits and no runs. Just 29 men faced the Brooklyn hurler, Maranville, who walked, being thrown out in a double play. Needless to say the Robins won and the score was 2 to 0.

Just as impressive but in another style was the performance of Bill Terry in the Giants 5-to-4 victory over the Phillies. The big first baseman's activities included two home runs, a pair of singles and a sacrifice fly which drove in the winning run in the ninth. His hitting gave Jim Chaplin, an Eastern League product, the edge in a pitching duel with Earl Collard. The defeat was the Phillies' eighth straight while the game marked Terry's fifteenth contest in which he has hit safely, collecting 26 hits in 60 times at bat.

Although the Robins won, the Cubs gained a half game on their rivals by taking a double-header from the Cincinnati Reds. The score of the first game was 3 to 2 and the nightcap 5 to 3. The twin victories broke the Reds' jinx, which has done much to keep the Cubs out of the league leadership. Charlie Root outpitched Bennie Frey in the opener while Guy Bush was the hurling star of the closing game.

A'S DOWN YANKEES

The Athletics and Yankees renewed their American League argument at Philadelphia with the champions taking a 6-to-5 decision after 12 innings. To Gordon Cochrane goes the credit for driving in the winning run with a single, but it was Jimmie Fox with his twenty-ninth home run in the ninth that made it possible for Cochrane to have his chance.

Ted Lyons defeated a temperature of 107 degrees and the Browns to give the White Sox a 6 to 5 victory. The Sox were a run behind going into the ninth but Cissell, Tate and Lyons put together a single and two doubles to win the game.

Cleveland also came from behind in the ninth to defeat Detroit, 7 to 6. Elon Hogsett, Tiger hurler, broke the deadlock in the first half of the inning with a home run, but the Indians came back with two runs, Porter sending J. Sewell and Jablonowski across the plate with the needed runs with a double.

his buckshot right into Scott's head and followed with a volley of left hooks to the face. Striking almost entirely to a short smashing left hook, Stribling bounced the tall, puzzled Englishman to the floor for counts of five, seven and nine.

Each time it was harder for Phil to get to his feet. A righthand poke to the head laid Scott low for the fourth time, but the bell ending the first round stopped the count. The second round was only a minute old when Stribling's searing left hand brought the one-sided struggle to a decisive close.

SCOTT LANDS FIRST

Stribling after the bout said this was the first time in 290 fights that he had been hit first and still won. Scott's first cuff, a left hand to the face, scraped Stribling's nose and drew a fleck of blood.

The real feature of the evening's entertainment was not the fight itself, but the several impromptu scraps among the spectators before the main bout.

Robin, Giant Series Seats Go on Sale

Reserved seat tickets for the next three series to be played by the Pirates at Forbes Field have been placed on sale by the Pittsburgh Baseball Club at all of the regular agencies — Spalding's, Wagner's, and 6121 Penn avenue.

Seats may be obtained now not only for the games with the Cardinals today, tomorrow and Thursday, but for the contests with the Robins on August 6 and 7 and also those with the Giants on August 8, 9 and 11.

Local Women Tied In Erie Tourney

ERIE, Pa., July 29.—Miss Betty Abernathy, of the Oakmont Country Club, and Mrs. C. I. Wendt, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, tied for the lead in the invitation tournament of the Kahkwa Club at the end of 18 holes yesterday, each scoring an 87. The final 18 holes will be played today.

Two more Pittsburghers, Miss Anjeanette Hunter, of Oakmont, and Miss Mary Kuhn, of the Field Club, were in a tie with Mrs. T. R. Palmer, of Kahkwa, for third place with 91s.

Other Pittsburghers who qualified in the first flight included Mrs. D. A. Garber, Stanton Heights, 92; Miss Emily Roseburgh, Oakmont, 92; Miss A. Gundelfinger, Stanton Heights, 98, and Mrs. Duff, Oakmont, 94.

SCORES HOLE IN ONE

Edward H. Weiner, 4901 Center avenue, yesterday scored a hole in one on the No. 8 hole, measuring 207 yards. He was playing with Howard Daniels, of Rochester, N. Y.

W. L. Followed Mother's Advice To Win

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 29.—(AP.)—Young Stribling took his mother's advice last night when he knocked out Phil Scott.

"Hit him like you did Von Porat and hurry home," Mrs. Stribling cabled him Saturday.

"Ma" Stribling was in Thomasville yesterday and listened to the Associated Press reports of the fight.

Young Stribling and his father-manager will leave England at once, she said, and will return to Georgia as soon as they can get away from New York.

STOGIES GET SINGLE HIT

Fairmont's Black Diamonds hopped into the lead in the second half race in the Mid-Atlantic League race yesterday, defeating Wheeling by a 2-to-1 score. Morrison limited the Stogies to a single safe hit.

Scottdale, which gained the league lead on Sunday, lost yesterday to Cumberland, the Colts slugging out a 12-to-7 win.

At Clarksburg, Wallace held Charleroi to three safe hits, the Generals winning, 8 to 0. Gallupe made two of the Guvs three hits.

Johnstown overcame an early Jeannette lead to defeat the Jays at Johnstown by a count of 11 to 8. The Jays tallied six runs in the second inning and Johnstown scores half a dozen in the sixth.

Fight Results

At London—W. L. (Young) Stribling knocked out Phil Scott, 2 rounds.

At Johnstown—Gene Baldoni and Eddie Brannon drew, 10 rounds; Johnny [illegible] defeated Babe Ames, 6 rounds; Walter Strangel won on a technical knockout over Freddie Huff, 3 rounds; Chezy Rhodes defeated Rudy Myers, 6 rounds.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, July 29.—My impressions of baseball in the Middle West: When a club plays the Browns at St. Louis Park, it is like going before a secret session of the grand jury. The umpire is the judge and the ushers are the jury. After testing the beer in Cleveland, I wish Montreal and Toronto were in the American League. The heat in Chicago is so terrific half the customers are coming to the ball park without their bullet-proof vests. This week the Ciney Reds will play night baseball under a cluster of lights. They will have us ball players wearing grease paint next.

STATE EVENT AT OAKMONT TOMORROW

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

One of the largest fields in the history of one-day amateur golf in Western Pennsylvania among senior linksmen will be held tomorrow at the Oakmont Country Club when more than 300 play in the 36-hole event of the Pennsylvania Golf Association.

Entries are still being received and will continue to be received until time for play; it is not unlikely that the field will grow so large that a second day will be necessary to run it off. All those entering the event will play from their state handicap, and those who do not have these cards will play from scratch. The fact that the entry fee is only $1 over the championship Oakmont layout 's the main reason for the large list, and therein lies a story of many dubs as well as many stars in action, including the best in this end of the commonwealth.

MEDAL PLAY IN A. M.

Tomorrow morning 18 holes medal play will be staged, beginning quite early, and in the afternoon a four-ball match play against par, handicaps to be applied individually, is scheduled.

Yesterday the professional stars of the district gathered at the Fox Chapel Golf Club to qualify three players for the National Professional Golfers' Association championship, at Fresh Meadow, at Rosslyn, L. I., next September, and a trio of the strongest players in the tri-state district made the grade—Perry Del Vecchio, pro-greenkeeper at the Greensburg Country Club, former West Penn titlist, who was medalist with 73-72—145; Fred Baroni, of Stanton Heights, 72-76—148, for two consecutive years West Penn open king, and Pete O'Hara, of Westmoreland, who tied for eleventh place in the National open championship several weeks ago. O'Hara returned a score of 74-74—148. Dave McKay, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, also made the grade among the select three, but withdrew because he was unable to make the trip.

SETS NEW RECORD

In his morning round he scored a brilliant 69—three under the par figures—to establish a new competitive course record. Young Georgie Flinn, of Fox Chapel, also scored an amateur mark of 69 on the same layout, but it was reported to have been made non-competitively. McKay scored a 77 in his afternoon round for a 146 total.

Fred Baroni, one of the qualifiers, will pair up with Ted Luther, of the Corry Country Club, in an exhibition match opposite to the renowned Walter Hagen and Tommy Armour at the Oakland Beach course in Conneaut Lake Sunday. It will be an 18-hole affair. The match is scheduled to get under way at 3 o'clock, standard time, or 4 o'clock Pittsburgh time, which will give local golfers a chance to get to the scene of action if they care to see the stars in play.

WALSH, COOPER QUALIFY

CHICAGO, July 29.—(INS.)—Frank Walsh, Laurie Ayton, Harry Cooper, Al Espinosa and Alex Ayton were named today to represent Chicago in the national professional golf tournament to be held at Fresh Meadows, L. I., in September.

In the qualifying round yesterday Walsh led the field with a 72-70—142, four strokes under par on the difficult Westmoor Club course.

TWO WAYS TO PLAY A DISTANT WATER HOLE

How should a hole with a water hazard be played?

JOCK HUTCHISON.

Play a water hazard according to its situation. The proper and only way, of course, to play any water hazard is by the air route. But here is an example: If it is off the tee and too far to carry for your length of drive, either play short and get over on your next shot or play to the side, where you can gain ground by getting past part of it. Naturally, this would apply to the same situation through the fairway.

—Joseph Mathews, Missions Hills Club, Kansas City, won the right to represent the Midwest P. G. A. at the National P. G. A. tournament at Flushing, N. Y., in September. He qualified with a score of 152.

SCHNEIDER LEADER

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—(INS.)—Charley Schneider, young Penn Country Club pro, romped away with the lead in the first day of play over the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course for a qualifying place in the National P. G. A. championship tourney. He got 144 for the 36 holes.

BOWEN SETS NEW RECORD

HELSINGFORS, July 29.—(AP.)—Pete Bowen, sprint star of the American track and field team competing here, won the 200-meter dash yesterday in 21.6 seconds, setting a new Finnish record. Bowen won the 100 and 400-meter events Sunday.

In the 200 meter Akilles Jarvinen, Finland, was second with three other Finns, Astrom, Koponen and Mattila, bringing up the rear.

The Southwestern Pennsylvania American Legion Junior baseball championship will be at stake when the Pravy Club, McKees Rocks (above), meets Lafayette Post No. 51, of Uniontown, at Forbes Field this evening, immediately following the Pirates-Cardinals game. Lafayette Post won the state title last year, and Talley, its slab ace, has pitched two no-hit games this season. All Legion Junior teams in the district are to be the guests of the Pirates at the Bucs' and Legion games.

Nerve Exhaustion Undermines Health

I aim to restore the health and vigor to weak, sick, unbalanced nerves. To regenerate lost nerve energy, to build up strong, sound nerves, requires an understanding of the action and abuses of nerves. It needs a knowledge of the natural laws of nerve fatigue, of mental and physical relaxation, and nerve metabolism. And it is only through application of these laws that stubborn cases of Nerve Exhaustion can be overcome. These signs of nerve exhaustion are produced as a result of worry, intense concentration, loss of sleep and other causes. The mad pace at which we are traveling is wrecking the entire Nervous Organization of people.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Patsy Pirrone, crafty, swift-moving and fast-countering light-heavyweight, of Canton, O., last night stole the show at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, as he put on a flashy punching exhibition to knock out Harry Williams, clever Negro, of the North Side, in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-round semi-final bout, put on after the main event.

It was their fourth meeting, Williams having stopped Pirrone in their first bout, at McKeesport, received an undeserved decision over him at Motor Square Garden later and then dropped a decision to the young Italian in the same ring in which they fought last night.

ONE-SIDED BOUT

There was nothing to last night's bout but Pirrone. He forced the issue from the start and nailed and staggered Williams repeatedly with his right counters after drawing in his opponent by feinting and going away. He dropped Williams for a count of one in the second round with a rushing and punching splurge that made it look like curtains for the local man, forced him to drop from exhaustion and then floored him and knocked the mouthguard from his teeth with another series of rights in the fifth and dropped him two more times early in the sixth before he finally sent him sprawling headlong through the ropes in front of the knockdown timekeeper.

At the count of eight Williams pulled himself up wearily and tripped and fell again as he tried to re-enter the ring over the lower rope. The toll continued, and he was counted out, completing a sensational battle, the best on the bill.

MALCO LACES RUDY

The 10-round windup was a slaughter for Young Rudy, Charleroi lightweight veteran, who absorbed a one-sided beating round after round from rugged Tom Malco, of Soho, who thus evened up for a bad decision awarded Rudy over him at Motor Square Garden last season. Only Rudy's experience and heart kept him on his feet until the finish.

Allen Beatty, Negro, of McKeesport, 144½, fighting one of his best bouts, defeated Floyd Hybert, of Erie, 147½, in the eight-round semi-final; Nick Polis, of Aliquippa, 158¾, drubbed Jimmy (Snowflakes) Wright, Negro, of Cleveland, 159, in the second six-rounder, and Steve Senich, of Homestead, 129½, won over Sammy Paris, of the Hill, 126½, in the opener.

The crowd was small. Al Grayber and Jack Henderson alternated as referees and judges, with Freddie Lux sitting in as a judge on all of the bouts. Tommy Grant and A. C. Couch were the timers, Ray Eberle was the announcer and Dr. J. W. McMeans acted as the commission physician.

Between Rounds

A change has been made in the card at Rickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night whereby Joey Angelo, of Braddock, takes the place of Frankie Lane, of Sharpsburg, against Tom Frazier, of the Hill, in the opening bout. Battling Gizzy and Ray Collins are in the main event. Young Saylor and Billy Brent in another 10-rounder and U. S. Carpentier and Billy Scholes in the second six-rounder.

Things are so tough in a boxing way in Detroit now that the promoters are featuring local talent shows at 55 cents and $1.

The reopening show at Motor Square Garden has been definitely set for Monday, October 6.

Seven bouts are on the card for the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C.'s bi-monthly amateur boxing show on its North Side grounds tonight.

Bobby Bunrach's boxers, including Buck McTiernan and George Panka, will do their training for future bouts at Burke Glen, on the Lincoln highway, as soon as quarters can be put up for them there.

Sport Vignettes

Big Bill Tilden
Has a big-built frame,
And that's how big-built
Tilden got his name.
His serve is a cannon-ball
Warranted to slay
Anything it meets except Borotra's ricochet.

Big Bill Tilden
Acts as well as plays,
And they bill Big Tilden
Sometimes in cabarets.
Although I've never seen him act
Or heard his stage applause,
I'll wager that he draws as well
As Mrs. Moody draws.

This is a bit of rhyming by Aitcheff, an English writer, and is reprinted here as an example of the effect of the Wimbledon tennis tournament on the English mind . . . . Well, let it pass; we're sorry we brought up the subject . . . . Our Pirates are back home to play out the schedule, if nothing else . . . . Luke Carney blames the present hard times in boxing on Carnera, Scott and Schmeling, and he's not far wrong, if at all . . . . Jim Long is back home in his usual spot in the sports section today after that big vacation . . . . The American League, which formerly frowned on the National League's, and especially John McGraw's, penchant for trading players on a wholesale basis, has been putting the older senior major loop to shame this season . . . . And still the Boston Red Sox are in last place and holding our own Bill Regan down there with them . . . . Bet it's nice and cool in the cellar berths, at that, which must be some consolation . . . . The fellows up at the top are having plenty of hot times, especially those Robins and Cubs . . . . Can you imagine anything more grotesque than a Robin fighting a Cub? . . . . Cleveland's new big municipal stadium will be ready for occupancy by the Indians as their home grounds by the middle of next season . . . . It will seat a baseball crowd of 77,000, and something will have to be done to assure the world series of next year being staged there . . . . Otherwise what would be the sense of putting up the big plant? . . . . Do you think the fight fans are tough on the fakers and foulers these days? Ha, you ain't seen nothin' yet . . . . Read on about what happened in the case of the obscure Jo Riley-Go Bean fight at Cheyenne, Dakota territory, back in 1869, as told in a letter written by one U. W. Hutchinson to his friend, John Charles Fairchild, and preserved by H. W. Snyder, of Ann Arbor, Mich., an extract of which follows: . . . . "We had a great prize fight here last Monday night between Go Bean, of Buffalo, and Jo Riley, of Montana. Our Buffalo boy win the fight by a foul. It caused the greatest excitement I ever saw . . . . When the referee gave the decision, he was knocked down and 20 or more revolvers were pointed at him . . . . Hundreds were drawn, but none was used on the ground, but, when they got back to town, they commenced for keeps . . . . There has been six shot already—two dead and one that can't live, but is alive yet, and three wounded pretty bad, but not dangerous . . . . They wanted me to referee, but I declined, not having the price of funeral expenses." . . . . Shucks, and we thought the Schmeling-Sharkey fuss was tough, not to mention that fragrant Godfrey-Carnera thing . . . . Once again Young Stribling demonstrates that he can fight when he wants to, knocking out Phil Scott in two rounds after having taken Otto Von Porat in one . . . . Which is the tipoff to Max Schmeling to catch the next cattle boat back to the States if he doesn't want the folks to forget that he is supposed to be the heavyweight champion . . . . Or did you ask what delayed Scott's knockout until the second round?

JAPANESE BASEBALL

Knute Rockne

The University of Chicago baseball team, which has been there before, is going to Japan this August. I cannot think of any finer educational trip for any group of young men. And don't think they won't get plenty of competition from those Japanese collegians. Whereas collegiate baseball in this country is dead as regards interest, three baseball games in Japan, between Keo and Waseda recently drew 125,000 spectators. The Japanese are wonderful fielders, but a little shy on hitting.

I never travel with the Notre Dame baseball team, but should our university receive an invitation to play baseball in Japan, that's one trip I'll be on.

Baldoni, Brannon Battle to Draw

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 29.—(AP.)—Gene Baldoni, 137, Wilkes-Barre, and Eddie Brannon, 136, Pittsburgh, fought a 10-round draw here last night. The fight was fast. The judges disagreed, and the referee called it a draw.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 29.—(AP.)—Abe Lichenstein, 149½, Rochester, beat Farmer Joe Cooper, 145½, of Terre Haute, Ind., here last night, in the 10-round main bout at the Rochester Sporting Club.

his joust with the Giants, Remy lost a six-inning game as a result of the appearance of a storm. The Pirates had the bases loaded with only one out in the seventh when the storm broke.

Manager Street may call upon Jess Haines, another splendid veteran, to toss the rocket for the visitors. Haines generally makes the battle tough for the Pirates when he faces them.

SUHR ON BENCH

Boss Ens says he will keep Gus Suhr on the bench for a spell when southpaws work against the Pirates. The Coast League slugger has been in a terrific slump. Ens benched Gus in the first game of the doubleheader in New York, the plan working out satisfactorily, George Grantham went to first base and Charlie Engle was stationed at second.

The Buccos were defeated, 13 to 8, yesterday at Reading by the International League club of that city. Paul Waner pitched a part of the game, he relieving Leon Chagnon.

Brother Paul connected for two homers. Ben Sankey also had a homer. Pete Scott, who formerly played the outfield for the Buccos, made one of three homers accredited the Reading club. Grace and Stack made the others.

The Pirates reached town this morning from Reading. The Cardinals spent yesterday here, getting in from Boston. The Pirates' score:

advantage of betting conditions, the affair is not likely to last more than a round or two. It will be a disappointing ending to Carnera's tour, as American fight fans had expected to see him tried out in a real fight before his departure. What developed to kill his proposed matches with Victorio Campolo and Jack Dempsey has not yet been made public, but the game will hardly suffer through the cancellation.

Bill Tilden

WHILE BILL TILDEN probably is done as a Davis Cup tennis player, leaving Henri Cochet to carry on as the leading light in that big annual international competition, he leaves behind him a record that may not be equaled by Cochet or any other luminary of the nets.

In 30 Davis Cup singles matches from 1920 to 1930, Tilden won 25 and lost only five. Three of his defeats were suffered at the hands of Cochet and two at the hands of Rene La Coste. During the same period he was victorious nine out of 11 times as a participant in doubles. His complete Davis Cup record shows 41 matches in singles and doubles, of which 34 were won against only seven lost. In a total of 157 sets, he was victorious in 107 and was defeated in only 50. Perhaps Cochet will be able to beat that before he reaches the end of his string, but the tennis world is waiting to be shown.

CENTER TENNIS TITLE PLAY OPENS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

The annual Pittsburgh center junior and boys' tennis championships swing into action under Pittsburgh Tennis Association auspices on the Carnegie Tech courts at 11 o'clock this morning. With almost a score of entries, representing nearly a dozen districts of Western Pennsylvania, set to compete in the junior division and a smaller than ordinary field listed for the boys, the tourney will run throughout today and tomorrow, with probability that the junior field will be held over until Thursday.

Topping the junior seeded array is Frank Broida, who last Saturday breezed through in straight sets to annex the men's singles crown in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph revival of the Pittsburgh public parks championships. If Broida lives up to the dope and adds the junior title to that of public parks premier, he will be in for quite a neat fortnight's vacation next month.

BROIDA FAVORITE

He is already slated to carry local colors as guest of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in the national public parks championships at Washington, D. C., the week of August 18, and, if he is able to grab off center laurels, he will be sent at the expense of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association to compete in the national junior tournament at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., the week of August 11.

The favorite contender, however, will have no smooth way to tread in seeking honors on the Tartan lot. Jack Redmond, seeded second, gave him a mighty tough four-set battle in the inter-park elimination semi-finals last Friday, while Chuck Arensberg, hard-driving Shady Side Academy captain, who rates number three, is likely to make it warm for the best of them, if his pace-laden ground strokes are clicking.

HERRMANN THREAT

Then, too, Jack Herrmann, Riverview Park champion, is a foeman worthy of serious consideration because of exceptionally powerful service and overhead, reenforced by steady, if not brilliant, baseline defense, with Paul Elliott, 1928 boys' victor, Edwin Clark, clever Beaver Valley entrant, and Bud Leyda, Bellevue protege of Bob Lampus, determined to have voice in the reckoning.

The contesting will be in direct charge of Jack Beatty, Stanton Heights captain, and Jack Lauler, P. A. A. star, both members of the center tournament committee. All players must report promptly upon scheduled time or face penalty of default, for facilities at the disposal of the committee are limited and the matches must be run off with dispatch in order to assure completion of the twin events not later than Thursday.

Bill Amos Beaten In Golf Tourney

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 29.—Eight players are left in the quest for the President's Cup, in annual match play for members of the Washington Golf and Country Club. Semi-final play will be completed by August 1, and the final matches staged before August 3.

Bill Amos, football mentor at Washington and Jefferson College, fell before the onslaught of W. C. Young in the third-round play.

Estimate U. S. Steel's Net for First Half At $6.50 Share.

The United States Steel Corporation's earning report for the second quarter will be published after the close of the market today. The estimate that it will show profit of around $6.50 for the first half of the year has been pretty well broadcast and there was some selling in the market yesterday on the assumption that the report had been discounted by the recent advance of the stock. Steel advanced within an eighth of a point of 170 Saturday but, according to reports in Wall street, at that level ran into a sizeable block of stock on the books which prevented it from going through 170.

Efforts of leaders of the bull movement in stocks to win an outside following appear to be having some measure of success, for brokers yesterday reported slightly better public inquiry for stocks as result of the performance of the market Saturday and the rise of leaders like American Can and United States Steel to new tops on the recovery from the June low. However, banking circles were said to have been maintaining a stand-off attitude and a considerable portion of the trading fraternity remained skeptical of the ability of the bull leaders to carry on the advance because the market had failed to remain in an accumulating area long enough to permit any substantial amount of investment buying.

Interests sponsoring the advance of stocks appeared to be casting around the list for new leaders to carry the market forward. With United States Steel and Radio showing signs of tiring in the forenoon yesterday, United Aircraft was brought forward to share the leadership with American Can, and bulls also had some success in bringing the utilities and the oils to the forefront again.

Rarely have single transactions in the market exceeded lots of 5,000 or 10,000 shares in the recent dull sessions on the Stock Exchange. Tape readers and board room traders, therefore, were statled yesterday by the appearance of a block of 48,000 shares of Phillips Petroleum at a concession of nearly a point under Saturday's closing price, the largest transactions which has appeared on the tape in sometime.

Many bankers and brokers advise caution, but there never was a substantial rise in the stock market that was not accompanied by notes of warning. A year before the last record-breaking bull market ended, brokers' loans were soaring and words of caution and warnings filled the air, but many stocks continued to advance, some of them 50 to 100 points or more. And some of those who were advising caution when stocks were that much lower, were not nearly as cautious when new peaks were being reached. The wise trader always is cautious.

Price of crude rubber and consumption figures make strange comparisons. Consumption of crude rubber in the first six months of the current year was the highest on record, with the exception of the total in the corresponding period of 1929. Consumption in the first half of the current year was 206.9 per cent above what it was in the corresponding period of 1921. Yet, no industry has suffered more unsettlement than the rubber industry, with prices of crude down to the lowest level in many years.

Air Brake Earns Net Of $1.26 a Share

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WESTINGHOUSE AIR BRAKE COMPANY maintained its earnings for the first half of the present year at a level nearly equal to those of the corresponding period of last year. Net profit after taxes and depreciation for the six months ended June 30, 1930, was $4,014,909 which was equivalent to $1.26 a share on 3,172,110 shares of no par capital stock. This compared with $4,048,532 or $1.27 a share a year ago.

Earnings for the second quarter showed a moderate decline but were still in excess of dividend requirements. Net profit was $1,827,459 or 57 cents a share. This compared with $2,187,450 or 69 cents a share in the preceding quarter and with $2,123,539 or 67 cents a share a year ago. Profit for the second quarter of this year was in excess of the second quarter of 1928 when $1,482,382 or 47 cents a share was reported.

Helped by Car Business

THE COMPANY WAS helped by increased railroad car construction last year and in the early part of this year. Recent orders for railroad car euipment have not been particularly heavy. As a result of this the demand for air brakes has been lighter during the past few months. This accounted for the drop in second quarter earnings as compared with those of the first quarter.

The results shown by Air Brake so far this year have compared very favorably with the statements of other industrial corporations, most of which have not been able to keep as close to the mark set last year as this company has done.

First	$2,187,450	$1,924,893	$1,447,968
Second	1,827,459	2,123,539	1,482,382
Third	....	2,115,678	1,720,113
Fourth	....	2,658,683	1,840,094
Total	$4,014,909	$8,822,711	$6,490,557

Outlook for Year

WITH DECLINING RAILROAD earnings, there are few signs of any marked increase in the buying of railroad equipment during the remaining months of 1930. It is unlikely that earnings of Westinghouse Air Brake will show any marked decline during the balance of the year but it is quite probable that profits in the second half of the year will be somewhat smaller than in the first half.

The demand for signal equipment was fairly good early in the year but railroads throughout the entire country are reducing their purchases in line with sharp reductions in revenues. It is generally expected that Air Brake will earn its annual dividend requirements of $2 a share for 1930 with a little margin to spare. In 1929 net profit was equivalent to $2.78 a share as compared with $2.04 a share in 1928. Profits for the year will be below 1929 but will probably exceed 1928.

Cash Position Strong

AN EXCEPTIONALLY STRONG cash position will permit Westinghouse Air Brake to pay a major share of its earnings to stockholders. At the close of 1929 current assets amounted to $46,234,926 against current liabilities of $4,492,658. Cash amounted to $9,056,824 and marketable securities were worth $17,663,794.

Reserve Members' Loans Decrease

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement on July 23 shows decreases for the week of $10,000,000 in loans and investments, $92,000,000 in net demand deposits, $14,000,000 in government deposits and $13,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve banks.

Daily Average Oil Output Decreases

TULSA, July 29.—Daily average production of crude oil in the week ended July 26 totaled 2,477,849 barrels, or a decrease of 28,433 barrels daily, according to Oil and Gas Journal.

Pennsylvania Bell Gets New System

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Acquisition of the Paupack Telephone Company by the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, was permitted in a decision today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which said the merger would be in the public interest.

The Paupack company operated a system in Lackawanna, Wayne and Pike counties. It owned four central offices and 50 miles of toll pole lines and 201 single miles of wire. Its subscribers numbered 136 in Hamlin, 208 in Lake Ariel, 118 in New Foundland, 88 in Wilsonville, and 550 telephones were in use.

International Shoe Gets Army Contract

NEW YORK, July 29.—International Shoe Company has received a contract for 200,000 pairs of army shoes at an approximate cost of $800,000.

KOLSTER PLAN PRESENTED

NEWARK, July 29.—The New Jersey Chancery Court has been asked to approve a plan for reorganization of the Kolster Radio Corporation and to order acceptance of an offer made to the receivers by S. P. Woodard & Co., Inc., who will underwrite the plan.

The offer is contingent on the willingness of Rudolph Spreckels, Frederick Diedrich and the National City Bank of New York, the three creditors to agree to the settlement of their claims. The claims are respectively $602,998, $756,537 and $1,198,541. Vice Chancellor Church has set September 16 for hearing the petition.

Under the reorganization, holders of 825,829 outstanding shares of Kolster common will receive one share of new stock for each three shares of old plus the right to buy one share of new stock at $10.50 for each new share issued in exchange, the new corporation to credit the Woodward Company against purchase commitment with $1.50 a share for each new share so purchased.

The petition also proposed that for the combined debt to Spreckels and Diedrich and the 80,000 shares of preferred stock held in their names 200,000 shares of new common stock will be issued to them and split between them at their option. To holders of the remaining 20,000 shares of preferred there will be issued two shares of new common for each old preferred share.

The corporation will be capitalized at 5,000,000 shares of no par common stock and an authorized issue of $4,500,000 6 per cent 10-year convertible debenture notes.

WORK ON STEEL ORDER BEGINS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 29.—The Republic Steel Corporation this week starts production on 50,000 tons of electrically welded steel tubing, representing an order received from Phillips Pipe Line Company. The tubing will be 8⅝ inches in diameter, and will go into the longest gasoline-carrying line ever constructed.

Because of its heavy backlog in steel pipe, the Republic Company's Youngstown plants are maintaining production at a high rate.

Wool Production Estimated Higher

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Preliminary estimate of the 1930 wool production shows that 327,989,000 pounds were shorn in the United States, the Department of Agriculture reports. This is 19,042,000 pounds, or 6 per cent greater than the revised estimate of 308,907,000 pounds shorn in 1929.

BEAR ATTACKS HALT STOCK RALLY

Losses Light in Pivotal Issues; Light Trading Laid to Floor Traders

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP.)—Bulls fortified themselves behind important industrial and utility shares, while bears played havoc in today's stock market in the merchandising and rail issues.

Losses in most of the pivotal issues were held to a point or two but among the carrier, chain store and specialty issues, there were numerous breaks of several points.

Trading was light and it was estimated in commission house circles that as much as 75 per cent of the business was for the personal accounts of floor traders. Most important banking interests appear to regard these handmade fluctuations of the market as inconsequential.

NEWS FAVORS BEARS

On the whole the day's news favored the bear cause. Speculators for the decline were quick to place an unfavorable interpretation on the victory of the high tariff party in Canada, estimating that retaliatory schedules may reduce our export trade to the extent of a few hundred millions annually. Also, Amtorg's threats to take its business elsewhere hold a prospect of a further reduction of $100,000,000 or more.

Much of the selling of the merchandising shares was evidently based on the New York Federal Reserve's estimate showing a drop of 21 per cent in wholesale business in this district in June, but wholesalers point out that they have slashed prices drastically since May, and that the reduction in the actual volume of goods from June of last year was probably not more than 10 per cent.

RAILS REPORT LOSSES

The fact that the first 60 roads reporting June net not only showed a drop of about 34 per cent from June, 1929, but more than 18 per cent from 1928, accounted for heavy selling of the carrier issues.

A few earnings statements which Wall street was glad to have out of the way made their appearance. As expected, reports of Southern Railway and National Cash Register showed dividends unearned. On the whole, however, earnings statements have not been as bad as anticipated. Standard Statistics Company has completed a compilation for the first 145 reports for the first half, and while the aggregate shows a drop of 16 per cent from last year, it is slightly above 1928.

The markets inability to break decisively through the resistance points reached on the rally on July 18, evidently has convinced the bulls that they must go slowly. The July 18 level was approached last Wednesday, and slightly exceeded yesterday, but each time heavy selling has appeared at that point.

LOSSES SMALL

General Motors was well supported, selling fractionally higher, and Dupont, which has a 23 per cent interest in it, sold up 3 points for a time. Losses in Radio, U. S. Steel and General Electric were held to narrow margins. During an intermediate rally in the morning Coca Cola sold up 3 and Eastman more than 4.

In the rails, such issues as Rock Island, Union Pacific, Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Southern, and Louisville and Nashville dropped 4 to nearly 10, the last two reaching new lows. Fags of 1 to 3 were numerous. In the chain store group, Safeway Stores dropped several points to a new low. Gillette reacted sharply. Bethlehem Steel was under considerable pressure, bears claiming that stockholders had been unfavorably impressed by recent disclosure of large bonuses to officers.

French Production Of Steel Smaller

PARIS, July 29.—June production of steel ingots in France totaled 770,000 tons, against 853,000 in May. Pig iron output in June amounted to 849,000 tons, against 899,000 in May.

STEEL OUTPUT UNCHANGED

NEW YORK, July 29.—There was no change in steel mill operations during the past week, the average being maintained around 57½ per cent as in the preceding week. Two weeks ago the industry was at 57 per cent.

United States Steel is running at nearly 64 per cent, the same as in the previous week and compared with 63 per cent two weeks ago.

Independents for the past three weeks have been at 52 per cent of capacity.

At this time last year United States Steel was at better than 100 per cent, with independents at 92 per cent, and the average for the industry was at 96 per cent. Toward the end of July, 1928, the Steel Corporation was running between 76 and 77 per cent, with independents at 70 per cent and the average was around 73 per cent.

MESTA EARNS $2 SHARE

Net earnings of the Mesta Machine Company for the first six months of 1930, after all charges including depreciation and federal taxes, amounted to $1,271,000, W. F. Wahr, president announced today. After deducting preferred dividends this was equivalent to slightly over $2 a share on 600,000 shares of common stock.

Unfilled contracts and orders on hand on July 1 amounted to $5,286,000. New orders and contracts, considering present business conditions, are coming in at a satisfactory rate. The volume of business on hand and the new orders in sight indicate earnings for the second half aproximately equal to those of the first half net for the full year will be about $4 a share compared with $2.81 a share in 1929.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 29.—(AP.)—Wheat today outdid any low-price record heretofore this season, whereas corn scored an early fresh advance. Breaks in wheat values were associated with a showing that the United States wheat visible supply is more than three times larger than usual.

Corn advanced on account of widespread absence of rain and because of a statement ascribed to Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board declaring corn crop conditions the worst since the corn famine of 1901. Opening unchanged to ⅝c off, wheat later showed downturns all around, but then rallied. Corn started at 1c setback to 1½c advance, and afterward showed a sharp general upturn.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—The upward trend of bond prices was fairly well maintained today, but showed no signs of attracting additional buying. The slow pace at which the market started the week ruled trading.

Activity centered in the domestic list and although there were few large gains the progress of the best grade rails and utilities was of the kind which has been slowly carrying prices into new high ground for the year.

Indications are appearing that offerings during the remainder of the summer will be rather meagre.

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column. United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Trading Activity Dries Up While Brokers Flee City's Torrid Weather

The lethargy of dog days continued to hang over the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Floor attendance was considerably reduced as the brokers took advantage of the opportunity to flee the city's heat to mountain, lake and seashore.

Transactions during the forenoon were unimportant in volume and fluctuations were confined to the smaller fractions. Odd-lot trades in the usually active leaders comprised the bulk of business. No definite trend was evident and the small fractional advances were offset by equally small declines.

The drying up of activity here was a partial reflection of the movement in New York where prices opened off moderately but met fair support and firmed up in the later dealings.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, July 29.—Wheat was due 1¼ to 1½ pence lower. Opened ⅝ to 1 pence off, and at 1:20 p. m. was ⅝ off. The market closed ¼ to ½d lower.

Steel Prices.

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—Steel unchanged.

NOW, in this quiet month, when you are not so busy as you will be later on, why not sit down with us and work out plans for the wise management of the property some day to be distributed under your will?

You know what you want done with your property. We know the modern methods you can adopt to make sure that the money you leave will be handled precisely as you wish.

120 Years of Service

The Bank of Pittsburgh National Association

226 FOURTH AVE.

It's a far cry from the blood-letting barber-surgeon of a few hundred years ago to the skilled artisan in the barber shop of today. Schooled in the niceties of perfect grooming and equipped with instruments of the finest steel and mechanical excellence, the modern barber is deserving of the greatest respect as a trained craftsman.

The service he performs is of no little importance, too. Careful grooming is as much a part of a man's appearance as finely tailored clothes.

Many of the barbers of Pittsburgh are already depositors at the Mellon National Bank. To the others we extend a cordial invitation to open accounts and to make use of the bank's facilities for handling financial transactions of any kind.

Standard Gas Corp. Injunction Denied

WILMINGTON, July 29.—An opinion has been filed in Chancery Court here denying the application of minority stockholders of Standard Gas and Electric Corporation for a preliminary injunction enjoining consummation of the purchase by the corporation of assets of Standard Power and Light Corporation. Date for a hearing of the application for a permanent injunction is to be set later.

It was alleged that Standard Gas purchased the assets of Standard Power at a grossly exorbitant price to the injury of the owners of the common stock of Standard Gas.

Tobacco Exports Up for Half Year

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Exports of all types of tobacco leaf showed an increase of approximately 17 per cent during the first six months of the current year, the Commerce Department reports. Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—Raw sugar was quiet early today and prices were unchanged at 3.32c for spots, duty paid. It was believed that nearby sugars could still be had at this level, but buyers were inclined to hold off, and the only new business reported was 30,000 bags of Cuban late yesterday for August shipment at the quoted price.

Renewed liquidation and selling by commission houses caused a slightly easier feeling in raw futures, but after opening unchanged to 2 points lower, prices steadied a little on covering and some buying of the distant positions by houses with trade and Cuban connections, with the list at midday net unchanged to 1 point lower. The volume of business was not very large and there appeared to be a disposition to limit aggressive operations and await fresh developments.

Refined sugar was unchanged as far as refiners' prices were concerned, which are quoted at 4.70c, but second hand sugars were said to be available at around 4.60c.

Forbes

Westerners Flock to Trade Luncheons; Writer Hears Of Prosperous Seattle

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

IN THE WEST, July 29.—Part of the day's work in this job of trying to be more or less of a national reporter is addressing gatherings of business men, usually chambers of commerce, and bankers. While it is true that Westerners play more, especially in the open air, than Easterners, I've been astounded at the size of some of these meetings; lunches attended by from five to eight hundred indicate how keenly interested Westerners are in business—and also, I sometimes suspect, how willing they are to show courtesy and hospitality even though it must, I fear, be boring. To see scores of busy men go without lunch because of overflow attendances, simply to listen thereafter to dry speeches, testifies to their earnestness of purpose.

Frankly, the Far West can't understand why the East, and especially Wall Street, has been acting as if the world threatened to come to an end.

At almost every stopping place, the head of the chief local association of business men has quoted facts and figures to show that things have been moving along unpanicky. Let me give a typical illustration.

"A few days ago I received a broadside from the Associated Salmon Packers of Seattle announcing that a million-dollar campaign will be launched August 1 to advertise throughout the nation the various uses of salmon, one of our basic products. This will mean a tremendous increase in business for our salmon packers. Auto registrations this year are 413,000, compared with 379,000 in 1929. The Puget Sound Power and Light Company is up 11 per cent from a year ago. Rainier National Park shows 26,000 cars, against 20,000 the previous season. . . ."

TOO MANY ARE taking a short-range view. Because every record of every kind is not being smashed this year, following last year's unprecedented boom, the doleful and thoroughly unjustified conclusion is jumped at that we should feel terribly alarmed.

Progress and growth, never fear, will be resumed—very probably in the very near future.

Counselling calm and courage, Mr. Hemphill presented these encouraging facts:

"Since 1919 Washington's sale of eggs have increased from 593,000 to 2,250,000 cases, worth more than $30,000,000. Take paper and pulp manufacture: In 1923 Washington had seven mills contrasted with 24 last year. They are using the slabs which used to go into a burner, a by-product of the lumber output. And this development is just beginning. In the first half of this year we sold more metered water than a year ago, and our number of telephones likewise increased. Our bank deposits have shown a steady gain every recent year.

"Seattle's water-borne imports in 1925 were 5,869,000 cargo tons; last year, 6,790,000. Our exports rose from 1,977,000 to 2,377,000 tons.

"All these and other facts indicate to me that there is no solid reason for us to fear that everything here is going to pieces overnight. We have a strong foundation of steady growth, also great natural resources, which cannot be altered regardless of the price which is quoted for a share of stock, which is a scrap of paper, on the New York Stock Exchange."

That ringing statement naturally aroused the audience to cheers.

HOW MANY rate reductions, think you, Puget Sound Power has made since the beginning of last year? No fewer than seven. And President A. W. Leonard has publically pledged still further reductions in 1931 and 1932.

The company's merchandise sales are fully 20 per cent higher this year than in the first half of last year. It has connected up 42,000 electric ranges, a record for any company in the world. Its residential customers consume 1,043 kilowatt hours a year, which is upward of twice the average for the country as a whole. Still more remarkable: Seventy-five per cent of the farms in the company's territory are now receiving electric service, against less than 10 per cent throughout the whole country. It is spending a round million dollars every month this year in construction.

IS IT NOT broadly true that good business depends mainly on good management?

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—The curb market found the advance increasingly difficult today. A resumption of the rise in the utilities during the earlier hours attracted profit taking, while the shorts became active in some sections of the list. For the most part, however, trading was dull and leading stocks maintained a fairly firm undertone.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

HOBBIES GOOD MEDICINE FOR BUSINESS MEN

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Business executives frequently find recreation in activities unrelated to the day's work, rather than in idleness. Nowadays, the flower of the nation's youth drifts into business. Accordingly, the hobbies of modern business executives are as varied as human tastes. In the summer period, more time is devoted to leisure pursuits.

Mr. Rukeyser

L. H. Robbins, talking to executives in the nation's business, advises:

"To be effective, a hobby should be a vigorous one. It should be able to unseat his rider at times and test all his resourcefulness.

"There is good medicine in doing a homely, elemental task. Gladstone knew it when he went into the woods with an axe. Mr. Average Citizen knows it also when he tunes up his car, or mows his lawn."

HOBBIES ARE VARIED

An inventory of hobbies of business men would run the whole gamut of human activities. Charles L. Bernheimer, New York wholesale drygoods merchant, is an expert on the desert country in Northern Arizona and Southern Utah; Dr. John A. Harris, New York realtor and financier, makes traffic control his hobby, and has served as deputy police commissioner.

Henry Ford's hobby, apart from camping in the woods, is collecting early American relics. Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, is a part time farmer. Otto H. Khan, the banker, is patron of the arts, especially of music and the drama.

Mortimer J. Fox resigned as vice president of the Manufacturers Trust Company to give his time to painting. Hubert T. Parson, president of the F. W. Woolworth Company, gets a kick out of raising orchids and playing organ music.

The late J. Pierpont Morgan was one of the most fastidious collectors of art relics of his time. B. Altman, the merchant, rivaled him in taste. The hobby of Waddill Catchings, the banker, is writing on economic topics. J. E. Barnard, a London hat merchant, makes a hobby out of the microscope.

Nearly every member of the stock exchange has a hobby. Golf is perhaps the greatest common denominator of hobbies.

INVESTMENT EXTREMES

In connection with the current unpopularity of investment trusts, the manager of one of the principal trusts, operating in Boston, writes this column:

"The American public seems to run to extremes in investment matters as well as in other things and the high premium which they are willing to pay for management in the case of investment trusts last year has now changed to a substantial discount. There is no question that, from the managers' point of view, investment trusts received their funds, in many instances, at a most unfavorable time, and it will require most adroit operation and some length of time for the managements of many trusts to overcome this initial handicap. In the meantime, a very bad taste has been left in the mouths of the investors.

"So far as the question of the superiority of the fixed trust over the general management type is concerned, our feeling is that the stockholders in the fixed trust sinks or swims with general market conditions—in other words, he simply buys the averages—whereas the stockholder in the general management trust may be expected to hope that his management will be better than the average while, at the same time, he runs the risk that they may not be."

HIDING OF ASSETS

In connection with the fashion of leading companies, especially in prosperous times, to hide earnings and assets, this column has pointed out that banks are frequently offenders in this direction. There appears to be a growing demand that banks, especially banks with security affiliates, publish more revealing accounting statements. It has been suggested that the investigation of banks, called for in Senator Glass' resolution, may go thoroughly into this question.

As a straw showing how the wind is blowing, the subjoined editorial comment by the American banker is pertinent. It points out:

"Affiliated securities companies now represent large fractions of the book value and earning power of many bank stocks. The unpublished facts of the profits and losses of these companies are important in their intrinsic and market values. They cannot be ignored. Any effort to appraise a bank stock on a reasonable basis involves consideration of these unknown elements.

"It follows that where discussion cannot get to the facts, it manufactures facts, according to the best 'grapevine information' that is to be had. Whispered rumors replace straightforward statistics. And the rumor: about this 'bank' or that bank;' for to the public, bank and security affiliates are one."

DAILY TRUE STORY

'I Want a Book!'

"I thought you'd come back, Tom."

Dr. Yeaton smiled at his handsome young nephew who sat with him on the cool veranda. He was fond of the young man who had taken his small inheritance and built it into a comfortable fortune in five years.

"I didn't intend to live there, Uncle Joe—but I saw the boom coming and stuck to it until I cleaned up."

"What are you going to do now, Tom?"

"Remodel the rest of those apartment blocks—10 per cent suits me. It will keep me busy—unless a man attends to that sort of thing himself he doesn't make much—agents don't care how much of the other fellow's money they waste."

Kirk Yeaton, Tom's cousin, came out and joined them. Kirk was just out of law school and about to hang up his shingle.

"I see—you intend to marry, settle down, and become a model citizen, eh?"

"Marry? Me? That's out," Tom declared.

His uncle shook his head.

"As your uncle, as a physican and as a well wishing friend, Tom, I advise matrimony. It keeps a man settled, it keeps him ambitious, it—"

Tom Yeaton turned a serious face to his uncle.

"Consider me a patient, Uncle Joe," he said, "consider that you have prescribed matrimony for me. Now, suppose you had prescribed ipecac or tincture of rhubarb . . ."

"Both good, in their homely way . . ."

"Listen, Uncle Joe, suppose you had prescribed ipecac, say, and it was agreed that it was a good prescription, but there wasn't any ipecac to be had so far as I could find—what then?"

Attractive Girl

"I've never seen one, and . . ."

He stopped and stared across the street.

A young lady was turning into the Widow Foster house. A beautiful young lady. She had removed her hat and the late afternoon sun glinted in her yellow hair. She paused at the gate to pick an old-fashioned cinnamon rose, then she went on, ran up the steps much as a bit of thistledown would be wafted on a zephyr, and entered the house.

"Who is the little goddess?" Tom asked. "I thought I knew all the girls here, but——"

His cousin Kirk's chuckle stopped him.

"Number six hundred and seventy-six," he said.

Dr. Yeaton smiled.

"What do you mean, Kirk?" Tom asked.

"That's your number. Already six hundred and seventy-five young men have fallen for the beautiful Bee—"

"Bee? Does she sting?"

"The name is Beatrice Thurlow, she does not sting, nor does she associate. She sells books—and when I say she sells books I mean that she sells books."

"Kirk must be No. 1 or No. 2 out of the six hundred odd young men who have fallen hard for the beautiful young lady, only to be turned down," the Doctor said.

"What do you mean she sells books, Kirk?" Tom demanded.

"I mean that she came here from Washington, bought the run-down Circle Book Shoppe, took the final p and e from the 'shoppe' and made a success of selling books. She boards with the Widow Foster—she does not flirt, she does not neck or pet or go to parties or take auto rides—she sells books."

"Yeah? Well, perhaps she can sell me a book," Tom said.

The next day a young man entered Miss Beatrice Thurlow's Circle Book Shop. He was a very diffident young man.

Miss Thurlow came forward. She didn't smile and she didn't frown. Her eyes were very pleasant.

"Yes, sir?" she said, with a questioning inflection.

The young man seemed embarrassed.

"Er—er—I want a book, if you please," he stammered.

Miss Thurlow permitted a flick of surprise to show in her big violet eyes. Then she smiled kindly.

"This is a book shop," she said. "What sort of a book do you want?"

"I—I don't exactly know, miss."

"You don't know what sort of a book you want?"

"No, miss."

"Do you want it for a door-stop or paper weight, or just to read?"

Understands

Miss Thurlow eyed him suspiciously.

The timid young man seemed terribly embarrassed.

"A book to read—if you please."

"That's what all books are for—do you wish mystery or romance or history or—or science?"

"Well, you see—that is—I've come on from the West—I've been working rather hard there and haven't had time to—to improve myself the way I believe I ought to be improved. I saw this book shop and thought—er——"

"Oh, I understand. Perhaps I can help you in a course of reading. Of course one book won't be much help—you need a course in reading—an extensive course. Pardon me, but have you had much schooling?"

"Well—I went to a high school. You see when I came on here I read something by a man who—who wrote that if a man would read the books he listed, an hour a day for four years, he would make a classical scholar of him. He gave a list of books, but I didn't keep the clipping and I can't remember—he wrote that some books ought to be bought and the others could be got from libraries."

"Oh, yes—now I understand. And you wish to start with one book at a time. Now I think you ought to get a foundation first——"

"You will have to be sincere. I wasn't joking."

"Sorry, miss—but I work around building construction and when you said I needed a foundation it made me think that I knew a lot about foundations."

"Many words have several meanings—I meant a foundation of knowledge. Have you read the Bible?"

"Yes, miss—twice."

"Splendid. Now you read this outline of world history first, read it carefully—then you will understand the other books better when you get to them."

"That's mighty nice of you, miss."

Quizzed

That evening Tom Yeaton sat in his room, glancing through an outline of history, but on every page he seemed to see a picture of the beautiful Beatrice Thurlow.

Three days later he entered the Circle Book Shop. It was mid-afternoon and no other customer was in the place.

"I—I want another book, Miss," he said.

Beatrice Thurlow stared at him in amazement, and again she was suspicious.

"Really, you ought to thoroughly digest that outline of history, then the volumes on general subjects will be more easily understood."

"I—er—I've read it, Miss."

"So soon? It had 790 pages and you couldn't possibly have read it—you might have skipped over it—look here—"

"But I read it carefully, Miss."

Beatrice Thurlow didn't believe him.

"Perhaps," she said icily, "you remember the names of the Roman coins."

"The as, semis, quadran and uncia," he answered.

Beatrice Thurlow flushed and stared in amazement.

"Who was the last king of Nineveh?"

"Assurbanipal."

She gasped. "Well, then," she said, assuming the air of a school teacher, "name one great figure in the history of Islam and the date of the appearance of the Neolithic man in Europe."

"Abu Bekr and 10000 B. C."

Beatrice Thurlow instantly smiled at the young man.

"I can see why you naturally want to improve yourself, you have a wonderful mind. I think you ought to read Gibbon's 'Rise and Fall of Rome'—and if you cannot—er—do not care to pay for the six volumes, suppose I let you borrow them from me."

He had moved into one of his several apartment blocks and he had told her quite frankly that he was a nephew of Doctor Yeaton and had been working hard out west.

Proposes

One late afternoon when he walked from the Circle Book Shop to the Widow Foster's with Beatrice, as he often did, he went across to see his uncle.

"Well, I notice that it looks as though number six hundred and seventy-six wasn't going to be turned down," his cousin said.

One day he dropped in to see Beatrice Thurlow.

"I want a book," he said.

Bee laughed.

"I'll never forget how funny that sounded when you first came into my shop, Tom, and said it," Bee declared.

"I want a confession book, Bee."

"I never heard of one."

"This little blank book will do." He bought it and a customer came in. He stood up at a shelf and proceeded to write in it. After the customer had gone he handed her the book and bade her read. She read:

"This is the confession of Thomas Yeaton. He was graduated from a college and a university, with several degrees. He did not want a book when he entered the Circle Book Shop—he wanted Miss Beatrice Thurlow, and he still wants her and if he doesn't get her God have mercy on his poor soul!"

Bee looked at him and turned red.

"You didn't fool me, Tom. No ignoramus could have educated himself as speedily as you seemed to do, no one who was ignorant could have answered my questions."

"Answer mine, Bee."

"The answer is in the affirmative, and if you don't know what 'affirmative' means, look in a diction . ."

A girl cannot finish a sentence when a man kisses her right on her rosy lips.

Lamar had an election, Monday, that nobody could remember. The writer inserted notice of election some days ago for the 23rd. But at the last minute, Monday evening, when a guy suggested, Don't you want to put in a little squib about the election tomorrow, the editor sat down and put in a ten liner, reminding folks to attend the election that had already been held.

It goes to prove that nobody will go out to vote.

The Police Promise To Clean Up the Hill

Inspector Albert Beebe's promise to close every unlawful resort in the Hill district sounds good, but he will have to excuse the public if it withholds its applause until the brave words have been followed by brave action.

It is strongly to be desired that Inspector Beebe shall fulfill his pledge, but it is strongly to be feared that he is "just talking." How can citizens fail to be skeptical when they consider the extent to which open vice has prevailed on the Hill without police interference? What motive is there for cleaning up the Hill now that did not exist before?

If gambling, bootlegging and the other forms of commercial vice were carried on secretly and elusively, there would not be such ground for cynicism. But what weight can be attached to any expression of intention to enforce the law when vice has flaunted itself openly before the public for many months without any serious move on the part of the police to stamp it out? Newspaper reporters, taxicab drivers and others whose work takes them into all parts of town and brings them into contact with all sorts of people state that the Hill district is wide open. When they report that the lid has been clamped down, it will be time enough to take off our hats to Inspector Beebe.

Let Licenses of Unfit Auto Drivers Be Revoked

Frank L. Duggan, chairman of the Better Traffic Committee, recommends that the licenses of automobile drivers who figure repeatedly in accidents be revoked. The recommendation is a good one, but consideration should be given to the possibility that a driver may have a number of accidents for which he is in no way to blame. The most careful of men may repeatedly meet irresponsible fools on the highway.

While participation in numerous mishaps should be regarded as prima facie evidence of unfitness to drive, and the burden of proof that he deserves to retain his license should be placed on the driver, he should not be summarily deprived of his permit, but first should be given a hearing.

Under existing regulations the State Highway Department has the authority—and frequently exercises it—to revoke the licenses of offenders against the automobile laws. Mr. Duggan no doubt has in mind revocation of the licenses of persons who, while guilty of no offense that could be taken into court, have shown by their many accidents that there is something in their makeup—some mental quality or physical disability—that makes it unsafe to entrust them with the operation of a car.

For some time the Department of Public Welfare, in cooperation with the Retail Merchants' Association and the University of Pittsburgh, has been making physical and psychological examinations of department store truck drivers who have had accidents. The drivers are not required to submit to the examinations—it is a voluntary move on their part to promote safety.

The tests have shown that things that do not seem even remotely connected with the accident may really be responsible. A man with trouble of some sort at home—the sickness or misbehavior of a member of his family, for instance—may become so absorbed in thinking about it while driving that he will be oblivious to conditions on the road and so come into collision with another car. Another may get into trouble through defective vision or defective hearing of which he was scarcely aware.

If other means fail to reduce auto accidents the time may come when all drivers who figure in mishaps will be compelled to undergo examination. Certainly, whether guilty of criminal offense or not, every motorist who is unfit to drive should be deprived of his license. No matter how good his intentions, how respectable his character, if he cannot keep his mind on the job, or is physically incapacitated, his permit should be revoked.

Pinchot's Questioning Of Court's Jurisdiction

Gifford Pinchot has boldly questioned the right of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court to pass on the Luzerne County perforated ballot matter. He says the Legislature has expressly denied the court jurisdiction in such a case. Whether or not the Forester's contention is correct will be ruled upon by the court itself. The jurists will, of course, be governed in making their decision by their interpretation of the law, and by that alone. If personal feeling entered into the matter they would no doubt be glad to agree with Pinchot and wash their hands of the whole disagreeable mess.

In the interest of fair play and democratic government it is to be hoped that Pinchot is right in his claim. If he is, and the court sustains him, the effect will be to relieve the people of Pennsylvania of the uncertainty that now prevails. If the court should deny Pinchot's contention, and should find the Luzerne ballots were illegal and throw them out, great confusion will be inevitable. The will of the Republican voters, in that event, would be defeated, and the nomination for governor given, through a technicality, to a candidate who was not the choice of the party.

If the Luzerne ballots had been perforated with a view to the commission of fraud, or by the voters of their own initiative, feeling in the matter would be different. But the voters themselves had nothing to do with it. The ballots were perforated by order of the Luzerne County Court to prevent fraud. That is why the possibility that the Supreme Court may declare the ballots invalid arouses such misgivings.

There will be widespread satisfaction if Pinchot is found by the Supreme Court to be correct in his view that the court lacks authority to interfere with the certification of the Luzerne County results.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Cementing Relations

The endurance records continue to fall like dandruff on a velvet collar.

Flagpoles are no longer the big things in the lives of great idiots. Shipwreck Kelly sat on a pole until he wore it down to a toothpick.

"Bugs" Baer

Jake the Plumber beat that by a whisper. He put molasses on the pole and ate it for an apple-on-a-stick.

John Fritzgoof, of Indiana, has been balancing a peanut on his nose for 16 weeks. This is to promote friendly relations between Bolivia and any other pink spot on the map.

Minnie Debris hold the international record for breaking porcelain of the Ming dynasty. Minnie is only a servant girl now but she hopes her sterling performance will earn her a job in the Metropolitan Museum. When Minnie is cracking dishes she goes splendidly among the Mings.

A voice on the subterranean speaking tube claims the furnace-hugging laurels for Oscar Ooscray, of Denver. Oscar has not been out of his cellar since the Volstead law was crocheted.

Ellokker Nobranes, of Pittsburgh, wins the goodwill tour in the bad lands of Dakota. Ellokker has just polka-dotted his vest with soup stains. He claims three million spots on an ordinary vest. The garment has been sent to the Bureau of Weights and Measures for verification and indorsement.

Ellokker claims it was a non-stop flight as his spoon was officially sealed and calibrated by the aviation authorities.

Tree-sitting is ordinary now. It got so prevalent that the last board meeting of the See-Saw National Bank was broken up early because the president had a date with his grandfather in a tree.

William Blotts O'What is champion dunker of July and environs. Bill dunked his wife in the ocean. But he forgot to un-dunk her. We think he is a professional dunker for he is writing a series of articles on wrist motions for woodchoppers for a big newspaper syndicate.

Joe Doaks and Mickey Finnister are still breaking the no-work contest into very small chunks of laziness. Joe and Mickey are on a park bench and doing fine.

First Joe loafs 12 hours. Then he is relieved by Mickey who bums the other half-day. They want Congress to credit them with two days for every legal holiday.

The happy couple are being fed once a month by Joe's wife. If they can keep this up we can soon expect Manchuria to remove the high tariff on the new German toothbrushes without bristles.

You may think these record-breakers are as foolish as a hairless Mexican dog lathering himself for a quick shave. But they all serve their purposes.

They cement better relations. And if we have to have relations we prefer them cemented.

AVIATION AND TELEVISION

By Archibald Henderson

The world as a whole wants to see and to hear everything of importance going on at a given moment anywhere in the whole world. The time is rapidly approaching when that will be an accomplished fact. It would be possible now to transmit, on the screen in various other theaters in New York, for example, a big New York popular stage success sold out for months in advance. It will soon be possible to throw upon the screen, simultaneously before immense crowds in distant cities, the Kentucky Derby or the Princeton-Chicago football game, as it is happening.

Johns Hayes Hammond, Jr., has worked out a remarkable device for guiding the aviator. Situated as he is, in his plane, he cannot perhaps see the terrain, the landscape, the obstructions, such as houses, trees, telegraph poles and wires. Hammond has at the transmitting station an exact, miniature model of the landscape over which the aviator is flying. Over this miniature field are three movable arms, representing the directive lines of the radio bearings.

Now these three arms intersect in what is known as a television eye. It is in the precise position above the model field that the plane is above the ground.

The television eye sees precisely what the aviator would see if his sight could penetrate the fog or darkness. The essential feature of the apparatus is that as the plane moves, the arms move, to enable the television eye to retain the exact relative position to the miniature field that the plane has to the actual landscape.

The miniature scene that the eye beholds is televised and flashed to the plane's pilot. He sees everything on a television screen located ahead of him on the instrument board. As the plane moves the pilot sees before him the exact scene that would be before his eyes if his vision was clear. He is, however, looking at a model, not reality. Every detail of the territory before him is faithfully reproduced, every shadow and angle, with the reality that a well executed model can give.

He sees approaching ahead a spire or clearly defined telegraph wires—even the position of other stationary planes on the field can be added to the model and transmitted aloft.

As the plane turns, the pilot watches the change of scene before him. As his movements are continuously followed, so the scene before him changes continuously. It is immaterial to the pilot whether he scans reality or a perfect copy of reality. He is only interested in his position relative to the earth and the objects upon it, and this he constantly sees clearly defined as a view, his own birdseye view, of everything below him.

This principle can be applied to shipping in the entrance to dangerous harbors, and the inventor hopes to see the introduction of his invention on steamers in the near future.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

He went up a ladder.

That didn't mean much to Theodore Craig. Going up ladders—even five-story extension ladders, was part of the day's work in his job as a Los Angeles fireman.

Firemen—they do things like that—and we let them.

And so, when the Chief assigned young Craig to practice drill, he tackled the Big Climb as a matter of course.

Like to do it? Probably not. What normal man would? Climbing five-story extensions—with the emptiness snarling beneath you and only a fly's grip between you and Nothing, isn't exactly a picnic for even the strongest nerves. But what's a fellow to do? Suppose there were a little kid trapped up there—or a feeble old woman—or just a helpless pup—with the flames licking nearer and nearer—would you stop to think you liked climbing or not?

Not if you were a fireman!

Not if you were young Theodore Craig, setting his foot steady and straight on the first rung, looking around with a grin to razz the other boys.

So up he went. Not thinking about himself. Not thinking of anything much. Just going on. Going on to do the thing he had chosen to do. Climbing a ladder the fire department had bought. The ladder he'd build of his own courage—his own sense of duty. Though you may be sure he called it by no such fine names!

Climbing—as he'd have to climb in a fire—

Practicing—because any minute he might be called—

Up and up... and up...

One story—two—three—

They weren't razzing now—

They were staring with a terrible tightness, down there below—as though by their very gaze they would hold him steady—

They were holding their breath—

Maybe he held his, too. Maybe his knuckles grew white about that frame—maybe his heart hammered and leaped against his ribs—

But his step never faltered—any more than it would have faltered if he had been climbing up to a child—

Up.... up....

A speck against the blue....

A toiling speck.... nearing.... nearing the top....

A young man rising above the streets . . . rising above his fear . . . climbing the ladder to—what?

Then suddenly—

A gulp of horror.

The ladder crumbled!

The practice drill was over—

Theodore Craig had been called—

He had climbed the ladder—to God.

Some day we'll die, you and I. Go out, perhaps as quick as that. I wonder how. Will we go lying soft in a bed or standing safe in a street?

Or will we go, as a fireman goes, mid-air? Go as we're climbing the slow, hard rungs of duty—the dangerous ladder of courage and sacrifice?

And those who watch us will say: "He's dead."

But will we, of a sudden, at last find life? And hear a voice speaking, through the smoke and flame—"Well done, dear child. The practice is over. The ladder is climbed. Come home!"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A joke about Chicago now is pretty near as common as a joke about a Scotchman. Well, most of the Chicago jokes are a bit more common. And it seems that the real reason why folks josh Scotchmen and Chicago is that they are both great successes.

A sheriff in a country town in Indiana captured a burglar that broke into a house in his town. The papers had a story about the brave sheriff, and the folks in the little town were all rushing downtown to buy their clothes for the trial. The town was pretty important when, all of a sudden there comes a telegram from the chief of police of Chicago.

"We're sending two cops after that guy you caught," says the message.

"We want him in Chicago. He's a burglar," is the answer.

But the sheriff wasn't satisfied. He wires back, "Ain't you got enough of them yet in Chicago? Can't you afford to let us borrow this little one until we get him tried?"

The Secret Garden

High were the walls of the garden
I made for my own delight,
Where only the sun and the winds could see,
And the stars peered down by night.
Violets white and lilies
Bordered its pathways cool,
And lovely lotus dreamed of the Nile
There in a placid pool.

Passers along the highway,
Out in the dust and heat,
Saw only a blank wall standing,
Nor guessed at my fair retreat.
Wanderers lone and longing
For beauty and peace, maybe;
So I took the garden wall away
That all the world might see.

Now I hear gay children's laughter,
As they watch the butterflies,
And I see the joy that gleams again
In old, remembering eyes.
Sweet was my hidden garden,
With its jasmine and roses fair;
But brighter than any secret place
Glows the loveliness all may share!

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

The smoothness of the curves may be interrupted by illness or under-feeding, and also by biological crises, such as metamorphosis (when weight is almost invariably lost) and sexual maturity.

Thus, broadly speaking, animals and plants are increasing by compound interest all the time; but the rate of interest is falling off progressively throughout life.

H. G. Wells

Final size depends upon two separate things—the rate of growth and the length of time which it continues. For instance, a man has a post-natal growth-period of over twenty years, a rabbit of about thirteen months, a guinea pig of about fourteen months.

Man and rabbits put on about the same average amount of weight per day—6 grams as against 6.3 grams—but a guinea pig only 1.8 grams. Thus men are larger than guinea pigs because they put on more weight per day, but rabbits are larger than guinea pigs, because they grow for a longer period.

If we take the average percentage increment as our standard of growth-rate, however, we find that man has the slowest growth of the three, his mean percentage increase for the whole of his growth period being only .02 per cent, while that of the rabbit is 0.50 per cent, and of the guinea pig 0.47 per cent.

It is more likely that some, at least, of the universal slowing in compound interest rate of growth is due to the difficulties arising out of mere bulk.

The animal or plant must draw its food and oxygen through some surface; the living substance that is to breathe or to be fed is a solid mass. And every one knows that if you double the linear dimensions of any object, a ball or a model yacht, you increase its volume eight times, its surface only four times.

Automatically, therefore, the increase of an organism's bulk slows down its capacity for supplying the cells with materials for growth. Caterpillars, for instance, alter but little in shape and proportions during growth. But they may increase a thousand times in bulk, and this will mean that the absorptive surface of their digestive tube has only been increased a hundred times—the proportion of the absorptive surface of the bulk to be nourished is only one-tenth of what it was when they hatched.

But this is assuredly not the only force at work in restraint of growth. It has been found that from old tissues a substance can be extracted which will damp down the growth of tissue cultures; from embryo tissue a substance which will speed them up, and it has been shown by Warburg that actively growing cells, like those of embryos and still more those of cancers, have different chemical habits from slower-growing cells; they need more sugar and, indeed, in some ways resemble the yeast cells in their metabolism.

Connect these facts with the further fact that certain extracts from yeast cells will increase growth in many animals, and you will feel that we are on the verge of important discoveries concerning the control of growth.

But these discoveries have not yet been made; meanwhile we must be content with these scattered intimations of their approach.

Typically, indeed, an organism has no fixed form; it is a bundle of organs and tissue all growing at slightly different rates, and so constantly changing its proportions.

By cutting growth short a term is set to this flux of growth change and an adult phase is achieved which is, within minor limits, fixed and stable, both as regards its size and its proportions; but this regulation of size and shape, like the regulation of body temperature or blood composition has only been achieved by the higher types of animals.

Let us add here a remark or so upon the growth of different parts of the body relative to one another. This differential growth is of the greatest importance, since if one region did not differ from another in growth-capacity and growth-rate we could never achieve a characteristic shape, but should remain as undifferentiated as we began.

Abroad With A New Yorker

By O. O. McIntyre

THE HAGUE.—My ideas of Holland were plucked chiefly from Dutch cleanser ads, and music revue numbers featuring bright red windmills, a chorus in starched blue pantaloons, wooden shoes and baggy caps singing "Tulip Time." Windmills are still here, but costumes might be by Moe—walk up and save $10—on Sixth avenue.

Only peasant children wear wooden shoes any more—pink-cheeked little rascals, as roly-poly as butter balls. But farmlands from Antwerp to The Hague offered the story-book coloring. High tile-roofed barns with clocks inset over doors and black and white Holsteins against the billiard-table green of flat countryside.

Farm produce carts are drawn largely by panting Newfoundland-like dogs, harnessed underneath. Roadways, the best in the world, are lined with hackleberry trees and giant elms, and the woods are ablaze with purplish rhododendrons. Belasco could not think up such entrancing vistas. Holland is below sea level—hence its marshes.

Everywhere is evidence of the Netherlands' chief industries—cheese-making and bulb-growing. The industrious hausfrau, for whom Holland is noted, exhibits her handiwork in brightly scrubbed doorsteps, blooming window-boxes and glistening clear window-panes. It is a custom to scrub fronts of homes weekly.

The humblest cottage sings a clarion "Home, Sweet Home." Your admiration for these thrifty, never-warring folk rarely sags. You are warmed by the simple sincerity. I indulged a roseate dream of a pink cottage with green blinds on the edge of the Zuyder Zee—an asphalt slave clutching at a frozen desire.

The loveliest village I ever saw was Delft, famous for its blue and white ceramics. It offered the fragile suggestion of a Dresden china doll, a rustically emphatic spot with its heavily-shaded streets, rows of brilliant lintels, shining knockers and white rose-bushes with blood-veined leaves. Why will we live in cities?

The Hollanders with flaxen hair, cold blue eyes and high coloring strike you at first as phlegmatic and unemotional. We have all heard the jeer—"a wooden-headed Dutchman." Yet no mortals could live such a close-knit family life without an extraordinary sentimentality. But here is The Hague!

My first impression of The Hague was not of the peace symbolizing Holland's unfailing neutrality, or of its aristocratic wealth or international lawyers in frock coats and high hats carrying gold-knobbed canes. I shall remember The Hague for two things: The hotel bell boy in a uniform of light blue who came down hotel steps to meet us wearing white spats, and projecting window mirrors that permit housewives to see everything in either direction along the sidewalks without leaning out their windows.

The Hague's stiff aura of culture fairly crackles. On the verandah of The Wittebrug, where I clawed half way through an Edam cheese, there were at least 12 gentlemen who could pass for Charles Evans Hughes. The ladies were silver-haired lorgnette lifters and conversation was in polite whispers. I would pop in all merry and bright with a grassy green shirt and a bull dog. Just another uncouth American.

After lunch we saw the famous peace palace and strolled to the Zeekant—the seaside at The Hague's doorstep. The Zeekant is Holland's Atlantic City, with huge hotels and enormous pier, but ultra circumspect and without roller chairs, one piece bathing girls, salt water taffy and such. Everybody sat in wicker chairs under several plain sun umbrellas. I wanted to dash to the surf shouting. "The last one in is a soandso!"

The Park Avenue of The Hague is a promenade with triple roadways, bicycle paths and canopied with leafy oak branches. It is called "Oude Scheveningsche Weg," unless the fellow I asked was overcome with a sneeze. On the walk I saw a van load of men in what appeared to be one of our patrol wagons. I was told it contained the Queen's night shift of servants. The Queen's palace is at the end of the "Oude," a simple two-storied structure of pure English design in white stone.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Why be so doubtful of yourself?

What is the reason for your increasing lack of confidence?

Is it because you have made some errors in judgment?

Because you feel so skeptical about your own ability are you permitting many opportunities to pass without taking advantage of them?

Your errors may have been serious ones, but you should not allow them to influence your whole life.

Mistakes are made by everyone who does anything worth while.

Those who have never made errors have not attempted to do anything exceptionally well.

They have been contented with simple routine.

Routine is fine in its way, but you won't get anywhere doing things so simple that you can do them by rule.

The errors you made when you tried to branch out were made because you did not take the time nor give the concentration you should to get results.

Mistakes of that sort should not be easily excused or overlooked.

If inattention is the cause of most of your mistakes you deserve the censure you have received and have occasion to feel doubtful of yourself.
